SAYS DISSENSION CAUSED HIM TO QUIT SCHOOL BOARD

Dr. H. L. Wolfner, Who Resigned Last Night, Declares Reasons Were the Same as Those of Dr. Withers.

"NOT IN HARMONY WITH THE MAJORITY"

One or More Other Members Expected to Leave Body in Fall; Dr. Payne Quitting Teachers' College.

The resignation of Dr. Henry L. Wolfner from the Board of Education, tendered without explanation at a meeting last night, was prompted by lack of harmony in the board, he said today. Dr. Wolfner, who is an oculist and lives at 4563 Forest Park boulevard, has been a member of the board for nine years and was once president. His term has three years to run.

"I am resigning for the same reasons for which Dr. John W. Withers, who was Superintendent of Instruction, resigned, and for which Dr. E. George Payne, principal of Harris Teachers College, intends to resign," said Dr. Wolfner; "namely, I do not feel I can do constructive work in this board. I am not in harmony with the majority element and I do not feel that some things they have done have been right.

Health Not the Cause.

"It was intimated that my health was the cause of my resignation, but my health is all right and has nothing to do with the matter. I said nothing about my health in offering my resignation. I would have said nothing about my reasons, at all, if it had not been stated I was quitting because I was not well.

"Dr. Withers made certain charges against some members of the board which had never been denied. Dr. Payne has felt that his work was being interfered with by some members of the board, one especially, whom I should not like to name. This group could not hamper me, save to make things inharmonious. I am not ready to go into details of what is the matter with the board."

Dr. Wolfner's resignation is effective after the next meeting, July 11.

President Tobin of the board said today, when informed of Dr. Wolfner's statement, that he was not aware of any lack of harmony in the board.

Denies There Was Dissension.

"There have been some differences of opinion between members," President Tobin said, "but that it is to be expected in any sort of a board. There has been no dissention. The trouble that arose at the time of Dr. Withers' resignation has not reappeared, but I can understand that talk might connect the resignation of Dr. Payne and Dr. Withers, for Dr. Payne, who was an instructor at Teachers' College, succeeded Dr. Withers there as principal when the latter became superintendent.

"There was some little matter that arose not long ago about something in connection with text books and Dr. Payne. There was some correspondence between him and the superintendent's office, but the matter was handled by a committee and I do not know what it was all about. I know of no way in which any member of the board has harassed Dr Payne."

Dr. Payne to Go to New York.

Dr. Payne said today that he had no comment to make on the reference to trouble he had had. He said his resignation would be mailed to Supt. Maddox during the day. He has announced that he would accept a position with Dr. Withers at New York University in the autumn.

The talk in political circles has been that Mayor Kiel would appoint Mrs. Rachel S. Michael of 4384 Westminster place, widow of Elias Michael, a former member of the board, to succeed Dr. Wolfner. She was a candidate for the board in 1920 and was defeated by Wagner by a close margin. She had the indorsement of the League of Women Voters. The Mayor said today that he had not considered whom he would appoint and would not make the appointment before July. The appointment would be until next April.

Johnson Expected to Resign.

Another member who, it is definitely expected, will resign, is Christopher W. Johnson, chairman of the Finance Committee, who will start on a tour of the world next autumn. He has declined to discuss the possibility of his resignation. Harry A.

DIVINING ROD FINDS JESUIT'S TREASURE LOST FOR 300 YEARS

By the Associated Press.

PENETANGUISHENE, Ont., June 14.—Buried beneath the waters of the River Wye for more than 300 years, the long-lost treasure box of the Jesuit Mission to Huronia has been located at last by the needle of a magnetic divining rod.

It lies beneath 20 feet of water and mud. Divers are starting to raise it. Just what the box will show when it is brought to light is a matter of conjecture, but the needle shows that it cantains metal in great quantities.

This treasure is verified by records of the Society of Jesuits, which show that one of the seven big boxes brought into New France in the year 1650 and laboriously carried to Fort Sainte Marie by canoe was lost and never recovered.

300 BODIES RECOVERED AFTER FLOOD IN CITY OF SAN SALVADOR

Torrential Rainfall of Two Days Caused Two Rivers to Overflow and Join in One Stream.

By the Associated Press

SAN SALVADOR, Republic of Salvador, June 14.—Three hundred persons are known to have been drowned and many persons are missing following an abnormal rise in the Acelhuate and Arenal Rivers, which overflowed their bands and joined together in one stream, inundating the Candelaria district of this city. Several houses were swept away by the raging torrent.

The bodies of 300 men, women and children already have been found. The flood was caused by a two-day torrential rainfall. The Government has sent a relief expedition here.

CONGRESSMAN HARRISON SAID NOT TO BE ENTITLED TO SEAT

By the Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The House Election Committee adopted a report today declaring that Representative Thomas W. Harrison, Democrat, of the Seventh Virginia District, was not entitled to his seat and that the seat should be given to John Paul, Republican contestant.

There was no record vote by the committee, but Democratic members announced they would file a minority report, the understanding being that they would hold that Paul, on the face of the new returns, should not be seated. General violation of the Virginia election laws was found by the committee, its report stated.

TEAR GAS USED TO REPEL MOB THAT ADVANCES ON JAIL

Wild Night in Jackson, Mich., Follows Confession of Former Convict That He Killed Girl With Ax.

BROTHER OF VICTIM IN DEMONSTRATION

Prisoner Finally Spirited Away and Now in Charge of Coroner—Search of Jail Permitted.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JACKSON, Mich., June 14.—Coroner John Mills is in hiding today with John Straub, alleged confessed murderer of Miss Alice Mallet, following an all-night siege of the county jail by a mob—the wild night ever experienced in Jackson. The mob was led by the dead woman's brother, Harold Mallet of Ontario, Ore., who came here Monday to take the body of his sister home. Threats to lynch the prisoner were heard as soon as rumors of his confession reached the streets.

Straub, former Jackson Prison inmate, is said to have admitted attacking Miss Mallet with an ax as she neared the Florence Crittenden Home, of which she was matron, last Thursday night.

First reports of the confession were circulated at 9 p. m. Within half an hour fully 1000 persons were about the jail. They milled back and forth—lacking a leader—held from the building by a half-dozen State troopers, with drawn automatics.

Woman Assumes Leadership

Then Mrs. Helen Ryall, a mother of three children, entered the crowd. Elbowing her way to the front, she cried:

"Come on boys. Have you no mothers or sisters? You know what to do, don't you?"

For the first time the pack pressed forward, pushing its leader before it. Sheriff Larrabee, emerging from the building, spoke to the crowd. He told them the prisoner was not in the jail and begged them to go home.

For more than an hour, the mob surged back and forth, being beaten back by armed troopers on the steps. Nobody saw the coroner's car slide from the alley in the rear of the jail with three passengers.

Finally Deputy Sheriffs met the onslaught of the would-be lynchers with a cloud of tear gas. The attackers fell back in confusion, rubbing their eyes.

Brother of Victim Appears.

"Boys," he shouted, "out where I come from justice travels fast.

"I am Alice Mallet's brother. I'd like about 20 men to follow me."—His speech was interrupted when a hundred stepped forward. The troopers beat them back with clubs, while deputies again brought tear gas into play.

For a few minutes it appeared certain the mob would overrun the building. Then the front ranks, blinded by acrid fumes, fell back into those behind, dropped off the porch into the arms of the crowd and recommenced the endless surging.

A renewed onslaught carried the besiegers up on the porch. It was evident the officers could not cope longer with the mob. The siege had gone on for two hours.

Sheriff Again Appears.

Warned that another attack was imminent, with little hope of stemming the besiegers, Sheriff Larrabee appeared and addressed the crowd again.

"The prisoner is not here," he announced. "State police are in readiness to come here. We will have no violence. I will permit a committee to inspect the jail. You may search it from bottom to top."

Finally a committee of seven searched the jail and the Sheriff's residence. It was more than half an hour later that the committee, crestfallen, reappeared.

"He's gone," they announced.

"John Mills went down Main street an hour ago, a mile a minute," a young man yelled. "Then we'll get Mills," was the angry response.

A dozen cars were on their way within a minute and others joined the chase. The rest of the mob slowly dispersed.

Disguised as Fireman.

The officers admitted they had spirited Straub out in the guise of a fireman. They would not divulge the direction in which he had gone.

Rare Disease Fatal to Shipping Board Officer

Occoidicidal Granuloma Causes Death of A. J. Frey—Only 60 Cases of Malady Have Been Recorded in 23 Years.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 14.—Succumbing to occoidicidal granuloma, one of the rarest diseases known to medical science, A. J. Frey of Los Angeles, vice president of the Shipping Board's Emergency Fleet Corporation, died yesterday afternoon at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Frey had shown every sign of recovery when he suffered a convulsion and succumbed.

Frey was taken to the institution April 3 from Washington. At the time it was thought he was suffering from orthritus, an infection of the joints similar to rheumatism, but he was able to get no relief.

On being admitted to the hospital Frey asked for a radiophone. This was installed by Washington friends and he seemed to derive pleasure from the instrument.

Known to the medical science for 23 years, 60 cases of the disease have been recorded, and in these there have been only three recoveries. The disease is caused by a spore of yeast-like formation and is contracted through the respiratory tract or small abrasions of the skin, attacking the bones and giving rise to a form of rheumatism. Occasionally it attacks the lungs. It was discovered and identified by physicians of Leland Stanford University, who investigated the deaths of victims in San Joaquin Valley region.

REDRAFTED SHIP SUBSIDY BILL INTRODUCED IN HOUSE

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The administration ship subsidy bill, redrafted by the House Merchant Marine Committee, was introduced today by Chairman Green of the committee.

The bill was referred to the committee which will meet tomorrow with the expectation of reporting it as speedily as possible. Democratic members of the committee saw a draft of the measure today for the first time, and it is understood they plan to file a minority report opposing it in veto.

GERMANY TO PAY 50,000,000 MARKS TO ALLIES TOMORROW

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, June 14.—The German Government notified the Reparations Commission today that it would pay the regular monthly installment of 50,000,000 gold marks tomorrow, the date fixed for this payment. The commission, it was announced, will send another note to Germany this evening requesting further minor improvements in the budget and in the arrangements for financial reforms.

THRONGS VISIT M'HENRY FOR KEY MEMORIAL EXERCISES

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 14.—Francis Scott Key's memory, to be honored today with the unveiling of a monument to him, erected by Congress near the spot in historic Fort McHenry, over which floated the "Star-Spangled Banner," immortalized in his poem, made the place the mecca of a throng which gathered there long before the hour fixed for the arrival of President Harding, who is to accept the memorial for the nation.

Motoring from Washington, the presidential party is to be met at the city line by Mayor William F. Broening and members of the reception committee and after a short tour of the city, proceed to the Emerson Hotel for luncheon.

The hour set for the exercises to begin at the memorial is 4 o'clock, but the President is expected to reach Fort McHenry earlier and visit disabled soldiers at the public health service hospital.

TURKS ACCUSED OF SLAYING 1300 WOMEN AND CHILDREN

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 14.—Charges that 1300 Christian women and children were taken by the Turks from Samsun on the Black Sea to the interior and massacred near Kavak two weeks ago are contained in a telegram received by the Greek Defense Committee here from Archbishop Meletios Metaxakis, Greek Patriarch of Constantinople.

PRIDE CAUSE OF DEPORTATION

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 14.—Signora Anita Motti, wife of a banker in Milan, Italy, might be admitted to America if she would style herself a domestic servant, but she has too much pride to do that, and so she is going to be deported. Because Italy's quota of immigrants for the month had already arrived Signora Motti was taken from her first cabin quarters to Ellis Island when the Reliance steamed into the harbor Friday.

"They told me at Ellis Island that I could appeal to the Washington authorities and style myself a femme de chambre, but I would not do that," she said. "I am a gentlewoman and I would not say I was a servant to be admitted to the United States or any other country."

148 ST. LOUISANS OFF ON TRIP TO GERMANY

Pilgrimage Arranged by Germania Saengerverein—Other Delegations to Join.

Amid cries of "Auf Wiedersehen" to the large crowd of friends and relatives at Union Station to see their departure, 148 persons, many born in Germany and the rest of German descent, departed in a special train over the Wabash this morning for New York, where they will take the Cunard steamer Carolina Saturday for Hamburg, to spend the summer in Germany.

The excursionists, about equally divided as to men and women, with a sprinkling of children, will scatter to various sections of Germany after reaching Hamburg. The party, arranged under the auspices of the Germania Sanger Verein, includes persons from Kansas City, Omaha and other Western points. Other passengers will be picked up through Illinois and large delegations at Detroit and Buffalo. On leaving Niagara Falls, where half a day will be spent, the train will be carrying nearly 250 passengers.

Only a few of the excursionists are traveling first-class, representatives of the Cunard Line saying that about 60 per cent had booked for second-class passage and the remainder for third.

The group going third included the wife of a waiter and her three small children. She was making her first visit to Baden-Baden since her wedding trip back there in 1912. She has a mother to see and will visit the graves of two brothers killed in the war. "My wife's been a good housewife and has worked hard to help save for the trip," her husband declared.

Seen at Station.

A. J. Warnusz in Charge.

The party is under the charge of A. J. Warnusz, one of the local Cunard agents, and Wilhelm Lorenz of 2230 South Tenth street, president of the Germania Saenger verein here. Lorenz, a gray-bearded man of 78, who is making his third trip, has spent six months in arranging for the excursion. He is taking several boxes filled with song books, from which the members of the society will sing on the train, and especially at night at sea.

In the hurry before the departure of the banner-covered cars, almost all the party and their friends conversed in German. There was much shouting and waving of hands and a few tears as the train got under way.

SPANKED, LAD HANGS HIMSELF

Kansas Schoolboy Ends Life Because His Mother Punished Him.

By the Associated Press.

EMPORIA, Kan., June 14.—Because his mother had spanked him for teasing his baby sister, Herbert Johnson, a 14-year-old schoolboy, hanged himself in a barn this morning. The boy's father, George A. Johnson, found the body when he came home from work at noon. The boy had been dead only a few minutes.

46 SALOON MEN TRAPPED BY "COAL DRIVER" AGENTS

13 OF OFFENDERS TO APPEAR TODAY

33 Others, Charged With Selling Liquor, Have Given Bonds; Hearing Friday, Saturday and Monday.

Forty-six St. Louis saloon keepers have discovered that a begrimed coal truck driver and his helper, to whom they unhesitatingly served liquor at various times last week, were Federal prohibition enforcement agents from Washington.

Thirty-three of the saloon keepers gave bond before United States Commissioner Adkins yesterday and 13 others have been notified to appear today. Preliminary hearings of the unwary have been set for Friday, Saturday and Monday.

The enforcement agents were Robert P. Samarnick and J. D. Taylor, who recently have been working in Kansas City and who came to St. Louis at the request of Gus O. Nations, chief enforcement agent in St. Louis.

Smeared Their Faces.

They obtained a two-ton truck, loaded it with sufficient coal to be conspicuous, donned overalls, smeared their faces to a degree commonly attained by coal drivers in summer, and began their rounds. They stopped the truck directly in front of the saloons they entered. This and their appearance of honest toil obtained ready response to their requests for liquor. They continued the rounds for six days last week and on Monday.

In each case they departed without disclosing their identity and saloon keepers were totally in the dark when they later received summons to appear yesterday and today in the office of the United States Commissioner. The "coal driver and his helper" were in the Commissioner's office when the saloon keepers began to appear, and if any failed to recognize their former customers the reading of warrants quickly enlightened them.

Men Who Have Given Bonds.

Owners and bartenders in the following saloons appeared before the Commissioner yesterday and were released, after giving bonds, commonly $1000: Alexander Robertson, 2837 Chouteau avenue, and Decatur Leak, bartender; Albert Gallmeier, 1116 Franklin avenue, and Milton Henry, bartender; Frank Obrenski, 1433 North Tenth street, and Frank Manozkowski, bartender; John Schrant 6015 Vandeventer avenue, and Andrew Laduca, bartender; Bartolemeo Castelli, 1201 North Seventh street, and Mike Lupo, bartender; Antonia Ginnochio, 3900 Enright avenue, and Lee Devoto, bartender; George Glich, 1000 Mississippi avenue, and Sam Kopnivicia, bartender; Peter Vukovich, 2302 Chouteau avenue, and Simo Avdalovich, bartender; Joseph Yakopivich, 3503 Chouteau avenue, and Ray Milosevich, bartender; Dennis Dowling, 3801 Easton avenue, and Everett Boggs, bartender; Louis Viviano, 700 O'Fallon street, and his wife, Katherine; Zeferin Cardile, 820 Carr street, and his wife, Mary; Raffaele Grandenette, 2200 Carr street, and Vittorio Mirobelli, bartender; Mike Balosi, 2651 Chouteau avenue; Mike Siaus, 2138 Franklin avenue, and Sam Shaus, bartender; Frank Berra, 2700 Chouteau avenue; Tony Costa, 1000 North Sevents street, and Sam Costa, his son.

ANOTHER BRAIN SPECIALIST LEAVES BERLIN FOR RUSSIA TO GIVE AID TO LENINE

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, June 14.

ANOTHER German specialist has been summoned to attend to Premier Lenine of Soviet Russia, it was stated here today. Prof. Flechsig, a leading brain authority, has been asked to leave immediately for Russia.

The Independent Socialist Freiheit declares today that a triumvirate will take the places of Premier Lenine in Soviet Russia during a six months' absence from Moscow, which his health will oblige him to take.

The three men who will hold the reins, according to this newspaper, are J. V. Stalin, Leo Kameneff and A. I. Rykoff.

Washington Hears Lenine's Illness Is Serious.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—A message from Riga which reached Washington today said the illness of Lenine, head of the Russian soviet government, was serious, but nothing in the cablegram indicated whether his condition was as critical as reported within the last few days.

TOMORROW LAST DAY TO PAY 2D U. S. INCOME TAX INSTALLMENT

No Time Extensions to Be Granted, Federal Officers Say—Of 22,000 Due, Only 9000 Have Been Paid.

Tomorrow is the last day for the payment of the second installment of the 1921 Federal income tax without penalty for delinquency and officials of the Internal Revenue office have warned that all of the penalties provided by law will be assessed against delinquents without the granting of any extensions in time.

The penalty for failure to pay the installment when due is 5 per cent additional, with 1 per cent added for each month the amount remains unpaid. All of the tax becomes due and payable immediately on default and the Collector may, within reasonable time, issue warrants in distration against delinquents and seize and dispose of their personal property to satisfy the assessment. Of 22,000 taxpayers from whom payments are due in this district only 9000 had paid at the close of business yesterday.

WILSON SENDS MESSAGE TO PENNSYLVANIA DEMOCRATS

"Redeeming Country and Liberal Forces of World" Cause as Viewed by Former President.

By the Associated Press.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 14.—Democratic State headquarters yesterday made public a telegram from Woodrow Wilson in reply to a message of greetings sent by the Democratic State Committee during its reorganization meeting yesterday. The telegram follows:

"The message from the Democratic State Committee has cheered and pleased me very deeply. Please extend to my party comrades my hearty greetings and express to them the pleasure I feel in looking forward to the opportunity to work shoulder to shoulder with them in the cause of redeeming the country and the liberal forces of the world. Pray accept also my personal greetings. I am sure that the committee is inspired in its work by the right ideals."

MINEOLA, Tex., June 14.—Two rear sleeping cars on the Sunshine Special, the Texas & Pacific train due in Dallas at 2:05 this afternoon, jumped the track at Lake Fork, nine miles east of here, at noon today, injuring 15 persons, some seriously. The coaches plunged down a 25-foot embankment and turned completely over.

PASSPORTS RULES SIMPLIFIED

Documentary Evidence as to Purpose of Visit Not to Be Required.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Revised passports regulations announced yesterday by Secretary Hughes, simplify requirements for Americans desiring to go abroad.

Holders of passports issued since Jan. 3, 1918, under the new regulations, will require no further identification in obtaining new passports to any part of the world. The requirement of documentary evidence as to the purpose of the intended visit has been withdrawn and Americans seeking passports need only to state their business in general terms in making application.

OLIGARCHY OF FIVE RULES NATION, SAYS LA FOLLETTE

WOULD LIMIT POWER OF LOWER COURTS

Speaker Proposes Amendment to Constitution to Prohibit Them From Declaring Act of Congress Unconstitutional.

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, June 14.—Asserting that by a "process of gradual encroachments," the country's Federal courts have "wrested sovereignty from the people," Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, speaking here today before the American Federation of Labor convention, proposed a constitutional amendment denying the lower courts power to set aside a Federal law as unconstitutional and providing for Supreme Court nullification of any such decision by reenactment of the statute.

Citing the recent decision by the Supreme Court holding the child labor tax law as "typical of the conduct of the Federal judiciary and particularly the Supreme Court, whenever Congress has sought to enact progressive and humane legislation which was offensive to great financial interests," Senator La Follette declared the supreme tribunal of the country was "today the actual ruler of the American people."

"Five Members Rule People."

"The law is what they say it is," the Wisconsin Senator continued, "and not what the people through Congress enact. Even the Constitution of the United States is not what its plain terms declare, but what these nine men construe it to be. In fact, five of these nine men are actually the supreme rulers, for by a bare majority the Court has repeatedly overridden the will of the people." * * *

"The nine lawyers who constitute the Supreme Court are placed in positions of power for life, not by the votes of the people, but by presidential appointment. Ex-President Taft was made Chief Justice by President Harding. Thus a man was invested with the enormous prestige and influence of Chief Justice by presidential appointment who had been repudiated by the voters of the United States on his record. No one will contend that he could have been elected Chief Justice by vote of the people. And yet Chief Justice Taft wrote the opinion that annulled the child labor law; he wrote the opinion in the Coronado Coal Co. case. In making this observation I level no criticism at the personnel of the court. I am dealing with fundamentals.

Some Judges Tyrants, He Says.

It cannot be denied that "we are ruled by a judicial oligarchy," the Senator asserted, adding that while many of the minor Federal Judges "sharing the sovereign power" of the Supreme Court, were "excellent and enlightened men, some of them, notably Judge Anderson, of Indiana, and Judge E. McClintic of West Virginia, "have in my opinion, shown themselves to be petty tyrants and arrogant despots." In assuming to pass upon the constitutionality of many laws enacted by Congress, the Federal courts, La Follette declared are not only exercising a power not conferred in the Constitution, but which the Constitution convention, he said, four times went on record as opposed to granting, when it was proposed that Judges should have a veto of Federal legislation.

"Heretofore the people of the United States," Senator La Follette said, "have met the difficult situations created by the court's decisions on constitutional matters by dealing with the particular question upon which the court was at variance with the popular will. We have never faced the fundamental issue of judicial usurpation squarely. The time has now come to do so. It would require a dozen constitutional amendments to correct the evils of the decisions which the court has handed down within the last three or four years."

DRY LAW AS VALID AS SEAMEN'S ACT, BUSCH TO REPLY

"GERMAN BEER SOLD BY GOVERNMENT"

Manufacture of American Brew, However, is Prohibited, Corporation Will Point Out in Second Letter

A second letter, on the subject of the sale of liquor on vessels of the United States Shipping Board, will be sent to Albert D. Lasker, chairman of the Shipping Board, within a few days by Anheuser-Busch, Inc. Like the first letter, which was made public simultaneously with Lasker's peppery reply, it will be prepared by the legal and publicity departments of the company, and will be signed by Adolphus Busch III, vice president and ranking officer of the corporation in the absence of his father, August A. Busch.

Adolphus Busch III, to whom Lasker addressed his controversial reply, delegated the making of a statement on the matter to O. T. Remmers, attorney for the corporation. Remmers outlined, to a Post-Dispatch reporter, points that will appear in the letter to Lasker.

"Not Close Friend of Kaiser."

In reply to Lasker's statement that the elder Adolphus Busch, founder of the brewing concern, was "possibly the Kaiser's closest friend in America," the reply will be that such is not the fact. "Mr. Busch received an award from the Kaiser for meritorious work in connection with the St. Louis World's Fair," Remmers said, "and that was the only matter of importance that ever passed between them. The award was such as President Francis of the exposition, and possibly others, received at the same time. Mr. Busch was in no sense a close friend of the Kaiser. It is just as well to remember, also, that Mr. Busch died a year before the European war had its beginning.

"Mr. Lasker says that the Busch family has maintained a castle in Germany for many years. It would be more accurate to call it a bungalow.

"Mr. Lasker says," the attorney continued, "that we do not come into court with clean hands in this matter. We maintain that we do. We have obeyed the law to the letter and have lost $12,000,000 to $15,000,000 by doing so. Moreover, we have repeatedly reported specific violations of the law to the prohibition enforcement officers. August A. Busch wrote to Internal Revenue Commissioner Williams, when the prohibition law went into effect, congratulating him on his announced decision to enforce the law to the letter. Mr. Busch has consistently supported enforcement of the law. We insist that our hands are clean, and that we have the right to protest when the United States Government buys German beer to sell on its ships, and will not let American beer be made."

Reply to Legal Point.

In his letter to Adolphus Busch III, Chairman Lasker said that the Shipping Board, in permitting the sale of liquor on passenger vessels, was acting on the advice of its general counsel, who held that "merchant ships, beyond the 3-mile limit, were not "territory subject to the jurisdiction of the United States," as that term is used in the eighteenth amendment.

Replying to this point, Attorney Remmers said:

"The seaman's act extends beyond the 3-mile zone; why should not the prohibition act? But regardless of any legal opinion, no one can deny that the United States Government should abide by the prohibition law on its own ships. The George Washington, on which Mr. Busch traveled, and which furnishes passengers a wine list including German beer, Rhine wine and American "rye moonshine," is not only owned by the Government, but is operated by the Shipping Board.

"If the Government decides to make an investigation of this matter, we will establish, by a reliable witness, that Mr. Lasker has said that he went to President Harding with this whole matter, and told him that the sale of liquor on the Shipping Board ships would help to solve the Board's financial problem; and that he said that President Harding replied to him, 'Mr. Lasker, you are chairman of the Shipping Board; you know what to do.'

"Order Given With Wink."

"We can also show, by a witness, that Chairman Lasker said that several dry members of the Senate and House called on him, to protest against the sale of liquor on the ships, and that, according to his version of the matter, he called in the chief of commissary, and said to him, shaking his finger, 'I want you to understand distinctly that no liquor is to be sold on these ships.' At the same time, as he told it, he gave the chief of commissary a broad wink."

Lasker charged, in his letter, that the Busch interests were "acting in the hope of creating a public revolt against prohibition, utterly regardless of how you might hurt the American merchant marine in your effort to create a situation to benefit your brewery."

Remmers said, in reply to this, that the Busch interests were vitally concerned in the prosperity of the American merchant marine, through their connection with the manufacture and export of Diesel engines. He pointed out that W. H. Stayton of Baltimore, a leader in the anti-prohibition agitation and in the attack on the sale of liquor on Shipping Board ships, is president of a steamship company.

Digest of Busch Letter to Which Lasker Replies.

Adolphus Busch III, in his letter to which President Lasker made reply, besides inclosing a communication from his father, August A. Busch, president of the Anheuser-Busch, Inc., giving his observations of conditions on the U. S. Ship George Washington during a voyage to Europe, contained a copy of the wine list on that ship and observations of his own on the inconsistency of the Government in enforcing the Volstead act within the American territorial confines and violating it openly on its own ships after they pass beyond the three-mile territorial limit on the high seas. On this point, he wrote:

"Because it is axiomatic that American ships, wherever they float, are American territory and under the jurisdiction of the laws of the United States, the Government's liquor policy with respect to the ships of the United States Shipping Board constitutes a violation of the Constitution and the Volstead act in at least three important respects:

"As American sovereignty follows the flag, is a violation of the Constitution and the enforcement act for the Government to sell intoxicating liquor or permit its sale on board any ship of the United States anywhere in the world.

"It is a violation of the Constitution and the law for the Government ships to transport intoxicating liquor within the three-mile coast line.

"It is a violation of the law for a Government ship to possess intoxicatig liquor within the three-mile coast line."

He charges that the Shipping Board causes to be printed in foreign journals advertisements that "choice wines and liquors" are served on all its ships but that the Government has withheld from the people of the United States the information that it "has found it necessary, for business reasons and for the defense of the country, to exempt one of its own great enterprises from the operation of the Constitution and the Enforcement Act."

He added that "We are also reliably informed that during all the time that the Government has been violating the prohibition laws it has had public speakers touring the country for the especial purpose of preaching respect for the prohibition laws to the American people.

"We are inclosing what appears to be a Government-inspired newspaper editorial making a plea for the continued violation of the prohibition laws on board United States ships. We had authoritative information, the day before this editorial was published, that it was to appear the following morning.

"The Government's desregard of the prohibition law and its policy of inspiring editorial support of the exemption of one of its business enterprises from the operation of the law, on the one hand, and its feeble attempt to enforce it and the employment of skilled orators to counsel respect for the law, on the other hand, appear to be most inconsistent.

"May we not suggest, with all due respect, that if the Government wishes the American people to respect the eighteenth amendment and the enforcement act, it should prove its sincerity by setting the axample of obedience to the amendment and the enforcement act itself, or change the law. With assurances of esteem, Sincerely.

The letter from August A. Busch, his father, which Adolphus Busch III inclosed in his communication to the President declared that he had never seen so much liquor consumed as during his voyage on the George Washington. He is informed, he says, that passage is sold on U. S. ships with the understanding that the bars will be "wide open" and that any kind of liquor can be purchased as soon as the ship passes the three-mile limit. "This," he says, "makes the United States incomparably the biggest bootlegger in the world."

"I understand that the Shipping Board brought to the notice of high officials of the Government the fact that it could not compete on the high seas with the ships of other nations and obey the Constitution and the Volstead act. And that either by direct or indirect means the Shipping Board is permitted to do in the dark that which it is illegal to do—in order that it may make money.

"I venture to remind the administration that every bootlegger, every moonshiner, every illicit manufacturer and distributer of beverages containing as much as one-half of 1 per cent of alcohol violates the Constitution and the Volstead act for precisely the same reason—financial gain.

"Will juries be inclined to punish individuals charged with violation of the prohibition laws, when they know the Government is itself the greatest, most flagrant and most inexcusable violator of the laws which it invokes against its citizens?"

Sale of Liquor on U. S. Vessels Legal, Lasker Replies to Busch

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—THE Shipping Board holds that neither the Volstead act nor the eighteenth amendment apply to American ships outside "the three-mile limit," Chairman Lasker declared today in a letter to Adolphus Busch, III., vice-president of the Anheuser Busch Brewery Co., of St. Louis. Confirming reports that alcoholic drinks were being served on Americanships at sea, Lasker asserted that the Shipping Board had approved this custom "both from the standpoint of legal right and from the standpoint of the life and security of our National Merchant Marine."

"The Shipping Board has permitted and will continued to permit the serving of liquor on its ships," he continued, "so long as foreign flagships are allowed to enter and depart from shores exercising that privilege."

Lasker's letter was in reply to a communication addressed by Busch to President Harding with reference to alcoholic drinks served regularly on Shipping Board vessels at sea.

The matter had been referred to him, the Shipping Board chairman explained, since the President is unacquainted with the subject you cover."

Varying Opinions Rendered.

While it was true, Lasker said, that an Assistant Attorney-General, in the prior administration, had held that the prohibition laws were effective on American shipping wherever operated, the present general counsel of the Shipping Board, his two assistants and the chairman himself were convinced that such an opinion was not soundly based and had approved the inclusion of wine lists as regular equipment of boats operated under the board's supervision, for use, however, only beyond the jurisdictional coastal line.

"The prior chairman (of the board) had issued orders that the Palmer opinion must be respected," Lasker said, "but it is true that in fact during the Wilson administration insofar as the Shipping Board operated passenger ships liquor was served. * * *

"Having thus disposed of your contention that we are breaking the law, let me refer to the practical side of waht is involved.

"There is a vital bill pending before Congress now providing aid for American shipping which if enacted into law stamps the belief of America (as expressed through its legislative body) that we have reached that point in our national life where an established merchant marine is essential for our prosperity in time sof peace and our protection in times of war.

Britain Ahead of U. S.

"No type of ship is so essential for either of these major purposes as the fast passenger and combination passenger and cargo ships. Of this type Great Britain has 250, whereas we have but 50; when speed and age are considered, the factor is even greater in favor of Great Britain.

"So long as Great Britain, Japan, France, Germany and other maritime nations continue to serve liquors to American passengers I am ashamed to state that my experience leads me to believe there is a sufficient number of Americans without proper pride in their own flagships who would divert their trade to the foreign flags to the extent that the competition would be from a profit-operating standpoint very heavily against the American ship.

"I do not believe I speak inadvisedly when I state so long as foreign ships can enter America serving liquor, the lack of that privilege might be the very determining factor in the life or death of the American merchant marine, and that so long as foreign ships are allowed the privilege of entering and departing from American ports serving liquor, that same privilege must be allowed our merchant ships. If the sale of liquor be prohibited on all boats entering or departing from American ports, there is no voice in the Shipping Board that would be raised in protest."

Refers to Editorial.

Busch attached to his letter to the President the copy of an editorial printed in the Chicago Tribune, of May 6, 1922, following a visit to the editorial offices by an official of the United States Shipping Board.

Declaring there was an insinuation that the editorial had been "inspired by that visit," Lasker said.

"I was the official who visited the Tribune on May 5, and I wish to record my emphatic denial that I in any way knew before or at the time of my visit the views of the editors on the Tribune on this subject. I did not discuss the subject of prohibition with the editors of the Tribune at that visit or at any other time before or since. The fact is that I had no more advance knowledge than any other reader of the Tribune that it was going to publish such an editorial.

"Your mean insinuation regarding incorruptible officials and editors reflects on you alone.

"Your letter to the President and the letter from your father which you attached thereto have on their face been written entirely with a view to their effect on the public when published, and in an attempt to insure their publication I am informed that you have sent printed copies of your letters to the press of America.

"Wherefore, my reply to you is not merely intended for you, but is also written with a view to public rejoinder.

"Hope for Public Revolt."

"I believe you to be thoroughly selfish and that you are acting in the hope of creating a public revolt against prohibition so that you may again revive the sale of your liquors, utterly regardless of how you might hurt the American Merchant Marine in your effort to create a situation to benefit your brewery.

"It is, of course, notorious that the Adolphus Busch who founded your brewery was possibly the Kaiser's closest friend in America, and that your family for many years has maintained a castle in Germany; your action in any event will not displease your German friends whose greatest hope of a restored German merchant marine is in a hurt to America's new-born Merchant Marine.

"I refer to these extraneous facts, not in resentment, but that it may be made clear that in my opinion you do not come before the bar of public opinion with clean hands."

Lasker made public at the same time the text of an opinion just rendered to him by Elmer Schlesinger, general counsel of the Shipping Board, upholding anew the legality of the serving of liquor on American ships at sea. The opinion was based largely on the limitation in the eighteenth amendment of its operation to the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof, and on recent rulings of the Supreme Court in liquor cases, which Schlesinger declared, held the prohibition laws to be effective throughout the entire territorial limits of the United States.

The opinion cited numerous cases to show that American ships outside the three-mile limit could not be considered within the jurisdiction of the United States Government.

Policy Attacked by Gallivan.

The Shipping Board's policy was the subject of an attack in the House yesterday by Representative Gallivan, Democrat, of Massachusetts, who read excerpts from what he described as a typical wine list of an American vessel, and deplored the discrimination which he said was permitted to exist between Americans afloat and those who were forced to remain on shore.

1920 RULING APPLIED DRY LAW TO SHIPS

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Prohibition Commissioner Haynes declared today in a formal statement referring to the "Prohibition Afloat" pamphlet issued by Anheuser-Busch, Inc., that he would "act in a vigorous manner to enforce the law" as soon as the Department of Justice and the courts have determined, whether the Volstead act applies to vessels sailing under the American flag. He added that he would not break one law to enforce another.

A treasury decision was rendered by former Internal Revenue Commissioner Williams, Dec. 17, 1920, containing an opinion by the then acting Attorney-General William L. Frierson, which stated:

"The eighteenth amendment empowers Congress to enact laws applicable wherever the jurisdiction of the United States exists. The national prohibition act is a law of such general application. I cannot doubt, therefore, that it applies to those on board American ships whether in American waters, on the high seas, or in foreign waters equally with those in any of the states of the United States."

The treasury decision containing the opinion was issued by Williams "for the information and guidance of internal revenue and Federal prohibition officers and others concerned."

With the exception of this decision, officials state, no regulations governing the question of the sale of liquor on American ships outside the three-mile limit have been promulgated by the treasury.

U. S. SHIPS HELD NOT U. S. "TERRITORY"

Post-Dispatch Bureau, No. 20 Wyatt Bldg.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—General Counsel Schlesinger, of the United States Shipping Board, in the opinion quoted by Chairman Lasker, says the words "territory subject to the jurisdiction of the United States" as used in he eighteenth amendment do not apply to ships beyond the three-mile limit. He refers to a Supreme Court dictum laid down by Chief Justice Waite that "words in a constitution as well as words in a statute are always to be given the meaning they have in common use unless there are very strong reasons to the contrary."

As used in the statutes of the United States, Schlesinger holds, the word "territory" has been defined in at least four cases as a place subject to the jurisdiction of the United States, which has an organized government with a legislative, executive and judicial system.

Lands subject to the jurisdiction of the United States which has no such organized government, Schlesinger says, have been held not to be territories.

He pointed out that Congress in the Eighteenth Amendment avoided the use of the wider language which had been embodied in the Thirteenth Amendment, prohibiting slavery "within the United States or ANY PLACE subject to their jurisdiction" and used the narrower term territory subject to the jurisdiction of the United States.

Attention is further called to the fact that, in the national prohibition cases recently decided, the Supreme Court held that prohibition is operative throughout the entire territorial limits of the United States."

"Territorial limits," according to Schlesinger, plainly means the limits of the lands and does not extend into the high seas.

Schlesinger quotes the words of the Eighteenth Amendment prohibiting the importation of liquor into and exportation from the United States, and declares it would be a "grotesque use of terms" to speak of importing or exporting beverages into or from a ship on the high seas.

Finally, says Schlesinger, the case of Scharrenberg vs. Dollar Steamship Co. is fully conclusive of the qustion. That case arose from an act of Congress which made it a misdemeanor for any corporation to assist in the importation of contract laborers into the United States.

Cites Supreme Court Decision.

The Supreme Court held that a ship of American registry engaged in foreign commerce could not be regarded as a part of the territory of the United States "in such a sense that men employed on it can be said to be laboring in the United States."

"It is, of course, true," said the Supreme Court in the Dollar case, "that for the purpose of jurisdiction a ship, even on the high seas, is often said to be a part of the territory of the nation whose flag it flies. But in the physical sense this expression is obviously figurative, and to expand the doctrine to the extent of treating seamen employed on such a ship as working in the country of its registry is quite impossible."

Schlesinger asserts that Acting Attorney-General Frierson, in his opinion of Nov. 1, 1920, holding that American ships outside the three-mile limit were subject to the prohibition laws, arrived at an erroneous conclusion by failing to take into account the distinction between the figurative and actual meaning of the "territory" of a nation.

Furthermore, he says, it is a century-old principle of international law that ships are not territory in an actual sense. Several reasons and citations are given to support this thesis.

He quotes a ruling by former Attorney-General Palmer to the effect that the prohibition law applies to American vessels while in port.

Interprets Palmer's Opinion.

"By implication," Schlesinger comments, "this opinion of the Attorney-General limits the enforcement of the prohibition act to American ships while in port, and the Treasury regulation itself has the same effect and in no way covers or attempts to cover the sale of liquors on American vessels while they are outside the three-mile limit.

"The Volstead act itself contains no reference to the territorial limitations within which it shall be operative, and it follows axiomatically, of course, that it cannot extend beyond the limits defined by the Eighteenth Amendment, and that if the amendment itself does not apply to American ships beyond the three mile limit, the Volstead act itself cannot do so. Schlesinger said his written opinion was in confirmation of an oral opinion rendered to Lasker in July, 1921. A further review, which he had just made, he said, did not indicate any reasons why he should change his finding that the law is not being violated.

WHEELER GETS INTO CONTROVERSY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League, today got into the controversy relative to the sale of liquor on Shipping Board vessels by declaring that the Anheuser-Busch pamphlet, entitled "Prohibition Afloat" was simply an effort to "discredit prohibition and create sentiment for the sale of beer."

Wheeler said that the recent decision of the United States Supreme Court holding that international shipments of liquor may not be transported across this country, offered a happy solution of the problem arising from the alleged discrimination against American ships.

The inference is that Wheeler would have the prohibition law enforced against all ships within the three-mile limit, but would not interfere with the sale of liquor on the high seas.

It will be noted that he does not take issue with the opinion of the general counsel of the Shipping Board, holding that sales outside the three-mile limit are legal.

"I hold no brief for the Shipping Board in this controversy," said Wheeler. "It is able to take care of itself. Our attitude with reference to the sale of liquor on ships within the jurisdiction of the United States has been clear-cut and consistent ever since the law went into effect. We contended before the Justice Department that it was illegal to transport or possess liquor on any ship within the jurisdiction of the United States. The department and the Supreme Court have sustained that construction of the law.

"The difficulty arose when the Assistant Attorney-General, under the former administration, ruled that 'American ships could not carry liquor outside the three-mile limit, while foreign vessels could.' It was claimed that this discrimination would ruin American shipping interests financially. The legal department of the Shipping Board holds that liquor can be possessed and sold on American ships outside the three-mile limit. There has been some difference of opinion among the attorneys of the Justice Department on this question.

"This problem can now be happily solved without discriminating against American ships because the Supreme Court has just held, May 15, 1922, that 'the manufacture, possession, sale and transportation of spirits and wine for other than beverage purposes are provided for in the national prohibition act, but there is no provision for shipment or carriage across the country from without.' In other words, the possession and transportation of intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes is prohibited anywhere within the jurisdiction of the United States irrespective of treaties.

"I cannot too strongly condemn this attack by the brewers upon the Government and its officers, but rejoice that the decision of the Supreme Court has now removed all doubt upon the construction of the law so that the discrimination against American ships which has been seized upon by the liquor interests as an argument against prohibition need no longer exist."

STORIES ABOUT HER WEALTH CONFLICT

MRS. ORAH BELLE RIDGLY.

MRS. RIDGLY PENNILESS AT DEATH, FRIEND SAYS

Companion and Business Associate Tells of Deal for Hotel.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 14.—Mrs. Allie Horn, companion and former business associate of Mrs. Orah Belle Ridgly, who accompanied the latter's body from Hot Springs, Ark., where she died, to her former home at Assumption, Ill., denies that Mrs. Ridgly left an estate.

Mrs. Ridgly, she said, had to borrow $2000 when they went into partnership in the purchase of a hotel at Melbourne, Fla.

"We bought the hotel for $30,000," she said, "paying $15,000 and assuming a mortgage for the other $15,000. Then Mrs. Ridgly became ill. She was under constant treatment by a masseur and a chiropractor.

Tells of Going to Hot Springs.

"Finally she was advised to go to Hot Springs, Ark. We went there. On our arrival she didn't want to go to a hospital or a hotel, so I rented a flat at 711 Park avenue and she was taken there. By this time she was in a wheel chair constantly, unable to walk. Her rheumatism went up her legs to her spine, and finally to her brain.

"Before her death Mrs. Ridgly had given me the keys to the family vault at Assumption and said that although she had been estranged from her family for the last 10 years, she wanted to be buried there.

"There were a few bequests of jewelry and things which she had and which I brought with me to Chicago to dispose of according to her wishes.

Declares She Died Penniless.

"When Mrs. Ridgly died she was penniless. I paid the doctor's bills and the undertaker's bills. Since coming to Chicago I had to pawn two of the rings she left for the money to pay these bills.

"The hotel at Melbourne was transferred by myself and Mrs. Ridgly to my husband, Charles Horn, and my two daughters, who are now running it. We accepted a second mortgage for $15,000 and turned the property over to them without any cash payment."

Mrs. Mary Wade Hudson, for 18 years a friend of Mrs. Ridgly, says that just before going to Hot Springs Mrs. Ridgly made a will and said she wanted her sisters to get nothing. The will was destroyed later.

To Act on Suspension of Tamme.

State Prohibition Director Allen is here today to take final action regarding the suspension a week ago of Charles D. Tamme, brother of Alderman William Tamme, from the Federal prohibition enforcement squad, following complaint by his superior that he was not accomplishing any results and that his expense accounts in connection with gathering evidence were too high. Tamme was appointed Jan. 16 and assigned to Carthage, Mo. His appointment was opposed by the anti-Saloon League.

MASTER BUILDERS PROPOSE BOARD TO PREVENT STRIKES

Permanent Arbitration Body to Settle Disputes Proposed in Letter to Building Trades Council.

INDORSES PLAN OF A. F. L. SPEAKER

Building Trades Department Head Declared People Were Tired of Walkouts and Suggested Board.

The creation of a permanent Arbitration Board to prevent strikes, lockouts and other costly delays in the building industry in St. Louis was urged today in a letter from the Master Builders' Association, composed of employing contractors, to the St. Louis Building Trades Council of building trades unions.

The letter was suggested by recent remarks of John H. Donlin, president of the Building Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor at Cincinnati, in which Donlin declared that the nation was tired of strikes and lockouts and disgusted with such institutions as make them possible.

In the letter to the St. Louis Council, signed by R. L. Rinehart, president of the Master Builders' Association, the contractors' organization concurs in Donlin's views, and suggests a permanent arbitration board as a solution of the problem.

Text of Letter.

The text of the letter follows:

"We have read the press accounts of the talk made by John H. Donlin, president of the Building Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor, in the annual meeting at Cincinnati. In this, the desirability, and in fact the urgent need of eliminating the many and continuous strikes in the building industry is brought out, and Mr. Donlin is quoted as saying 'The whole nation is tired of strikes and lockouts and disgusted with such institutions as make them possible. Unless the industry remedies its troubles it must admit the industrial court is necessary.' He is further quoted as saying 'The only way to minimize strikes and lockouts is to minimize such authority as can order such lockouts or strikes.'

"We wish to go on record as heartily approving Mr. Donlin's stand in this mater, and we believe his stand is an advanced and wise one. We believe that the elimination of strikes is not only desirable for unions and labor, but equally desirable for the employers, and most desirable of all for the general public.

Arbitration Board Proposed.

"We stand ready to co-operate with the Building Trades Council of St. Louis to further the recommendations of Mr. Donlin, and suggest that our council appoint delegates to meet with representatives of this association and the various subcontractors' associations with a view to reaching an agreement which will make possible a permanent arbitration board to consider all grievances of both parties, and thereby act to stop all disputes in the city of St. Louis. Certain attempts have been made in the past to form such a body, but all have failed for reasons which can be forgotten.

"We are certain that Mr. Donlin represents the view of the majority of your members. He certainly represents our views and we know of no reason now why we should not be able to get together. We believe that it is possible to have an Arbitration Committee composed of representative members of your various crafts and the several employers' associations, plus such other members as would be satisfactory to all parties, and that the board so constituted could consider all differences concerning wages, working rules, jurisdictional matters, etc., and eliminate entirely all strikes in the city.

Request for Prompt Action.

"We again call your attention to the fact that this association works only with union labor; that we believe that your interests and our own are mutual and that this proposed movement will be beneficial to all parties concerned.

"Please take this matter up at your earliest possible convenience and advise your wishes in the matter."

INDORSES PLAN OF A. F. L. SPEAKER

Building Trades Department Head Declared People Were Tired of Walkouts and Suggested Board.

The creation of a permanent Arbitration Board to prevent strikes, lockouts and other costly delays in the building industry in St. Louis was urged today in a letter from the Master Builders' Association, composed of employing contractors, to the St. Louis Building Trades Council of building trades unions.

The letter was suggested by recent remarks of John H. Donlin, president of the Building Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor at Cincinnati, in which Donlin declared that the nation was tired of strikes and lockouts and disgusted with such institutions as make them possible.

In the letter to the St. Louis Council, signed by R. L. Rinehart, president of the Master Builders' Association, the contractors' organization concurs in Donlin's views, and suggests a permanent arbitration board as a solution of the problem.

Text of Letter.

The text of the letter follows:

"We have read the press accounts of the talk made by John H. Donlin, president of the Building Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor, in the annual meeting in Cincinnati. In this, the desirability, and in fact the urgent need of eliminating the many and continuous strikes in the building industry is brought out, and Mr. Donlin is quoted as saying 'The whole nation is tired of strikes and lockouts and disgusted with such institutions as make them possible. Unless the industry remedies its troubles it must admit the industrial court is necessary.' He is further quoted as saying 'The only way to minimize strikes and lockouts is to minimize such authority as can order such lockouts or strikes.'

"We wish to go on record as heartily approving Mr. Donlin's stand in this mater, and we believe his stand is an advanced and wise one. We believe that the elimination of strikes is not only desirable for unions and labor, but equally desirable for the employers, and most desirable of all for the general public.

Arbitration Board Proposed.

"We stand ready to co-operate with the Building Trades Council of St. Louis to further the recommendations of Mr. Donlin, and suggest that your council appoint delegates to meet with representatives of this association and the various subcontractors' associations with a view to reaching an agreement which will make possible a permanent arbitration board to consider all grievances of both parties, and thereby act to stop all disputes in the city of St. Louis. Certain attempts have been made in the past to form such a body, but all have failed for reasons which can be forgotten.

"We are certain that Mr. Donlin represents the view of the majority of your members. He certainly represents our views and we know of no reason now why we should not be able to get together. We believe that it is possible to have an Arbitration Committee composed of representative members of your various crafts and the several employers' associations, plus such other members as would be satisfactory to all parties, and that the board so constituted could consider all differences concerning wages, working rules, jurisdictional matters, etc., and eliminate entirely all strikes in the city.

Request for Prompt Action.

"We again call your attention to the fact that this association works only with union labor; that we believe that your interests and our own are mutual and that this proposed movement will be beneficial to all parties concerned.

"Please take this matter up at your earliest possible convenience and advise your wishes in the matter."

Women's Vote Was an Old Story 2,000 Years Ago

Excavations of Pompeii Reveal Evidences of "Tammany Hall," Reform Societies and Health Organizations in Centuries Past.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
(Copyright, 1922, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos., the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.)

NAPLES, June 14.—The women's vote, proclaimed as a new element in politics, was an old, old story 2000 years ago.

That is only one of the old, old stories told by recent excavations at Pompeii; others, old when that ancient city was young but hailed as original every time the metropolis of the New World holds a municipal election, have also been unearthed.

Pompeii's Tammany Hall, her reform societies, her health organizations are dead, but their posters and propaganda survive.

The woman press agent was not unknown. The manifestos of Assellina, apparently one of the chiefs of the Pompeii League of Women Voters, still shine red on the walls:

"Assellina with her friend Zmyrina recommends the candidature of Cajus Lollius Fuscus for Mayor because he will look after the streets, buildings and amusements for sacred feasts."

But even then woman could change her mind. Beneath the appeals of Assellina, traces of whose electioneering abound on the walls of the dead city, the diggers found:

"Zmyrina objects to her name being used and instead recommends the candidature of Cajus Julius Polidius."

The other traces of Pompeiian writings hitherto found have been of a political or obscene nature, but now the works of the universal, age-old reformer have been discovered:

FLAG ADOPTION ANNIVERSARY TO BE OBSERVED THIS EVENING

Sons of the Revolution and Veterans' Council to Celebrate—Mayor Asks All to Fly Stars and Stripes.

Flag day ceremonies to celebrate the anniversary of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes as the American flag, June 14, 1777, will be held tonight by the Missouri Society, Sons of the American Revolution, and by the Veterans' Council of St. Louis.

The exercises of the Sons of the Revolution will be held at Jefferson Memorial, starting at 8:15 p. m. Dr. L. H. Renfrow will speak on "Heroes of the Recent War," and the Rev. Martin T. Haw will make a short address on "Our Country's Flag." Patriotic songs will be sung.

Lafayette Park will be the scene of the Veterans' Council's ceremonies at 8 p. m. Rev E. Combie Smith, who served overseas, will make the address, and the First Regiment band will play. In event of rain, the exercises will be held in the Lafayette Park Methodist Church.

Mayor Kiel yesterday issued a proclamation calling on all homes and business houses to fly the American Flag in observance of the day.

Rosskopf will resign should he be elected Circuit Judge

The group which opposed Dr. Withers' request for an increase of salary, before he left, and his policies, comprised Richard Murphy, Stephen M. Wagner, Joseph Joering and Dr. Henry A. Gettys. A more conservative group, which upheld Dr. Withers, included Johnson, Ben P. Stromberg, Dr. Wolfner, Rosskopf and W. Palmer Clarkson. The only woman member, Mrs. B. F. Bush, sided with the latter element in the controversy over the dismissal of Miss Rosa Hesse, a teacher.

President John C. Tobin and Jesse McDonald, the remaining members, have been regarded as more or less independent.

The League of Women Voters has written to Supt. Maddox to "urgently demand that his choice of Dr. Payne's successor should be the result of a widespread and thorough search for the best man that this country can produce," adding, "The community awaits the results of your search, and it is a community that will not be satisfied with an easily controlled sectarian mediocrity." The position pays $6000 a year.

Miller Asks for Report.

The board received a communication from Victor J. Miller, treasurer and former president of the Police Board, requesting a report on the board's investigation of alleged immoral conditions among Soldan High School students. It was Miller's speech on this subject that resulted in his removal as head of the Police Board. While other communications were referred to committees, Miller's was ordered "received and filed" by President Tobin.

A date is to be sent for a hearing by the Board of Grievances of Negro School "Patrons," as requested by the Central School Patron's Association. The grievances, which this association has set forth in a pamphlet sent to the board members, chiefly are as follows:

Need of another high school for negroes in central part of the city, between Jefferson avenue and Grand boulevard; need of a normal school for negro school teachers, with better facilities, and separate from Sumner High; desirability of abolishing the negro intermediate school for the seventh and eighth grade work of pupils from 12 of the 13 negro schools, and need of an open-air school.

Instruction in German in the high schools, which was dropped when the United States entered the world war, April, 1918, will be resumed in September, by vote of the board. The German School Society has been conducting Saturday morning classes in that language at two grade schools for several months.

PROBST IS ACQUITTED; WEDDING DISCLOSED

Youth Accused of Part in Hold-up Married to Girl Who Refused to Appear Against Him.

Following the acquittal of Wilton Probst, 19 years old, of the charge of first degree robbery by a jury in the Circuit Court last night, it was disclosed that he had married the State's chief witness, Miss Mildred Kinsella, 18, of 3337 Blair avenue.

Assistant Circuit Attorney Bowcock, who conducted the prosecution, ignorant of the fact that the marriage had taken place, had decided not to present Miss Kinsella as a witness. She had refused to answer his questions when he was preparing the case in his office. She had been considered an important witness because it was through her, the police claimed, that the revolver used in the holdup was recovered.

Probst was charged with having been one of three youths who on Jan. 9 held up Fred H. Kasmann, a district manager for the Kroger Grocery and Baking Co., in front of 1914 East Warne avenue, and took from him $369 representing collections from Kroger stores. Kasmann identified Probst.

Girl Was Arrested.

The case was continued four times on account of the failure of Miss Kinsella to appear as a witness. She was arrested June 5 at Probst's home, 3430 North Ninth street, but was released three days later when habeas corpus proceedings were instituted in her behalf.

Following her release she and Probst went to Edwardsville, Ill., where they were married by a Justice of the Peace. They were accompanied by Probst's mother.

Alibi in Robbery Case.

Testimony in the robbery case was heard yesterday and Probst presented an alibi, claiming that at the time of the holdup he was in a dentist's office at 4101A Laclede avenue. Two physicians testified he was there at 10 a. m. The robbery occurred at 10:25 a. m., about two and a half miles from the dentist's office.

"We intended to spring a surprise on the State if Miss Kinsella was called as a witness," said Probst's counsel, when the jury was out deliberating on the evidence. "Probst and the girl were married last Thursday. They had been sweethearts for several years."

Probst and his bride left the courtroom arm in arm after the verdict had been read.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR MRS. ESTHER MILLER, 96

Aged Woman Came to St. Louis From Poland in 1844—Active Up to Time of Last Illness.

MRS. ESTHER MILLER.

Funeral services were held today for Mrs. Esther Miller, 96 years old, who came to St. Louis from Warsaw, Poland, in 1844, and who died Monday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Abraham Silverstein, 4121 Washington boulevard, from an apoplectic stroke suffered about a week ago.

She enjoyed excellent health up to a short time ago. Two years ago her son-in-law, Jacob Slupsky, took her to New York, where she insisted upon going in the surf at Rockaway Beach. She voted in the last mayoralty election, being highly pleased that at last she had the right to vote for which, she declared, she had waited "over 50 years." She used to say that it was the "good old-fashioned way of living" that kept her in such good health, and not the "fast kind of living" that so many are indulging in at present.

She was the mother of five children, four daughters and a son. The son, Julius Miller, died several years ago. The four daughters are Mrs. Jacob Slupsky, Mrs. Sarah Wasser and Mrs. Abraham Silverstein, who reside here, and Mrs. M. Berger, who lives in Jonesboro, Ark. There are 32 great-grandchildren and 22 grandchildren.

DRESS CATCHES FIRE, WOMAN, AGED 71, IS BURNED TO DEATH

Mrs. Laura L. Asher, 71 years old, of 823 North Eighteenth street, died at the City Hospital at 3:15 p. m. yesterday from burns she received four hours earlier when her clothes caught fire while she was ironing in the kitchen of her home.

A line of clothes was hung directly above the gas stove on which Mrs. Asher was heating her irons. It is believed these clothes became ignited, and that Mrs. Asher, whose eyesight was poor, failed to see the fire in time to keep it from spreading to her dress.

W. B. Richardson, her brother-in-law, who was sleeping in the front room, answering her screams, found her almost completely enveloped in flames. In extinguishing the flames Richardson suffered severe burns about his hands and arms. After the application of first aid treatment, Mrs. Asher was rushed to the City Hospital.

TAX REFUND TO BUSCH ESTATE IS EXPECTED

Understood in Washington That Fight for $220,638 From Government Will Succeed.

Refund of $220,638, plus interest, to the estate of Adolphus Busch, millionaire brewer, who died in 1913, is expected to be made soon by the Internal Revenue Department, it is understood at Washington.

This sum represents income tax on the estate for the years 1913, 1914 and 1915, made under protest by the trustees. The refund would be made in accordance with an opinion of the Supreme Court of the United States, handed down by Chief Justice Taft last February in settling a parallel case in Chicago.

The estate contended that the income tax law of 1913 did not subject trusteeships to such payments until it was specifically amended in 1916, since which time the Busch estate has paid without protest. The payment of the taxes for the three years under protest was made March 17, 1919, and interest from that date was sought. The payment was made to forestall the threatened enforcement of penalties.

Suit against Collector of Internal Revenue Moore to recover the amount was instituted in the Federal Court here Aug. 23, 1920, by the trustees—Mrs. Lily Busch, Busch's widow; August A. Busch, his son, and Charles Nagel.

The Chicago case, which was closely followed by counsel for the Busch estate, was that of the Collector of Internal Revenue there against a bank to collect an income tax from an estate. The United States Circuit Court of Appeals reversed the decision of the District Court, which rendered judgment to the Collector. The Supreme Court of the United States upheld this reversal, holding that income held and accumulated by a trustee for the benefit of unburn and unascertained beneficiaries was not made taxable by the income tax law of 1913.

Daniel N. Kirby, of counsel for the estate, and George A. H. Mills, manager of the estate, said today that they consider the Chicago case and theirs to be entirely similar. It is thought that if the Busch case went to trial, the outcome would be bound by the decision in the other case. It is expected that when the refund is made the estate will move to dismiss its suit, although control of this lies within the jurisdiction of District Attorney Carroll.

FORMER EDITOR OF LONDON TIMES DIES OF HEART DISEASE

Horace Everett Hooper, President of Encyclopedia Britannica, Inc., Dead at Bedford Hills.

By the Associated Press.

MOUNT KISCO, N. Y., June 14.—Horace Everett Hooper, president of the Encyclopedia Britannica, Inc., and former editor of the London Times, died yesterday at his home at Bedford Hills, of heart disease. Hooper, well known as a publisher in the United States and Great Britain, was born at Worcester, Mass., Dec. 18, 1859, of old New England stock.

Educated in Worcester schools and at Princeton Preparatory School, Princeton, N. J., Mr. Hooper began his business career in the West, forming a partnership in the book and stationery business with two others at Denver, Colo., in 1893, and opening stores in several cities. In 1895 he organized a book company in New York. Not long afterward he became associated with the Encyclopedia Britannica.

PLANET READING PROVES COSTLY TO TWO WOMEN

Medium Said to Have Swindled Sisters Out of $230.

Mrs. Willie Frietas and Mrs. Carrie Fricke, both of 3431 Lucas avenue, state that a "planet reader" and mediuin, who told them her name was Mrs. Tillie Stichion, swindled them of clothing, jewels and cash to the aggregate of about $230.

The two women, who are sisters, said the woman appeared first on Feb. 20, inquiring if a family named "Porch" lived there. Gaining admission, she offered to give a "reading" and returned later to insist when refused. Finally gaining their confidence, she learned of the illness of Manuel Frietas, husband of Mrs. Frietas, and promised to cure him through "planet reading."

The "cure" necessitated the use of nine $20 bills, which were wrapped in a rag by Mrs. Frietas, according to instructions, and worn next to her body. On March 16 the woman came and said she would take the money and keep it until the "cure" was effected, promising to return within two weeks.

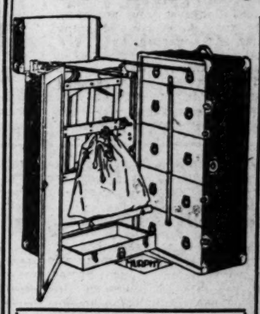

She also took Mrs. Fricke into her scheme, promising the return of her absent husband if given clothing to "lay over his planet." Mrs. Fricke gave her a dress valued at $20, a cape worth $14, a string of beads valued at $5 and $10 in cash. "I would have given her $300 had I had it," she said today. The woman promised to return everything intact, exacting no fee other than gifts they cared to make her after the cure was complete. She has not been seen since.

Mrs. Frietas described the "planet reader" as about 40 years old, 5 feet 2 inches tall, rather stout, and dressed shabbily in a gray dress and wine-colored coat.

(Roots and All Quickly Depart)

As hair or fuzz on the face is such an embarrassing thing, every woman so afflicted will welcome the information that these disfigurements can now be completely removed—roots and all—in the privacy of one's own home, without the assistance of an expert.

The new method will astonish and delight you. You never saw or heard of anything like it before. It is not a depilatory and not electrical. Just get a stick of phelactine from your druggist and follow the simple directions at home. In a jiffy you have removed the offending hairs completely. With your own eyes you see the roots come out. Phelactine is absolutely harmless, non-poisonous and perfectly odorless.

LETTER BEARS PAPER FORTUNE

But Actual Value of $200,000 in Russian Stamps Is a Dime.

Alex Sigoloff, of 519 North Vandeventer avenue, has received a letter from his wife's parents in Tarasha, Russia, a small village in the Kieff region, and upon the envelope were posted 80 stamps marked 5,000 rubles each. The sheaf of stamps was about three times as large as the envelope. The value, in normal times, would have been more than $200,000. The postage from America to Russia is a dime.

Sigoloff, who has been in this country 11 years, says the chief plea from his relatives is for food and clothing. There is none of either, he said, in sufficient quantities to keep the poor from living as animals. Bills in thousands of rubles are common, he said, and look much like the paper put into circulation by the Confederacy for fractions of a dollar.

HARDING OPPOSES DELAYING TARIFF BILL FOR BONUS

President Regards Protection Measure as Most Important Before Congress — Wants Action by Senate.

ATTITUDE ON OTHER SUBJECTS DISCLOSED

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The President, it has been learned at the White House, holds the firm belief that the tariff bill should not be side-tracked in the Senate for the soldiers' bonus bill. He regards the tariff bill as the most important business before Congress and thinks the Senate should give it undivided attention till it is disposed of.

The attitude of the President toward other current questions has been disclosed as follows:

Coal Strike—No action other than the continued use of the Government's "good offices" in an effort to bring about a settlement is contemplated. The administration does not feel that the present situation is comparable to that which led President Roosevelt to intervene in the anthracite strike of 1902. That strike had been in progress about 21 weeks before the President took a hand, whereas the present strike has been running only about 10 weeks and is yet to result in any serious shortage.

Shoal Question Up to Congress.

Muscle Shoals—The President regards the Muscle Shoals question as one for Congress to pass upon without suggestion from him. He is neither opposing nor supporting any proposed settlement.

Merchant Marine—Nothing is more keenly desired by the President than the passage of the pending merchant marine legislation. His message to Congress on this subject was as earnest and as emphatic as he could make it. No greater disappointment could come to him than the failure of Congress to act favorably on the measure at this session. He is strongly opposed to letting the bill go over to the short session beginning next December. Should this be done, he fells the measure would be indefinitely delayed, inasmuch as the seven actual working weeks of the session will be largely taken up with the regular appropriation bills.

Attitude on Labor Board.

Railway Wakes—The President has never suggested and does not intend to suggest any course of action to the Railway Labor Board. He has given the board but one message. That was to the effect that the law empowered it to handle the wage situation and that the Government would support its decisions.

Hague Congerence—The matter of sending an unofficial observer for the United States to the coming Hague conference on Russian problems has not been considered.

EXPLORER'S LETTER IN BOTTLE FOUND AFTER FIFTY YEARS

(Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.)

VIENNA, June 1.—Placed on an iceberg on the coast of Franz Josef Land in the Arctic nearly 50 years ago by the Austrian expedition which discovered that territory, a bottle containing a message in the handwriting of the leader, Karl Weyprecht, has just reached Vienna.

After being imprisoned in the ice two years, Weyprecht decided that the ship Admiral Tegethoff must be abandoned, and before the party set out on their hazardous journey in three small boats this bottle and its message addressed to the Austrian Government was placed on a berg, so that if the party perished news of their fate might possibly reach Austria. The bottle was found last year on the coast of Nova Zembla by a Norwegian exploring party, and has now been sent to the president of the Austrian Geographical Society.

Only one survivor of the party remains alive, Vice Admiral Brosch, who resides at Graz. He states that the commander and other officers made four copies of the letter, which were each signed by Weyprecht. They were placed in separate bottles and on different bergs. The copy found happens to be the one written entirely by the leader.

STEEL SALES ON CURB TO BE INVESTIGATED

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 14.—Investigation of the New York curb market after trading in North American Steel Co. stock "when, as and if issued," will be begun by the grand jury today. The State Attorney-General's office and that of District Attorney Banton will co-operate in the presentation of testimony.

Fifty subpenas for witnesses, issued through Special Deputy Attorney-General Samuel Untermyer, were given to process servers of Banton's office yesterday and it is expected many will be heard today by the grand jury. Untermyer asked Banton to have the subpenas served and the prosecutor said that as a complaint of a violation of law had been made and his aid sought by the Attorney-General, he had decided the matter should go before the grand jury at once.

This action is Untermyer's answer to the position taken by the curb market, which, in response to a letter from him stating he would seek indictments unless trading in non-existing stock of the North American Steel Co. was stopped, replied in effect that it would continue to trade. Now, however, it has changed its policy.

"At a special meeting of the Board of Governors, June 13, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

"'Resolved, That the privilege to deal in the securities of the North American Steel Co., that was granted by the Listing Committee, June 2, is hereby withdrawn. No further dealings in the stock "when issued" or otherwise, will be permitted until after the corporation has been duly organized or until the amount in terms of its capitalization and all other details have been settled and a complete statement thereof has been filed with and approved by the listing committee.

"'All past dealings in the stock will be canceled and annulled except where, after the due organization of the corporation and the issuance of stock, the transactions heretofore made are confirmed and approved in writing by the parties thereto.'"

The North American Steel Co., not yet legally in existence, is the result of a merger of the Midvale Steel and Ordnance Co., the Republic Iron and Steel Co. and the Inland Steel Co.

No Answer to Arbitration Request, Theater Men Declare in Advertisements.

The Musicians' Union is charged with ignoring a request to submit its differences with the United Theater Managers' Association to arbitration, in advertisements published today by the managers' organization. As is known, the musicians refused to accept a 20 per cent reduction in wages and elimination of a clause in their working contract regulating the number of musicians to be employed in motion picture theaters and as a result the motion picture theaters have been without union music since May 1.

It is asserted in the advertisement that the musicians themselves want to arbitrate, but are prevented from doing so by their officers.

Frank Gecks, president of the union, expressed surprise when his attention was called to the advertisement. He said that only yesterday the managers' association sent Rudolph Ganz, director of the Symphony Orchestra, to the union with a request for a conference and that it was agreed that a committee of the union would meet a committee of the managers tomorrow.

"The United Theater Managers' Association has never made a direct proposition of arbitration to the union," said Gecks. "The union would have been willing to accept Mr. Ganz as a mediator. It is probable, in view of the statement by the managers in today's newspapers, that the union will rescind its acceptance of the invitation to a conference."

REPORT ON FUEL OIL TANKS

Measure Requiring Underground Placement Goes to Aldermen.

The committee on public safety of the Board of Aldermen today decided to make a favorable report on the bill requiring fuel oil tanks to be placed underground in the residence districts. The validity of this measure will depend on the final action of the State Supreme Court as to the zoning ordinance, which sets apart the residence and other designated districts.

The committee decided to take no action at this time on a proposed measure to require monthly inspection of gasoline filling station tanks. The committee believes the present semi-annual inspection, made by the Bureau of Weights and Measures, is sufficient.

GREEN SAYS MINERS ARE READY TO CONFER

Secretary Tells of Conditions Required for Coal Strike Meeting.

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, O., June 14.—The miners are ready to meet the operators with a view to settling the nation-wide strike, according to William Green, secretary of the United Mine Workers of America. It was explained, however, that it would be necessary for operators joining in the conference to control enough coal production to warrant making any wage agreement they might reach with the miners a basis for pay throughout the Central Competitive Field, which is the basing scale for all soft coal fields operating union mines.

Green said yesterday he had knowledge of a movement among certain coal operators of the Central Competitive Field to bring operators and miners together in conference.

Not having been informed what operators were to take part in the proposed conference, Green said, he could not say whether they would represent sufficient tonnage to negotiate a pay basis. Should the plan materialize, he said, it would be impossible to begin the conferences before next week.

Green's statement was made upon receipt of a report from Cleveland, quoting T. K. Maher, president of the Maher Colleries Co., as saying conferences of operators were going on throughout the country in an effort to end the strike.

Anthracite Miners Warned Against Propaganda Efforts.

HAMILTON, Pa., June 14.—Anthracite miners were warned today by their scale committee, in circular letters to the various local branches, to be on guard against agents who "under the guise of preaching a new brand of unionism are engaged with the coal operators and enemies of the United Mine Workers of America in attacking the policies and officers of the organiaztion at a time when such action is designed to help the mine owners in their fight against the union."

A circular letter also was sent to local unions today calling their attention to the presence of agents of non-union operators alleged to be working in the anthracite district in an effort to induce men to accept employment in the soft coal fields on promises of "good wages and the intimation that no trouble exists."

Window Mysteriously Shattered.

A large plate-glass window at the Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney Co. on the Olive street side at Tenth street, was shottered yesterday afternoon from no apparent couse. The slight wind which was blowing at the time is not believed to have been of sufficient force to have broken it. An officer of the company placed the value of the window at about $250.

REPORT SHOWS INCREASE IN BUILDING CONTRACTS

A recent issue of the Journal of Commerce states that building contracts awarded in twenty-seven states amounted to $353,161,000 in April, thus exceeding the previous high record reached in July, 1919.

Such a building revival means that the demand for furniture will increase, and with the increased demand prices will go up. The Prufrock-Litton Furniture Co., Fourth and St. Charles, are now making special price concessions on furniture to induce June brides to buy in June.

Last Call for the Simplex Ironer Sale

A Matchless Ironing Result

We Make It Easy for You to Possess a SIMPLEX IRONER

You Pay Nothing Down and then Only $8.00 Per Month

This is the last announcement of our successful GO-GETTER sale. Only a few of the 1921 type SIMPLEX IRONERS remain. The unusually low terms on the new improved SIMPLEX will soon be advanced. Scores of women have profited by this wonderful sale.

You will find SIMPLEX IRONERS popular all over the city. They are the master product of the biggest factory devoted exclusively to the manufacture of ironing machines. They are safe, easy to operate—and their ironing results are wonderful.

SIMPLEX IRONER "THE BEST IRONER"

The Simplex is an ironer, not a mangle. In addition to all "flat pieces" such as bed and table linen, doilies, curtains, etc., it "does up" men's shirts and soft collars, house dresses, children's dresses and rompers, presses trousers, etc.

CLEARANCE SALE

To clear out the remaining stock of the 1921 Simplex Ironer, we have cut the price on the 42-inch size from $136.00 down to $89

On the 46-inch the price has been cut from $146.00 to $98

13 MONTHS TERMS ONLY $10.00 MORE

Unusual Values!—All Brand-New Machines!

Special Attention is directed to the clearance sale of the 1921 type Simplex Ironers. There are less than 50 of them remaining on hand. When they are gone, the regular prices of $136.00 on the 42-inch and $146.00 on the 46-inch sizes will prevail. Your order placed NOW will save you nearly $50 on a Simplex Ironer.

Coke—The Money Saver

All that part of your fuel that goes up the chimney as black smoke, all that settles around as soot, all that is disposed of as ashes, represents wasted money. You get dirt instead of heat.

Coke almost literally burns itself out clean, because all the elements that make soot and smoke have been extracted before you buy it. Ashes from coke are few and light. Coke is easily controlled—will smoulder low or blaze as hot at you please. Light and easy to handle.

ENGINEERS TO DISCUSS PUBLIC WORKS PLAN

Proposal to Recommend Creating a State Board to Be Taken Up.

A proposition to recommend to the constitutional convention an amendment creating a State Board of Public Works, to have control of public property and such public works wherein State funds are used, will be acted upon tonight at a joint meeting of engineers, architects and building contractors to be held under the auspices of the Associated Engineering Societies of St. Louis at the Engineers' Club, 3817 Olive street.

The proposed amendment, prepared by the Committee on Public Affairs of the Associated Engineering Societies, provides that the board shall consist of a president and four directors, the latter to be known respectively as Director of Utilities, Director of Highways, Director of aWterways and Director of Conservation. The board shall have discretionary powers over State, intercounty and interstate public improvement districts. The Legislature shall define the functions of the board, qualifications, duties, term of office and salary of its members, and authorize the Governor to appoint them.

A division to be known as the Division of Structures shall be in charge of the president of the board and shall have general supervision of all public works, lands, natural resources, structure, equipment and improvements of, or undertaken by, the State, or in which the State is financially interested.

There shall be an Advisory Council consisting of two architects, two engineers and two general contractors to advise the board in any program of design, the construction or reconstruction of State buildings or structures. The council shall also advise the board in regard to State registration of architects, engineers and constructors.

The Division of Utilities shall have general supervision over the maintenance, equipment, operation and service of all public utilities owned or operated by the State and the assessment of rates and charges thereof subject to review of the State Public Service Commission. The Division of Highways shall have charge of the construction and maintenance of all public highways and bridges wherein State funds are used. The Division of Waterways shall have supervision of all waterways and watersheds within or bounding the State, including supervision of navigable waterways, stream pollution, fisheries, waterworks, irrigation projects, flood control, water-power developments, drainage and sanitary matters. The Division of Conservation shall have charge of public safety with powers of investigation, inspection, regulation and enforcement to insure safety for the public during construction and to conserve or protect the resources in the State.

CONVENTION GETS PLAN TO ABOLISH SECRET BALLOT

W. T. Johnson of Kansas City Says Oral Voting Would Eliminate Much of Election Fraud.

THREE PROPOSALS FOR BUDGET PLAN

Committee, Headed by H. P. Lay of Warsaw, Named to Investigate the Bonus Situation.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 14.—Abolition of the secret ballot and the substitution of oral voting in elections was submitted to the Constitution Convention today by William T. Johnson of Kansas City as a means to eliminate much of the election fraud in population centers.

"If it were not for the secret ballot system, corrupt political machines in the cities could not practice any of the forms of election fraud found there now," Johnson said, when asked about his proposal.

"I would have the voter walk into the polling place, ask for the tickets he desired to use in voting and in the presence of the election officers declare his chice for each office, which could then be registered. The opportunity for fraud would be lessened materially. I think the number of voting precincts in cities should be increased to an extent that would place not more than 100 voters in each.

"Reasons for Secrecy Gone."

"The reasons for maintaining secrecy of the ballot do not exist now as they once did. There were times, years ago, when great corporations may have tried to dictate how their employes voted. But that day is gone and with it the principal reason for demanding secrecy of the ballot.

The proposal by Johnson, whose father was president of the 1875 convention, provides that "votes at all elections by the people shall be given viva voce or by a ticket handed to the judges and read aloud in the presence and hearing of the voter and shall be entered in the poll book in such manner as may be provided by law."

Partly because today is Flag day, and partly because the new Osage River bridge on the St. Louis-Kansas City highway south of the Missouri River and about eight miles east of Jefferson City, is being dedicated this afternoon, the convention met at 11 a. m. instead of 2 p. m. as usual.

Three Other Proposals.

Besides the proposal on elections Johnson presented three others, one of which would declare the right of children to inherit the property of their parents and prohibit the Legislature from abrogating that right, and another which would declare as judicial questions the determination of whether private property has been damaged or benefited by proposed public improvements for which private property must be taken.

Johnson's third proposal, would eliminate the State income tax indirectly as it provides that "in order that there shall not be double taxation, no tax shall be levied that has been or shall be imposed by the Government of the United States."

Banks would be prohibited from accepting deposits in excess of 10 times the amount of their combined capital and permanent surplus, if a proposal by R. E. Culver of St. Joseph, by request, were adopted. John H. Bothwell, chairman of the Convention Committee on Taxation, presented a suggestion that where real estate is assessed for taxation in proportion to its value that mortgages thereon should be regarded as an interest in the property and should not be a subject to any tax other than a filing tax.

Three methods of writing into the Constitution a requirement that expenditures of the State government be regulated under the budget system, were offered yesterday.

Two of these methods, both presented by M. E. Ford of Maryville, provide that the Governor, should prepare the budget or cause it to be prepared and have it introduced into the Legislature at the beginning of each session.

One of the Ford budget ideas was incorporated in a general plan which would provide that there be only two elective State officers, a Governor and Lieutenant-Governor, and that all the remainder of the executive branch of the government be grouped in departments not to exceed 10 in number under heads appointed by the Governor. It also would allow the Legislature to remove the Governor or any department head by two-thirds vote. This proposal would allow the Governor to veto appropriations outright, or to veto part of each.

The last provision would be an in-

RASH ON FACE ARMS AND LIMBS

Burned Something Awful. Lost Sleep. Cuticura Heals.

"A rash broke out on my face, arms and limbs, which later turned to large, hard, red pimples. They were very itchy, causing me to scratch, and burned something awful. My face was disfigured and I was ashamed to go anywhere. I lost many a night's sleep.

"The trouble lasted four months. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in one month was healed, after using three boxes of Ointment, together with the Soap." (Signed) R. Andersen, 2946 Fulton St., Chicago, Ill.

FIERY, ITCHY SKIN QUICKLY SOOTHED BY THIS SULPHUR

Mentho-Sulphur, a pleasant cream, will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema; that is covered with ugly rash or pimples, or is rough or dry. Nothing subdues fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist.

The moment this sulphur preparation is applied, the itching stops, and after two or three applications the eczema is gone and the skin is delightfully clear and smooth. Sulphur is so precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the burning, itching or disfigurement. Mentho-Sulphur always heals eczema right up.

A small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be had at any good drug store.

Have You Piles?

Then You Have Something to Learn

Thousands who have piles have not learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was first to find the remedy. His prescription HEM-ROID, is now sold by all druggists. Dr. Leonhardt tried it in 1000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 98 per cent, and then decided it should be sold under a rigid money-back guarantee.

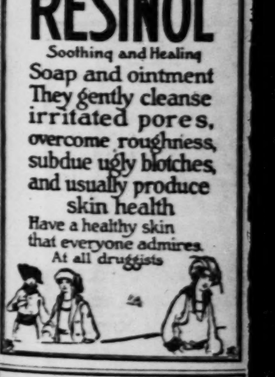

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from the Wolff-Wilson Drug Store today. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands and should do the same for you—it seldom fails.

REPORT SHOWS INCREASE IN BUILDING CONTRACTS

A recent issue of the Journal of Commerce states that building contracts awarded in twenty-seven states amounted to $353,161,000 in April, thus exceeding the previous high record reached in July, 1919.

Such a building revival means that the demand for furniture will increase, and with the increased demand prices will go up. The Prufrock-Litton Furniture Co., Fourth and St. Charles, are now making special price concessions on furniture to induce June brides to buy in June.

MAN AND WIFE KILLED, THREE OTHERS WOUNDED

Apparently Crazed Man Causes Revolver Fight at Orin Junction, Wyo.

By the Associated Press.

ORIN JUNCTION, Wyo., June 14.—Thomas E. Tubb and his wife are dead and three other persons, including Deputy Sheriff John McPherson, are seriously wounded as the result of a fight here late yesterday between Tubb, officers and several others.

Mrs. Tubb was shot by her husband, who is believed to have become suddenly insane. Tubb was slain by an unidentified resident of Orin Junction, and the three others were wounded by Tubb before he was killed.

Telephones for Officers.

Before the shooting Tubb, who was a homesteader, telephoned Douglas (Wyo.) authorties, that his farm was being taken away from him. He requested that an officer be sent to protect him.

Deputy Sheriff McPherson was sent immediately from Douglas.

As McPherson entered the store from which Tubb had telephoned, Tubb opened fire, wounding the officer. S. S. Magnuson, a railroad agent, hearing the shooting ran to the store. He was met with a fusillade of shots from Tubb's gun and fell with two wounds. It is believed that Tubb then shot his wife who was in the store with him. A posse of citizens hastily organized and surrounded the store. Tubb barricaded himself in the building and defied them. An exchange of shots took place.

Youth Also Wounded.

J. A. Graham, 21, was wounded in the fighting and fell near the store. Tubb suddenly ceased firing. The posse investigated and found him dead from a bullet wound.

Tubb's 13-year-old son was released recently from a hospital after having both feet amputated. Fear of his father is said to have driven him out of their home into a fierce storm last winter and his feet were frozen.

Girl Bitten by Sick Dog.

Miss Esther Barsacho, 23 years old, of 3659 Connecticut street, was bitten on the left hand by her dog yesterday when the animal became sick suddenly while being fondled in an automobile in which Miss Barsacho was seated, at an oil-filling station at Texas avenue and Sidney street. The dog, placed on the ground, died almost immediately after a hose in use at the station was turned on it. The body was ordered held for the City Bacteriologist and Miss Barsacho advised to visit the city hospital for special treatment.

novation, as at present appropriations may be vetoed or approved outright, but may not be reduced by the Governor.

Other Budget Proposals.

The other Ford proposal would restrain the Legislature from enacting appropriations exceeding the Governor's budget recommendations, unless such excess allotments receive votes of three-fifths of the members of each house, but would exempt measures so passed from the Governor's veto.

The West Virginia budget system, as adapted from Massachusetts and Maryland, was laid before the convention by J. W. Alexander. It provides for a budget to be made up by the elective State officers who compose an ex-officio Board of Public Works.

Robert Lamar of Houston presented a suggestion that rules of pleading, forms and practice generally in civil cases in all courts of record in the State, except County and Probate Courts, be regulated and prescribed by the State Supreme Court. Lamar said this has been urged by the American and Missouri Bar Associations.

Committee on Bonus Shortage.

The convention yesterday adopted a resolution by Henry P. Lay of Warsaw, directing the appointment of a committee to ascertain the real situation as concerns the State bonus fund, which Adjutant-General Raupp has estimated will fall by $5,000,000 or $6,000,000 to meet the claims which will be made upon it. Lay was named by C. M. Shartel, president of the convention, as chairman of the committee, the other members of which are Don O. Vernon of Lebanon, E. G. Robinson of Maysville and J. L. London of St. Louis.

The committee held a short conference with Raupp, who promised to furnish all of the information at his command, probably today.

It has been suggested that the convention submit an amendment to the present Constitution, providing for a supplementary bond issue.

There is a question whether that could be done at once, or whether it would have to be submitted along with other findings of the convention.

Be a New Man

This Summer

BY AN EASTERNER

THIS is addressed to men who need a vacation that will recreate—and that means all men. You particularly, if you are over-worked and tired.

Too many think of costs in money instead of costs in health.

There's a place to go—at a reasonable cost, by train—which has the same enchantment, the same lure as "a trip abroad."

It provides a wonderful, delightful new environment in which you lose, and thereby find yourself, remade.

So Different

You'll find a wonderland of summer there—the world's greatest playground, where every summer sport is at its best, and where everything is different, fresh and new.

Where you can motor for 4,000 miles on boulevards like city streets, visit a peak by trolley, camp, swim, fish, play golf, climb mountains, visit the missions, sail, explore canyons, rest in a wilderness, or go to the theatre. Have breakfast on a desert and dinner at a famous restaurant in a great city the same day if you wish. Travel as you will by motor, train or trolley. See for a hundred miles from a golf tee. Breathe an ozone that makes you feel actually "like a boy again."

I Was Amazed

I—an easterner—also once thought there was no place so ideal until I went to Southern California for the summer. I thought it would be warm, but, in a three months' stay—during July, August and September—slept under blankets ninety nights. Was amazed to see the U. S. Weather Bureau figures (printed here)—a 44-year record.

I went to Southern California first on the advice of a physician and found this new land that could really re-make men.

And I've returned each summer for six summers straight, to keep myself re-made.

Now tens of thousands do the same thing. There are no longer any "seasons" there.

"A Find"

If your need is the same as mine was, you will get the same results, and be glad you followed these suggestions.

Take the entire family—re-make them, too. Women and children also gain greatly by this complete change of scene and interest.

I consider Southern California "a find" as a vacation land. I think you too will so consider it.

Ask any railroad ticket agent for further information, or mail coupon below. Go this summer while you may. Make reservations now.

Temperature The average mean temperature in Southern California for the past 44 years (U. S. Weather Bureau records) is as follows: June, 66—July, 70—August, 71—September, 69.

The same records show that a great city in the center of this section has on the average only one day in June, two days in July, three in August and three in September when the thermometer touches or exceeds 90 degrees.

The air is usually dry, so higher temperatures are comfortable here that would be uncomfortable in the East where humidity emphasizes heat.

Southern California averages 309 days of sunshine. Summer is the rainless season so you can plan on perfect weather for your fun.

MOTORCYCLE, DODGING FIRE TRUCK, HITS AUTO

Man and Wife Injured in Crash —Others Are Hurt in Car Accidents.

In attempting to avoid hitting Fire Truck No. 8 at Nineteenth street and Locust boulevard at 7:15 o'clock last evening, Harry Maltzman, 21 years old, of 1735 Carr street, riding a motorcycle with side-car in which his wife was riding, struck a parked automobile and was thrown with his motorcycle in front of the fire truck. The driver of the fire truck swerved to avoid running over Maltzman and also hit the automobile.

Mr. and Mrs. Maltzman were cut and bruised and taken to their home. The fire truck, and automobile which belongs to H. L. Huber of the Huber Motor Car Co., were damaged.

Knocked Down by Car.

Mrs. Lillian Bodenbeck, 23, of 4474A Enright avenue, was seriously injured when she was knocked down by an automobile driven by James E. Nations of 1421 North Grand boulevard, in front of 912 North Taylor avenue at 9 a. m. today. She suffered a fractured left shoulder, injuries to her back, internal injuries, and scalp wounds. Nations, who was driving south on Taylor avenue, said that he was unable to stop in time to avoid hitting Mrs. Bodenbeck who suddenly stepped out from behind a north-bound Taylor car.

Miss Anna Foster, 4505 Washington boulevard, was seriously injured from lacerations of the head and face at 1:45 a. m. today when an automobile roadster in which she was riding with William McAllister, 4744 Ashland avenue, and John Goebel, 4167 Olive street, struck a tree in Fairground Park. Miss Foster was thrown against the windshield, which was shattered.

Miss Delpha Malone, of 4239 Hunt avenue, was knocked down by an automobile truck driven by Joseph Schneider, 1122 Tower Grove avenue, at Vandeventer and Racecourse avenues at 4:30 p. m. yesterday, suffering scalp lacerations and injuries to the left shoulder and left knee.

Miss Ella Connor, of 30 Yale avenue, University City, suffered lacerations of the head and body at 2 p. m. when a service car in which she was riding struck a pole protruding from a parked automobile truck at Delmar boulevard and DeBaliviere avenue.

Severely Injured in Collision.

In a collision of automobiles driven by Peter Mergelkamp Jr., 17, of 3915 South Broadway, and Ray Miller, 27, of 2400 Franklin avenue, at 4 p. m., near Bates and Michigan avenues, Miller was severely injured by being thrown against his steering wheel and Mergelkamp fainted and was taken home suffering from shock.

Mrs. Joseph Wagner, 24, of 3724 Oregon avenue, was bruised at 8:20 p. m., when her husband drove into the curb at Winnebago street and Oregon avenue, to avoid a collision with another automobile.

When automobiles driven by C. P. Finley, 819 North King's highway boulevard, and John Schrneer, 3856 Hartford street, crashed together on Clara avenue, near Pershing, at 5:50 p. m. yesterday, Bert Cohen, 22 years old, 5600 Pershing, a chemist, who was riding with Schrneer, suffered lacerations of the head and face.

John Bradley, 68, of 2406 Dickson street, suffered a fractured skull and several ribs this morning when struck by an automobile driven by William Cammarata, 1115 North Eleventh street, at Tenth street and Franklin avenue, as the truck turned into Tenth street while Bradley was crossing.

PAUL McWAIN, 2 YEARS OLD, SON OF Mrs. Charles McWain of 4 South Euclid avenue, was cut and bruised when knocked down by a bicycle ridden on the sidewalk by James Kimmel, 12 years old, son of former Judge Karl Kimmel, 4569A Lacleda avenue, in front of 4270 Lacleda avenue, yesterday. The child was taken to his home.

AD CLUBS TO MEET IN ATLANTIC CITY IN 1923

By the Associated Press.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 14.—Atlantic City will get the 1923 convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, while London will in all probability entertain the convention in 1924, it was decided at a meeting of the club presidents, lasting till early this morning. These selections are subject to ratification by the delegates at the general session of the convention on Thursday, but officials declared that they are certain to be carried.

A third candidate for the presidency of the clubs was sprung today when the Pacific coast delegates, 250 strong, decided t bring out Homer J. Buckley, Chicago, chairman of the Program Committee.

The Buckley boom was opened with the idea that there will be a deadlock between Charles H. Mackintosh of Chicago and Louis Holland and that a dark horse would win. Holland, however, continued to lead in the race, according to political dopesters at the convention

A sensation was created at the meeting of the church section late yesterday when J. Henry Smythe of Philadelphia assailed the ban on dancing and other amusements by churches, and succeeded in having a resolution adopted declaring for up-to-date methods in literature and activities of churches.

Large figures in respect to advertising were presented yesterday at the convention when Mrs. Faith G. Sharratt, advertising manager of the John Taylor Dry Goods Co., Kansas City, as chairman, opened the meeting of the Associated Retail Advertisers, of which she is vice president.

Mrs. Sharratt said that 1920 records showed an advertising use amounting to $1,284,000,000, which produced $19,000,000,000 in sales—less than 2 per cent motive power to produce the latter gigantic total; and of the advertising total, $600,000,000 was invested in newspaper advertising.

Banks have not taken full advantage of the investment impulses generated during the war, and the bond buying habit has been permitted to direct itself to an astonishing degree toward the "blue sky" offering, rather than the investments available through banks, Walter S. Greenough, assistant to the president, Fletcher Savings and Trust Co., Indianapolis, told delegates.

Teacher of Filipinos Kills Self.

MANILA, P. I., June 14.—Miss Gilmore, a school teacher, who was dismissed during the war for alleged disloyal utterances, committed suicide yesterday at Albay, province of Albay, by taking poison. Miss Gilmore had been cleared by the Governor-General of the charge of disloyalty, but Vice Governor Gilmore recently rejected her application for reinstatement. She was 44 years old. She formerly resided in Morgan Park district, Chicago.

Girls Beware of Wrinkles That Form Around Eyes or Mouth

When They Appear, as They Surely Will, Try This Successful Treatment.

The most dependable and effective method I know of is to massage them with an old-time buttermilk cream recipe, made by Howard Bros. of Buffalo, N. Y., rubbing gently across the line of these wrinkles to bring new fresh blood to the surface. If you will do this for about five minutes each night before retiring, no other treatment is necessary.

Howard's Buttermilk Cream is obtainable at any up-to-date drug or toilet goods counter and no matter whether you are troubled with wrinkles, hard little lines around eyes and mouth, coarse, sallow, faded looking skin or simply roughness and redness caused by wind or sun, you will find these troubles quickly disappear with the use of this old fashioned recipe brought up-to-date. Remember the name, Howard's Buttermilk Cream. If you cannot obtain locally send 10 cents (silver or stamps) for generous trial package of both Cream and Soap. Howard Bros. Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Statement by H. M. LIPMAN, President The Palace

I want to thank the public in general, out-of-town customers, in particular, for the wonderful patronage you have bestowed on this store. Although I prepared for the largest sale of its kind ever attempted in St. Louis, the response of the people who want to buy high-grade merchandise at the right price really overwhelmed me. In this final wind-up of our big sale you will find prices that are unmatchable—economies that scream out their superiority the moment you examine the merchandise. The success of this sale and our store is largely attributed to the straightforward, honest policy which has governed our relations with our customers. Statements that will not bear the light of reason will never be tolerated—nor have they been made during this gigantic sale. This is the platform on which we have conducted our business and will continue to conduct it—the biggest and best store in its line in St. Louis.

DEMOCRATS, O... DEFEAT JIM R... CONDEMN HIS...

Group, Comprising Ab... sails Senator a... port

A "Volunteer Organization o... Democrats to Defeat Jim Reed" was formed yesterday in the Planters Hotel at a meeting attended by about 60 persons.

Francis M. Curlee, an attorney, who was elected president, today gave out the names of approximately 100 St. Louis Democrats, who, he said, had affiliated with the organization. Among them are Former Mayor Rolla Wells, former Circuit Judges Thomas C. Hennings and Thomas L. Anderson, Charles M. Hay, James C. Jones, Charles G. Revelle, W. C. Connett, Glendy B. Arnold, Sidney S. May, Charles W. Bates, A. C. Maroney and former Gov. Lon V. Stephens. Other officers elected were William H. O'Brien, Harvey W. Salmon and Alexander Vest, vice president; W. S. Brotherton, secretary, and former Gov. Stephens, treasurer.

The platform of the organization, a review in condemnatory terms of the public career of Senator Reed, follows:

"We, the undersigned Democratic voters of the City of St. Louis, do hereby associate ourselves under the name of Volunteer Association of St. Louis Democrats, in support of these convictions, which we hold in common:

"1. We are Democrats, believing in the value of party organization and solidarity and adhering to the principles of the Democratic party as defined by Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson and Woodrow Wilson.

"2. Knowing as we do, the high qualifications of Hon. Breckinridge Long, we indorse him and pledge him our support for the office of United States Senator. He began his political career in his early youth as a worker at the polls in the Democratic organization and has enjoyed continuous promotion in the councils of the party. The confidence of the leading Democrats of the nation in him was recently attested by their tender to him of the chairmanship of the Democratic National Committee. DEMOCRATS, ORGANIZING "TO DEFEAT JIM REED," SEVERELY CONDEMN HIS PUBLIC CAREER

Group, Comprising About 100 St. Louisans, Assails Senator and Pledges Support to Long.

A "Volunteer Organization of Democrats to Defeat Jim Reed" was formed yesterday in the Planters Hotel at a meeting attended by about 60 persons.

Francis M. Curlee, an attorney, who was elected president, today gave out the names of approximately 100 St. Louis Democrats, who, he said, had affiliated with the organization. Among them are Former Mayor Rolla Wells, former Circuit Judges Thomas C. Hennings and Thomas L. Anderson, Charles M. Hay, James C. Jones, Charles G. Revelle, W. C. Connett, Glendy B. Arnold, Sidney S. May, Charles W. Bates, A. C. Maroney and former Gov. Lon V. Stephens. Other officers elected were William H. O'Brien, Harvey W. Salmon and Alexander Vest, vice president; W. S. Brotherton, secretary, and former Gov. Stephens, treasurer.

The platform of the organization, a review in condemnatory terms of the public career of Senator Reed, follows:

"We, the undersigned Democratic voters of the City of St. Louis, do hereby associate ourselves under the name of Volunteer Association of St. Louis Democrats, in support of these convictions, which we hold in common:

"1. We are Democrats, believing in the value of party organization and solidarity and adhering to the principles of the Democratic party as defined by Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson and Woodrow Wilson.

"2. Knowing as we do, the high qualifications of Hon. Breckinridge Long, we indorse him and pledge him our support for the office of United States Senator. He began his political career in his early youth as a worker at the polls in the Democratic organization and has enjoyed continuous promotion in the councils of the party. The confidence of the leading Democrats of the nation in him was recently attested by their tender to him of the chairmanship of the Democratic National Committee. He has graced the office of Assistant Secretary of State with signal ability, with credit to his state, with loyalty to his friends, with fidelity to his chief and with undeviating devotion to his country.

"3. While differing with, we respect the opinions of, Republicans who honestly oppose our views. We hold in contempt a Republican who masquerades as a Democrat and ambushes the party from within its lines.

"4. James A. Reed, Republican candidate for the Democratic nomination, has done more for the Republican party than any other Republican in Missouri.

"5. In the early days of the Democratic administration he conducted a guerilla warfare that was more of a pest than a menace.

"6. After making peace with his party by vague promises of reform, and after securing his re-election, his attacks became less covert and more sinister.

"7. He opposed the selective service or conscription act, without which the German arms would surely have triumphed over ours.

"8. He opposed the food control act, without which we could never have rationed our boys who were fighting the Germans overseas while he was fighting the President at home; and now he hypocritically seeks to make it appear that he was fighting for the farmers, who have never enjoyed such prosperity as that which obtained under the Democratic administration he so butterly assails. He now asserts that Herbert Hoover depressed the price of the farmers' wheat; yet on July 16, 1917, he complained in the Senate that Hoover, when head of the Belgian Relief Commission, had manipulated the wheat market so as to increase the price of wheat.

"9. In 1914, the President recommended certain needed changes in the Interstate Commerce Commission law. Reed opposed the measure.

"10. In the same year, the President recommended certain amendments to the antitrust laws. Reed opposed the measure after it had been agreed upon in conference.

"11. In 1916, before our entry into the great war, President Wilson, with prophetic vision, foresaw the possibilities, and proposed a naval building program commensurate with the peril confronting us. Reed opposed it.

"12. He bitterly opposed the confirmation of numerous appointments of the President, from Secretary of State down to United States Marshal. In the recent contest over the confirmation of the Republican appointment of Nat Goldstein, he suddenly declared he would take no sides. He was the only Democratic Senator to vote for the confirmation of Harding's appointment of George Harvey as Ambassador to England. Harvey was and is the bitterest enemy of Woodrow Wilson in this country, excepting only James A. Reed, Sylvester Vlerick and William Randolph Hearst.

"13. In 1917 he bitterly attacked the National Council of Defense, a patriotic body of men who served their country without compensation.

"14. He has, with insult and abuse, opposed extending the franchise to women.

"15. In 1917 he opposed the export trade bill recommended to Congress by the President.

"16. In 1918 he bitterly fought the Fuel Administration.

"17. In the campaign for the special election in the Third Congressional District in the spring of 1920 the principal issue was the record of the Wilson administration. In this campaign the Republican Campaign Committee used Reed's postal frank to send out copies of his speeches denouncing the President and the administration. When the Democratic Committee of the district demanded of him a statement on the issue of the campagn he sent a telegram which the committee dared not use. The telegram, in effect, said that he indorsed the candidate, but opposed the platform on which he was running.

"18. He now expresses a mock sympathy for President Wilson, and insincerely pretends, for campaign purposes, that he was never animated by hostility to the President. On Oct. 1, 1918, the President addressed the Senate, and Reed was the only Senator, Republican or Democratic, guilty of the breach of decorum of failing to arise upon the entry into the Senate chamber of the President of the United States.

"19. On March 18, 1919, before the Missouri Legislature, Reed so viciously attacked the President that more than 50 members of the Legislature indignantly left the hall and refused to return during his presence.

"20. He declared publicly that Democratic policies would imperil the republic, and opposed them with picturesque vituperation. He followed this by voting the straight Democratic ticket and calling upon all present to witness that he cast a vote which he had declared would imperil the republic. He now heaps fulsome praise upon himself for his alleged courage and independence.

"21. He has opposed and continues to oppose all plans and policies looking to international co-operation for peace among the nations. He has preached and continues to preach the malignant gospel of international suspicion and distrust. While a war-sick world is striving for reconstruction and reconciliation, he panders to racial grudges and stirs up ancient grievances.

"22. In response to the importunities of the Democratic State Committee and all other Democratic organizations which sought to curb his career, he contemptuously replied that he would heed only the mandate of a regularly constituted Democratic convention. After both the State and national conventions had repudiated him and made a declaration of Democratic policies, he ignored the mandate and made many speeches against the Democratic platform and in favor of Republican candidates outside the State. He now declares he will take orders only from the sovereign voters of Missouri. A solemn duty rests upon the Democracy of this State to see that those orders are clear and positive.

"23. He has exhausted the vocabulary of hate in maligning the man who has done more than any other in modern times to make practical application of the Sermon on the Mount.

"24. In the face of his public career, of which only a sketch is possible here, he now declares he would not, if he could, change a single vote of his. His nomination would be justly interpreted as an indorsement by Missouri Democrats of all his acts and utterances.

"We, as Democrats, declare it to be our earnest conviction that the Democratic party cannot succeed in Missouri under the leadership of a man who wears the livery of Democracy and serves Republicanism. Under Democratic leadership a Democratic victory is certain. We therefore assert our unalterable opposition to James A. Reed. We therefore reaffirm our faith in the democracy of Breckinridge Long; of the democracy of the Joplin and San Francisco platforms; of the democracy of Woodrow Wilson."

RUSSIA HAS NO HOPE IN THE HAGUE, SAYS TCHITCHERIN

Bolshevik Foreign Minister Concludes Coming Meeting Will Be Continuation of Genoa Conference.

"GOT NOTHING THERE BUT RAPALLO TREATY"

Finds Same Fault With U. S. That He Does With France, That "It Argues Abstractly."

BERLIN, June 14.—The Hague will be a continuation of Genoa, and there is no hope in it. This is the final conclusion of the Russians as given to the correspondent today in an interview with Foreign Minister George Tchitcherin, who is staying in Berlin another week before returning to Moscow.

"It looks like a continuation of Genoa," he declared, "and we got nothing out of Genoa but the Rapallo treaty and a definite increase of outside public sentiment in our favor.

"The French want to talk principles; we want to talk business. We know we have a different economic system than theirs. We believe both systems can work side by side. We want to find out the best way. We will settle controversial points practically, not academically. We want our rights protected, but we are willing to give concessions."

What Russia Will Insist On.

Russia, he continued, is drifting toward "national capitalism." Russia will insist on reserving the right to own big industries at the end of a stated number of years on the same principle as the New York subways.

Tchitcherin found the same fault with the United States he found with France, that "it argues abstractedly." Even past controversies, such as the claim of American business men, can be settled, he said, by considering each individual case. But he holds it impossible to settle anything on theory.

"We, of course, cannot agree to dictation of our internal policy by Mr. Hughes or anyone else," he declared. "The United States would resent outside interference or the suggestion that the United States should change their form of government. We are in the same position. We are willing to make every concession to outside capital, but we refuse to permit ourselves to be exploited.

Position as to Industries.

"Our system of long leases, instead of giving property outright, has been in existence in England, where the freehold is really the same as a lease. We do not want our industries to pass into the hands of the individuals, but we will not interfere with the conduct of the industries."

The exchange of notes about The Hague between London and Paris shows, Thitcherin believes, that Russia will again have to face the rest of the world alone.

But the soviet Foreign Minister hopes to prove that capitalism and Bolshevism can work side by side by concluding a number of separate agreements. This, he still thinks, is the only way out for Russia.

MASSACHUSETTS IN SADDLE IN CONGRESS NOW, SAYS GARNER

Texas Democrat Says New England State and Not the West Presides Over the House and Senate.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Massachusetts—not the West—is in congressional saddle nowadays. Representative Garner, Democrat, Texas, declared yesterday in the House.

"You used to say the South was in the saddle," said Mr. Garner, "but I want some of you Western Republicans to say in the next campaign who is there now. Massachusetts is in the saddle. Massachusetts presides over this House, it presides over the Senate and has a member of the steering committee in the house." He continued, "to illustrate to you Republicans hat you haven't sufficient capacity on your side of the House outside of Massachusetts to preside over the House."

ATTITUDE OF BOLD DEFIANCE OF HIS CRITICS ASSUMED BY REED IN LEXINGTON SPEECH

Senator Generously Applauded During Attack on League of Nations and Challenge to State Democratic Organization.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

LEXINGTON, Mo., June 14.—Senator Reed, speaking last night in Lexington before an audience of about 1000 persons and the most demonstrative audience he has addressed this year, delivered a characteristic Reed anti-League of Nations speech. He challenged the Democratic State organization and insisted that he would again do everything he had done in the past if the same situation existed. Reed appeared less in an apologetic position than in his other speeches. There was less in the nature of an explanation, and more of bold defiance of his critics.

Reed's voice was better than last week, and he appeared in much better physical condition after a two days' rest. While there was more applause than at any of the other Reed meetings, and the applause was more general through the audience, it could not be said that it was strictly a Reed audience. It was estimated by a man familiar with Lafayette County audiences that about one-third of those present were Republicans and that fully one-half of the Democrats were anti-Reed Democrats.

Lexington Reed Stronghold.

Lexington is the Reed stronghold of the county, but the anti-Reed supporters insist that Long will carry it. Reed's speech last night was in the gymnasium of the Wentworth Military Academy, which the chairman of the county committee and Y. W. Wilcox, a Reed supporter, engaged, and at the same time arranged that it should be available for Breckinridge Long, Reed's opponent, when he visits Lexington. Reed was introduced by Col. J. L. Ristine, a lawyer of Lexington, who made a particular plea to American Legion men to support Reed, saying "Reed had stood in the forefront for the service men during and since the war."

Stepping to the front of the platform, Reed put himself on a familiar footing with his audience by asking permission of the women to remove his coat, the auditorium being very warm. Striking right out against the League of Nations, Reed exclaimed: There never has been a war fought that somebody did not afterward have a plan to revolutionize the world. There never was one of those plans tried that it did not bring disaster if not chaos to the world."

Attacks State Organization.

"I shall not ever let any individual, I care not who he may be, direct me on any public question," Reed continued, and then launched into his attack on the Democratic State organization and the Democratic State convention, which two years ago repudiated him and refused to send him as a delegate to the Democratic national convention.

"I have only two bosses," he said. "One of them I live with and the other is you people—I am making my accounting to you.

"I am not going to give any accounting to any Democratic State committee. It never was selected to guide Congressmen, Senators or Presidents. It was chosen to help elect the ticket after it was nominated.

"I didn't come to account to a Joplin convention, which was about as undemocratic and as disorderly an assemblage as was ever brought together in the State of Missouri.

"The White House said an army of a half million men, a navy of 250,000 men, and enforced military training were needed to uphold our obligations under the League of Nations," Reed continued. "And yet they told us the League of Nations would produce the millenium and the lion and the lamb would lie down together.

Fought Big Standing Army.

"I fought the big standing army because it was in conflict with all the principles of the Democratic party throughout its history and wasn't I right in this, and wasn't somebody else wrong? Wasn't somebody else out in a new brush patch, exploiting new ideas and new theories?"

He repeated his attacks on the New York Times and the Globe-Democrat, which he declared were owned by "great financial interests."

For the first time he included an attack on the three-power treaty in his speech, asking his audience, "How many of you believe that we should have entered into a hard and fast agreement to fight for France and England through a great number of years in case either got into difficulties with Germany? My distinguished opponent says he believes we should.

"Let them settle their own quarrels over there. No American boy shall die in European snows settling the quarrels across the water."

He appealed to the women interested in suffrage by attempting to show that President Wilson had opposed national suffrage.

"What have you suffrage people to say about the President holding that suffrage was not a proper subject for the Federal Constitution?" he asked. "What have you to say about the arrest of the White House pickets for suffrage? What have you to say about the enthusiastic suffragists burning the pictures and letters of the President? What have you to say about the President just a few weeks later changing front and saying that we must have national suffrage? You didn't expect me to stay with him along that route, did you? I can't change that fast."

Renews Attack on Hoover.

Reed returned to his usual attack on Hoover which he eliminated from his speech in Mexico Saturday.

"The papers said I was fighting the President," he said. "Yes, I was fighting Hoover, and I'd fight 'em again."

There are about 1000 coal miners in and near Lexington, and Reed appealed to them by praising organized labor, accompanying it with a suggestion to the farmers that they organize.

"I compliment labor for its good sense in having organization," he said, "and Mr. Farmer, you had better get yourself organized so you won't be the victim again."

Reed eliminated entirely from his speech personal criticism of Long, which characterized nearly all his speeches last week. The nearest he came to it was an indirect reference to Long's wealth by discussing the "millionaire block" in the Senate and urging upon his audience that "no more millionaires be added to it."

Senator Reed spoke twice yesterday in territory adjacent to Jackson County, but which, nothwithstanding that fact, appears politically little different from other sections of the State.

Also Heard at Odessa.

Both speeches were in Lafayette County, one in Odessa in the afternoon and the other in Lexington in the evening. Lafayette adjoins Jackson County and frquently in the old convention days the Jackson County and Kansas City influence was sufficient to control Lafayette, but inquiry among a large number of Democrats yesterday brought forth replies which justifies a belief that Lafayette will give Long two votes to one it gives Reed, and there are many who estimate that the proporition will be three to one.

Reed also spoke briefly to the inmates of the State Confederate Soldiers' Home near Higginsville, which has 250 inmates, ex-Confederate soldiers and their wives. The sentiment among the old Confederates seems to be almost solidly against Reed.

One ex-Confederate who said he had talked to nearly every one of the other inmates regarding Reed and Long, said he knew of only five who intended to vote for Reed, but that he believed that number would be increased to about 12 by primary time, all the others being for Long.

Long is popular among the inmates, the name Breckinridge containing something of an appeal to the Confederate soldier. Long visited the home in his campaign two years ago. He delivered a speech and shook hands with all the inmates and they were told by an old soldier who introduced Long that a Confederate battle flag hung in the Long home in St. Louis.

Influential Reed Supporters.

It is not to be supposed that Reed has no influential supporters in the county. He has a number, including Wilcox, chairman of the Democratic County Committee; Col. J. T. Ristine of the Thirty-fifth Division, a resident of Lexington; Zack Wright, former County Judge, and N. J. Gordon of Waverly. James P. Ohinn of Higginsville, a member of the County Committee, and formerly a State Senator, said he knew of no other member of the committee than Wilcox who was supporting Reed. Wilcox confirmed Chinn's statement. Chinn, who has made several campaigns of the county and is familiar with all sections of it, said his opinion was that it would go at least two to one for Long. He said the Higginsville and Odessa neighborhoods would go stronger than that, at least three to one, but that in Lexington Reed would make a much stronger showing, though he expressed the opinion that Long would carry Lexington by a small vote.

Virtually the same opinion was expressed by Henry C. Chiles, a Lexington lawyer. Chiles said he considered an estimate that the county would go two to one for Long to be very conservative. Both Chinn and Chiles said the sentiment among the farmers was very strongly anti-Reed.

"The farmers are interested in only one thing," Chiles said, "and that is the price of wheat now, not three or four years ago."

Wilcox said that in his opinion the vote in Lafayette County would be very close, but that if either candidate had an advantage Long had it.

Some Miners for Reed.

There are about 1000 coal miners in and about Lexington, and a few hundred less in and about Higginsville. It seemed impossible to obtain anything like an accurate estimate as to the number of miners who vote the Democratic ticket, but there appeared to be little difference of opinion among both Reed and Long supporters; that a majority of the miners in the Lexington district would support Reed and that a majority of the miners in the Higginsville district would support long.

VIGOROUS ATTACK MADE ON PROPOSED FURNITURE DUTY

Senator Simmons Points to It as Illustrative of Plan of Majority to Tax Everything in Home.

WAR-TIME PRICES CITED BY SENATOR KING

Utah Democrat Argues That if Anything Could Be Done to Lower Prices It Should Be Done.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 14. — The administration tariff bill was subjected to another general attack yesterday in the Senate by Senator Simmons, Democrat, North Carolina, who declared the committee duty of 60 per cent ad valorem on reed and willow furniture—which susequently was approved—was illustrative of the plan of the majority as outlined in the whole bill.

"You start in the kitchen, levying heavy duties on kitchen utensils and ware," said the Senator. "Next you impose a heavy tax on tableware and then you go after the furniture in the home, levying a duty of 60 per cent on furniture in common use throughout the country.

"If you can tell me anything of consequence entering into the household or the building of home, or that goes on the backs of the people on which you have not increased the duties, I don't know what it is. If this tax is for revenue, then I say to you, do not go into the homes of the people to tax the necessities to raise a revenue."

Attacks "Furniture Trust."

Attacking what he described as the "furniture trust," Senator King, Democrat, Utah, said the "trust" had charged enormous prices, especially during the war, and that if there was anything that could be done to force the lowering of prices, it should be done.

The furniture item furnished the only real fight of the day in which unusually good progress was made on the bill. Disposing of several remaining minor amendments in the metal schedule, the Senate got through with the wood schedule, after deferring the fight over the proposal to retain shingles on the free list.

Then it went into the sugar schedule, but since the committee had not recommended any change in the House rates in that section the big controversy over this will await completion of action on the remaining 1700 odd committee amendments.

To Oppose Wood Schedule.

Senator Underwood of Alabama, the Democratic leader, gave notice when the wood schedule was taken up that at the proper time he would move to restore logs of fir, spruce, cedar and Western hemlock to the free list. A duty of $1 per thousand feet, board measure, was approved by the House and the committee.

Aside from the 60 per cent duty on reed furniture, rates in the wood schedule approved included 15 cents per gross on clothes pins; 35 per cent ad valorem on house or cabinet furniture of wood, not specially provided for, and from 40 per cent to 50 per cent on porch and window blinds, baskets, shades and screens of bamboo wood, straw or palm leaf.

SMALLER LLOYD GEORGE VOTE BRINGS SHOUTS OF "RESIGN"

Premier Resists Another Powerful Attack in Commons—Upheld by Vote of 205 to 111.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 14.—Premier Lloyd George successfully resisted another powerful attack in the House of Commons yesterday when a proposal to reduce the vote for the cost of his Cabinet secretariat was rejected by 205 to 111, amid scenes of excitement. The majority was considerably smaller than customary and occasioned shouts of "Resign!"

The secretariat consists of the Premier's private secretaries, with a large staff, covering about £33,000 yearly. It is an outgrowth of the war, and in the opinion of the opposition is no longer needed, giving the Premier too great an executive control, especially in the domain of foreign policy, besides destroying the traditional Cabinet secrecy, as the members of the secretariat now attend Cabinet meetings and take notes.

Lloyd George, in discussing the subject, predicted that no Minister in the futupre would cast away this machine. He denied that the secretariat exercised mysterious functions or usurped the functions of Parliament or enabled the Prime Minister to override the Parliament's decisions. The secretariat had nothing to do with politics, it had no control over foreign policy, he said. He asserted that the world wanted new methods, and ridiculed the idea that there should be a return to the old system which had plunged the world into war.

BATES COUNTY AUDIENCE APPLAUDS DENUNCIATION OF TARIFF BILL BY LONG

Five Hundred Persons Hear Candidate for Senator at Butler—Gathering Most Enthusiastic He Has Addressed.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BUTLER, Mo., June 14.—A denunciation of the tariff measure now before Congress brought Breckinridge Long his greatest applause in a speech here last night. He condemned the measure as a hindrance to the revival of business in this country, because, he said it would stifle competition.

The proposed tariff on cotton handkerchiefs was cited as an example of the effect the new schedule would have on prices. There was now a duty of 46 cents a dozen on imported cotton handkerchiefs. It was proposed, he told the audience of 500 persons in the Bates County courthouse, to raise the duty to $1.23. This, he said, would shut out foreign manufacturers.

Audience More Enthusiastic.

There was more enthusiasm in the audience last night than in any Long has addressed heretofore. Senator Reed, Long's opponent, spoke here three weeks ago. Those present last night evidently had heard Reed, for they took the lead in applauding when Long answered indirectly some of Reed's arguments. Long adhered generally to his speech given at former meetings. He urged that Democracy should accept an internationalist view and permit the Republicans to be narrow in their views and follow a policy of isolation.

The audience applauded the speaker's illustration which attributed the business slump to the rejection of the Versailles treaty. The mention of Woodrow Wilson and the League of Nations induced sustained applause.

Introduced by Woman.

Long was introduced last night by a woman. It was the first time, he said, since he began campaigning two months ago that a woman acted in that capacity. Mrs. I. M. Kretsinger, chairman of the Democratic Women's County Committee, called Long "The next Senator" in introducing him.

"He is a man who is 100 per cent loyal to the party," she said.

Mrs. Rachel Tingle, a member of the women's committee, told the correspondent she had eben misquoted in the press in connection with Senator Reed's visit here. She said the quotation pledged the women to vote for the Democratic nominee in November, no matter who won at the primary.

"Will you support the nominee?" she was asked.

"It has not been decided," she answered. "We might."

May Answer Reed Friday.

Senator Reed's thrust at Long on the prohibition question may be answered Friday night at Moberly. Long intimated last night. Reed accused Long of being "wet" in St. Louis and "dry" in the country; of favoring light wines and beer in the city and absolute prohibition in the rural districts.

Long made a trip through Bates County in a motor car yetserday. Party workers who accompanied him expressed the belief that Long would carry this country three to one.

Long will speak tonight at Windsor.

AGREEMENT REPORTED AT IRISH NEGOTIATIONS

Safeguarding of Minorities in South Understood to Be Satisfactory.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 14.—The Central News says this evening it has learned authoritatively that today's Irish negotiations resulted in agreement on virtually all points.

Yesterday conversations with reference to safeguarding the minorities in the South are understood to have been entirely satisfactory and probably will result in the insertion in the new Irish constitution of provisions under which the minorities will be able to share in the Government of the Free State.

It is reported that the financial position of the provisional Free State government has been one of the topics most recently raised at the conferences, with the result that the British Treasury may make a loan to the Dublin government until it is functioning more effectively.

Confidence is expressed that Colonial Secretary Churchil will be able to make a full statement on the situation tomorrow.

PRACTICAL TO PUT BOND ITEMS ON GENERAL ELECTION BALLOT

Commissioners Tell City Counselor Submission of Question Then Would Be Convenient.

The Board of Election Commissioners yesterday forwarded to the City Counselor a statement that it would be practical to place the $77,300,000 in bond items on the ballot for the general election Nov. 7. Submitting of the bond issues in the general election would not inconvenience election officials in handling the election, the Commissioners said.

City Counselor Caulfield requested the information upon instruction from the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, which will recommend a date for the election, to be included in the ordinance on the bond proposals to be forwarded to the Board of Aldermen. The Board of Estimate meets Friday.

Opinion among Board of Estimate members varies on the time the election should be held. The Comptroller has stated he is opposed to a special election because of the cost of approximately $75,000. Mayor Kiel and President Aloe of the Board of Aldermen, favor a special election to permit the bonds to stand on their own merits and to avoid the possibility of the bonds being overshadowed by political matters in a general election.

Ford Allowed to Reduce Coal on Road.

DR. YEN AGAIN FOREIGN MINISTER OF CHINA

He Also Is Acting Premier, Pending Reply on Offer of Post to Wu Ting Fang.

By the Associated Press.

PEKIN, June 14.—Dr. W. W. Yen, former Foreign Minister, has been reappointed to that post in the new central Chinese Government of President Li Yuan Hung.

Dr. Yen also has been named acting Premier and is expected to be made Premier in the event Wu Ting Fang, the Foreign Minister of the Southern Government at Canton, refuses to be President Li's Prime Minister.

Gen. Wu Pei Fu, the outstanding military figure of China, by reason of his recent defeat of Chang Tso Lin, the Manchurian leader, has been chosen Minister of War in the Pekin Cabinet. Dr. Wang Chung Hui, a lawyer of international repute, will be President Li's Minister of Justice.

These appointments were announced in a mandate issued by President Li.

It is understood that there still is hope that Dr. Wu Ting Fang will consent to forsake Sun Yat Sen and his Southern Government and lead what President Li designs to be an all-China ministry.

No Announcement by Wu.

Wu Pei Fu, who was in Paotingfu when the mandate was published, has not announced whether he will accept the portfolio of war. His decision is awaited with anxiety.

Gen. Wu was selected in response to a popular demand that he participate actively in the reconstruction of China. If he accepts it is understood he will devote his attention to disbanding superfluous troops, which he and his advisers consider number hundreds of thousands.

The Chinese newspapers, commenting editorially, assert that Li's assumption of the presidency is a move toward popular government. They concede that he is surrounding himself with statesmen who recognise the needs of China.

Dr. W. W. Yen Conversant With Affairs in United States.

Dr. W. W. Yen, the new acting Premier of the only government in China recognized by the foreign Powers, has an experience and education cosmopolitan in scope. He is particularly conversant with affairs in the United States.

He is 45 years old. After studying in Chinese schools, he came to America at the age of 18, entering the Episcopal High School at Alexandria, Va., where he remained three years. He then entered the University of Virginia and was graduated in 1900 with an A. B. degree.

Yen became undersecretary of Foreign Affairs in 1913 when the first Government of the China Republic was organized. A year later he was named Minister to Germany and Denmark, and he remained in Germany until China declared war. He has been Foreign Minister in the Cabinet of the retiring Pekin President, Hsu Shih Chang.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

Can't Charge It to Soap.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

REFERRING to letters of "Kum Kleen" and "Another Victim," with reference to laundry prices, when the price of soap is put forth as an excuse for present laundry prices, it is on the presumption that the public is ignorant. The writer has for years been identified with the laundry industry, and knows enough of the line to speak with some authority. Back in pre-war days, when cost of production was a subject of discussion, with a 10-cent shirt price and balance of list in proportion, the percentage of cost for all materials, which includes soap, soda, chloride of lime, oxalic acid, blue, starch and wrapping material, was around 2 per cent of the service price, and if it was higher than this figure the superintendent went up on the carpet and either lowered it or went for another job.

Granting that prices for all these materials are double the pre-war figure, which they are not, their present cost of production with a 20-cent shirt and balance of list in proportion cannot exceed 2 per cent.

The real cause for present unreasonable prices lies in the thorough organization of the industry. Such meetings as were held in this city last week by the State laundrymen are the answer to the whole price problem. J. L. T.

Flowers From East St. Louis.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE East End Improvement Association, representing residents of the city of East St. Louis, east of Forty-second street, desires to express its appreciation of the splendid article on East Side Canal Project 12, appearing in your issue of May 26.

The people residing in the district affected by this project appreciate your interest in the matter.

Revised Version.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE cartoon reprinted by you representing "Britannia" as an old woman astonished that the "Irish Factions" were still fighting and not "living happily ever afterwards," would be nearer the true situation if it showed a man labeled "Ireland" who had been beaten nearly to death and robbed of nearly everything by a highwayman labeled "Ulsterite-Englishman," while a big, burly policeman, labeled "English Army," was still clubbing the victim over the head and exclaiming, "How dare you try to recover your property!"

Wanted: A New Courthouse.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I HAVE noticed that the proposed bond issue has taken no account of the crying need in this city for a new courthouse.

It is an obvious fact to any person who has any business in the present courthouse that its facilities are entirely inadequate to fulfill the purpose for which the building was designed. It is almost impossible on the second floor to hear the testimony of witnesses if any of the windows are open, and on the lower floor, even with the windows closed, the same condition prevails.

Since it is generally conceded that the administration of justice lies at the foundation of society, it occurs to me that we ought to have an adequate building as a substitute for the present one.

A. B. FREY.

Two Laws for Labor.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I READ Mr. Charles J. Phelps' letter, and he sure has the right idea about a minimum wage law. If we had a law like that, us laboring people would have the right protection, and there would not have to be any unions. Another law we would need to go with that law would be the eight-hour day law. If we poor stiffs had only those two laws we would be able to enjoy some of the fruits of life. But that is not what the capitalist wants, and he always gets what he wants.

F. BROWN.

Earth, From a Distance.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

YOUR editorial, "Earth an Undesirable," contains an idea that should attract the notice of those who study the heavens in the quest of truth. The phrase, "You act like an earthian," is particularly good. "Earthian" should be regarded as synonymous with "provincialist" or "hidebound mossbacker" in universal politics.

The planets may or may not be inhabited. Distant systems of worlds may forever remain outside the ken of man. But consider some of the objections to the idea of habitation in our own system (the system in which we find ourselves). "The year is very short, consequently the seasons are short; the terrific heat. The year is very long, consequently the seasons are very long; the terrific cold." As the planets are nearest or farthest from the sun, "the great difference in the force of gravitation." All such objections are based on human concepts, and they should seem rather narrow when we consider the fact that the earth is a geometrical point in space.

J. HALLORAN.

NATIONAL HYPOCRISY.

Does the United States Government, in permitting the possessing, transporting and selling of liquor on its ships, stand on the legal technicality that American ships are not American territory or on the necessity of selling liquor to maintain American shipping on the high seas in competition with the ships of nonprohibition countries?

Albert D. Lasker, chairman of the American Shipping Board, supplements his plea that American-owned ships are not American territory for the purpose of the enforcement of the prohibition laws with the plea that it is necessary to sell liquor on the Shipping Board's ships or abandon passenger ships altogether, because without liquor bars they would be unprofitable.

We do not pretend to pass upon the legal argument, which, however, completely disposes of all effort to check the liquor traffic beyond the three-mile zone, or to confiscate liquor or punish shipowners for possession of liquor in American ports, to be sold beyond the three-mile zone. The prohibition navy must be abandoned altogether if the United States Government is to have a shred of honor or consistency left.

It should be borne in mind that the "wet" ships for which justification is found in the definition of American territory are not ships merely under American registry, but ships owned and controlled by the American Government, and that the object of liquor selling is to enable them to make profits which go to the United States through its agent, the Shipping Board. The Government of the United States, with a Constitution forbidding the sale or transportation of liquor, for beverage purposes; with drastic laws forbidding its manufacture or sale or transportation in American territory, sells all kinds of liquor, whisky, brandy, cordial, wines, beers of the highest alcoholic content, to whomsoever wants to buy and drink to intoxication on its own ships. It pockets the profits of its liquor traffic.

The United States maintains a huge, costly force of prohibition enforcement officers; it has hundreds of spies and enforcement officers to arrest plain citizens who make or sell liquor or who have it in their possession; United States Judges fine and imprison citizens who illegally make, sell or possess liquor, yet to maintain and make profitable the ships it owns, controls and operates on the ocean, these ships are stocked with liquors bought with United States money, and such liquors are sold without limit to those who sail on them, for profit. The Government agent boasts that they are the "wettest ships" on the ocean, and guarantees the boast, in order to get traffic.

The purpose of the constitutional amendment and the drastic Volstead act is highly moral. It is to save the people from even temptation to intemperance. It is intended as a moral effort on the part of Government to put an end forever to the degradation of strong drink. It is a death stroke aimed at the "demon rum." Yet the "demon rum" ranges at large on Government-owned ships, tempting passengers to fill themselves with strong drink and drive themselves to degradation and moral death.

Mr. Lasker charges August A. Busch with selfish motives for calling attention to the Government's inconsistency in punishing liquor sellers on land and bootlegging on a wholesale scale at sea; for destroying great industries on land by enforcing the prohibition laws and maintaining its own wholesale liquor-selling industry on its own ships. Mr. Lasker has a contemptible fling at the Busch family, charging them with pro-Germanism and working for German against American ships. What is Mr. Lasker's motive in selling liquor on American-owned ships? Why should the Government destroy the great breweries which made and sold only beer, while it promotes its own shipping business by selling all kinds of highly intoxicating liquor?

It is to laugh with gargantuan laughter. Never was there such a gigantic exhibition of hypocrisy—sordid hypocrisy. If it were clear as day that the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act did not apply to Government-owned ships—if they were wholly exempt—the policy of the Government in selling liquor on its own ships would be indefensible. It would violate the spirit of the law and wholly nullify its moral purpose. As the stern enforcer of prohibition on land and the king of bootleggers on the ocean, the United States is damned morally beyond redemption. The Shipping Board has stigmatized the nation as a monumental hypocrite, a shining mausoleum of moral corruption.

THE "VIGILANTES."

The aim of the St. Louis Safety Council to diminish the number of automobile casualties is commendable, but its judgment in licensing 350 men as "vigilantes," with instructions to halt and reprimand law violators, is questionable. Enforcement of the law is the duty of fully authorized officers, wearing the insignia of authority. The "vigilante" idea is an old one, but it is a desperate resort when law has utterly broken down and is accompanied by great abuses.

The practice of permitting unofficial organizations to confer any sort of police power on individuals is violently contrary to American principles of government. Too much care can never be exercised in choosing the persons upon whom unusual privileges are to be bestowed. In this case the position is of precisely the sort that would appeal to officious busybodies, ambitious to assume authority. While the "vigilantes" are not empowered to make arrests, instances in which they have represented themselves as police officers have been reported.

Experience has shown that it is dangerous for men in civilian clothes to challenge citizens on the streets. The challengers are likely to be mistaken for highwaymen. More than one such misunderstanding has resulted in a deadly pistol battle, and with automobile robberies growing more frequent, the danger increases. It remains to be shown that St. Louis needs such an organization. The power of the "vigilante" amounts to little more than permission to take the license number of an automobile that is being driven in violation of the law. But that is the privilege—and the duty—of every citizen. Every man should assist in the enforcement of the law. Giving certain men "vigilante" cards merely tempts them to assume prerogatives which they do not possess.

BOYS AND DOGS IN KANSAS.

Officials of Emporia, Kan., betrayed a strange lack of understanding when they offered the boys of the city a bounty of 25 cents each for all the stray dogs they might bring to the city pound to be killed. William Allen White uttered a deserved rebuke in exclaiming: "Doesn't the city administration know that a boy who would deliberately bring a stray dog to the pound to be killed ought to be killed himself?" What a future Emporia would face if its next generation of business men were composed of grown-up boys who had got their start by selling dogs to the executioner!

If we know anything about boys the officials' 30 pieces of silver will go begging. No official sanction could justify a boy's conscience in the betrayal of his immemorial friend and companion. We refuse to believe that the boys are as bad as their fathers. While it is not possible at this distance to know just what Emporia dogs need, the welfare of Emporia boys seems to demand the muzzling of city officials.

Ninety per cent of continuances in court cases, says Judge Faris, are due to unpaid attorneys' fees. The law's delay, then, seems to be nothing but a chronic lawyers' strike.

THE CONSTITUTION IN EDUCATION.

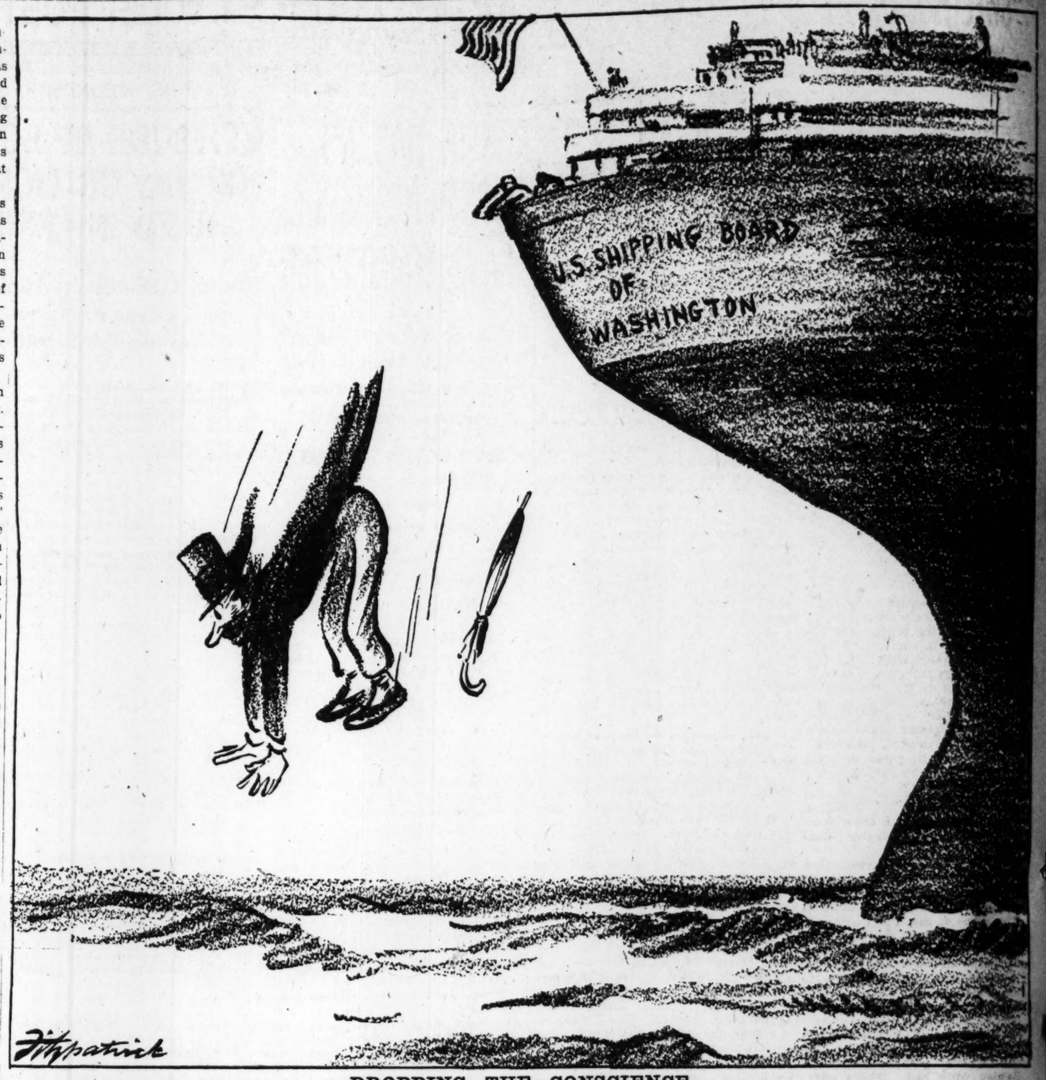

The University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn., has made the interesting innovation of requiring as a condition of the academic degree that the student shall have completed at least one year's course in the study of the Constitution, "with special reference," says the dispatch, "to the spirit of the founders of the republic and the interpretation of the Constitution by the highest courts of the land."

There has been a growing appreciation in the last few years of the importance of the Constitution in the life of the nation. Issues raised by the war are among the reasons for the awakening demand for constitutional knowledge. The passage of the eighteenth amendment, the agitation for more sumptuary laws and the abuse of the fourth amendment in the enforcement of the eighteenth are other developments which have brought out the importance of the fundamental law.

The trustees of the University of the South are right. The Constitution should be a compulsory subject not only in colleges but in high schools or wherever in his educational career the youth's mind reaches the point of comprehension. It is a wonder that the universities and colleges have been so long in realizing their obligation. The Constitution should be taught not as propaganda but as a fact together with a comprehensive consideration of all the determining facts in its making.

THE ANCIENT MARINER.

IT is an ancient mariner,
Who stoppeth one of three.
"Now, by my halidom!" I saith,
"Now wherefore stoppeth me?"
"Our Government," the old man said,
"Serves drinks upon the sea.

"I have the wins list printed here,"
He said with bulging eyes.
"Just everything, including beer—
A terrible surprise!
Scotch whisky, e'en, doth reappear—
What's happened to the drys?"

It is an ancient mariner
Who wildly waves the sheet.
"The Shipping Board is serving drinks—
This knocks me off my feet!
It makes our inconsistency,
At any rate, complete!

"Because our ships cannot hold out
Against those serving drinks,
We yield the point and turn about
With sundry knowing winks—
Necessity, beyond a doubt,
Despite what Bryan thinks!"

Is is an ancient mariner
Who gives a loud whoopee.
"So prohibition, even, is
A matter of degree!
"Then by my halidom," he saith,
"I'm going back to sea!

"I want an old Jamaica rum
To cheer my drooping soul.
Farewell to land, which has become
Bellke a living coal!
We're only all damned hypocrites—
So fill the flowing bowl!"

Excerpt from Carl Sandburg's poem, "The Windy City:"

Forgive us if we work so hard
And the muscles bunch clumsy on us,
And we never know why we work so hard.
If the big houses with little families
And the little houses with big families
Sneer at each other's bars or misunderstandings;
Pity us when we shackle and kill each other
And believe at first we understood
And later say we wonder why.

Forgive us—
If cripples sit on their stumps
And joke with the newsies bawling
"Many lives lost." "Many lives lost!"
"Terrible accident!" "Many lives lost!"
If again 12 men let a woman go;
"He done me wrong; I shot him."
Or the blood of a child's head
Spatter's on the hub of a motor truck.
Or a 44-gat cracks and lets the skylights
Into one more bank messenger,
Or if boys steal coal in a railroad yard
And run with humped gunnysacks
While a bull picks off one of the kids
And the kid wriggles with an ear in cinders,
And a mother comes to carry home
A bundle, a limp bundle,
To have his face washed for the last time.
Forgive us if it happens—and happens again—
And happens again.

All right, since you say it like that—if the other folk will.

IN MISSOURI.

(Monroe County Appeal.)

A mercantile company of New Florence, six miles east of Montgomery City, is offering a 25-pound sack of flour to every farmer coming to and from town on a drag. This offer is being made to boost good roads.

Logan Retor, a Lamar man, who claims to be the champion egg sucker of the State, surpassed all his previous records recently when he won a $5 bet, wagered against his pipe and tobacco, by sucking six dozen, 72, bona fide hen eggs.

Denver, Colo., June 11, 1922.

Sir: It was lately reported in the news that President Harding, after trying various pipes, had returned to the corncob when "off watch"; and one editor, commenting on this, concludes that we may depend upon the sound judgment of a President whose meditations are aided by a cob pipe. If this report is true, perhaps the corncob pipe will acquire a dignity which it has perhaps lacked in popular opinion. For instance, a popular writer of the day, relating his experience in 'breaking" into the short story "game," tells us that "one editor went so far in the direction of idealizing the leading character as to make the sale of a yarn contingent upon reforming my hero of a habit of smoking a corncob pipe." Now it would appear that the cob pipe alone, of all forms of smoking, is thus discriminated against. I have an impression, gathered, I must confess, from a rather moderate reading of modern fiction, that to the generality of the heroes of these stories the cigarette, cigar and briar are not prohibited.

Why Missouri should be particularly distinguished as the State in which cob pipes are manufactured, I am unable to say, but so it is; at least, all of them which I have seen came from there. And I know of no product of Missouri which by the label it bears, so often reminds one of the State and by the satisfaction which it yields, gives one such kindly thoughts of the State—but, perhaps it formerly had a competitor in that which is now unmentionable.

Personally, I find my chief consolation in this gentle world when I can escape to my castle, though it be but a garret, and solace myself with my books and a corncob pipe. There are, however, books for every mood, and some books go better with a cob than others. Gibbon, for instance, is not so good in this connection; but then I have seen Gibbon recommended by an authority upon such things, as being proper reading at bedtime for people desiring a sleep producer. Besides, I can hardly picture those bloody old Romans as smoking a cob pipe; I doubt that even a cob pipe would have added much to their amiability. But the essay, the "simple and heartfelt lay" and the play seem to have been especially written to be read to the accompaniment of a cob; and as for the novel, if there is anything like truth in Gray's opinion that to lie upon a couch and read new novels was no bad idea of Paradise, I would amend this to include the cob pipes. But now my neighbors, having been to the mountains today in the flivver, have returned and are playing the record, "Let the World Go By!" so I take a "pull" at my cob and say, "even so." Adieu.

MEMORIES.

At parting of the ways.
Behind me, empty rooms and bare denuded walls—
And memories!

Birth, death and love—these three have mingled here
To shape my days;
Now must I turn my back upon it,
And go new ways!

Oh Memory! Fail me not one single hour
Till life is done;
And let the blessed years of living here,
In dreams live on!

So, from the threshold of my childhood home
At parting of the way,
I go forth, not alone, but hand in hand
With Memory!

CROATIA.

From the Nation.

JUGOSLAVIA, the "Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats, and Slovenes," has its Ireland in Croatia. Croatia, turbulent enough under the Hapsburgs, has been more turbulent still under the Karageorgeviches of Serbia. Croatia, ethnically and linguistically close to Serbia, but religiously and culturally different, has a long tradition of independent spirit. The recent report that the Croats had proclaimed an independent Republic of Croatia, which was promptly denied by the Serbian legation at Geneva, was incorrect only in that the Croats had proclaimed an independent republic months before. In the chaotic days when the Austro-Hungarian Empire was falling apart the Croatian diet unanimously declared Croatia's independence at the same time that it announced readiness to join in a federal kingdom of Serbs, Croats and Slovenes which would preserve provincial autonomy; and when the Jugoslav Parliament voted a centralized constitution destroying local autonomy 63 of the 70 deputies from Croatia solemnly proclaimed it null and void, and withdrew, under the leadership of the peasant Radich, to their own mountain home where, on June 26, 1921, they promulgated their own constitution as that of the neutral Croatian Republic. Since then Croatia has been an Ireland indeed, with an heroic group of Republicans struggling for freedom by peaceful resistance.

A NATION'S DUTY TO THE WORLD.

BERTRAND RUSSELL in the Century.

THE claim to complete national independence on the part of every group which happens to have the sentiment of nationality is quite incompatible with the continued existence of an ordered society. It is only by means of very large states that war can be gradually eliminated, and where large states exist, they ought not, in general, to be disrupted because some of their inhabitants wish to be free to kill others without breaking the law. All the legitimate claims of small nationalities can be met by local autonomy; to grant more is to give away to anarchy. The rights of a nation as against humanity are not more absolute than the rights of a person as against the community. In the Middle Ages the barons contended for the right of private war; nowadays small nations set up the same claim. It is regrettable that big nations should claim such a right, but there is no force capable of restraining them, whereas small nations can be restrained, and therefore should be. In time, by the consequent growth of large states and the diminution in the importance of economic international relations, the causes of war may be removed. When that has been achieved, men's habits of thought will gradually change in such a way as to make true international government for the whole world possible. But it is useless to hope that this can be achieved while the danger of war is still a daily and pressing menace.

"SWEETHEARTS" MUS WINS OPERA AUDIEN

By RICHARD L. STOKES.

IF "Sweethearts" were not st fied by an imbecile libretto, would be a comic opera cla Presented last night on the open stage in Forest Park by the M cipal Theater Association, this proved musically a constant deli No stages have been more hackne by restaurant and movie orches and the operetta itself has been formed several times in this Yet the score provided by Vi Herbert seems still to wear the bloom of inspiration.

Not only in unflagging melo creation, but in craftsmanship is partiture amazing. Herbert is n as a magician in writing for the chestra; probably no other of composers in the popular vein endow instruments with such b and richness. This is partly due his skill in polyphony, a method which every part has its individu ity. There are passages in "Swe hearts" which have almost a W nerian opulence.

Herbert's versatility of style endless. To begin with, his co mand of varying rhythms is a m vel in itself. In addition, the scho finding representation in "Swe hearts" range from the medieval religious chant to the Viennest wa from the military march to the s timental ballad, from the humoro ditty to the grand opera ensemb Here is vast musical learning mastered that the possessor can pl with it lightly, and burlesque it w glee.

A Counterfeit Romance.

The results are the more remar able in that the composer seems have drawn the music from his o being, with little aid from the te One is reminded of Schubert, w wrote his songs with equal gusto poetry good, bad and indiffere This is one of the spurious roman in which a Prince woos a Cind ella, who turns out to be no C derella at all, but, by a startling incidence, the Prince's own lon lost Queen.

The Queen, in this instance, is maiden known as Sylvia, who w spirited away in infancy during revolution in the kingdom of Zilani and deposited rather cavalierly in Belgian tulip bed. There she w found by Dame Paula, leading lau dry lady of Bruges, who apprentic the royal child to washtub and fla iron.

It is the most natural thing in t world that Prince Franz, heir-pr sumptive to the throne of Zilani should come wandering incognito this very laundry, and that should fall in love with Sylvi though believing her to be no oth than what she appears, a fay of t mangle. And nothing could be mo charming than the turn of affa which enables Sylvia, on discoverin her identity, to bestow her hand an a throne upon the hero who rescue her from the soapsuds.

There are other complications, course. Rumor has spread that th rightful sovereign of Zilania is r volving a wringer at the "Whit Geese" laundry, and thither com divers adventurers to make capit of the fact. One is Mikel Mikelovi a grafting politician, who, disguise as a monk, was no other than th personage who abandoned Sylvia i the tulip bed, and who is prepare to restore her crown—for a price.

Adventurers Are Discomfited.

There is the Hon. Percy Algernon Slingsby, a stage Englishman from monocle to walking stick, who woul not be averse to mending his for tunes by marrying the Princess o starch and bluing bottle. Petrus Van Tromp is eager to acquire, for a song the paintings in the Zilanian palace Aristide Caniche is ambitious of pur chasing the palace, that he may convert it into another Monte Carlo. All of these gentlemen make the fa tal error of believing that the Prin cess is not Sylvia, but one Liane, a sprightly French milliner, who, for some unfathomed reason, has tem porarily deserted her shop for a job at Dame Paula's ironing board. The same mistake is made by Lieut. Karl, a philandering officer, who flits Sylvia for Liane.

As will be inferred, it is the music here which redeems a poor book; whereas, in De Koven's "The High wayman," it was a jolly librett which strove to make amends for banal music. Strange to say, the lib rettist in each case was the same— Harry B. Smith, who, in "Sweet hearts," had the aid of Robert B. Smith and "Fred de Gresac."

Although many of the principals have solos, the vocal burden falls upon the chorus; and the all-St Louis aggregation of 90 young men and women delivered its numbers not only with expected animation, precision and freshness of voice, but with a dynamic flexibility new to the municipal opera. For the first time in four seasons, the chorus was heard to attempt shading; in the song, "For Every Lover," to name an instance, occurred unmistakable crescendos and swells.

Miss Fallon and McCarthy.

An agreeable feature of the performance is the emergence of Miss Eva Fallon and William J. McCarthy as valuable members of the new cast. The former, as Liane, is pretty to see and graceful in the dance; and is singing better than she did last week. McCarthy, as Slingsby, affords vigorous rivalry for comic honors to Frank Moulan, who, as Mikel, has his most amusing moments when wielding an iron upon a basket of lingerie, and pursuing a slippery cake of soap about the stage.

Miss Lorna Doone Jackson has only a few notes to sing this week,

"SWEETHEARTS" MUSIC WINS OPERA AUDIENCE

By RICHARD L. STOKES.

IF "Sweethearts" were not stultified by an imbecile libretto, it would be a comic opera classic. Presented last night on the open-air stage in Forest Park by the Municipal Theater Association, this work proved musically a constant delight. No tunes have been more hackneyed by restaurant and movie orchestras, and the operetta itself has been performed several times in this city. Yet the score provided by Victor Herbert seems still to wear the first bloom of inspiration.

Not only in unflagging melodic creation, but in craftsmanship is the partiture amazing. Herbert is noted as a magician in writing for the orchestra; probably no other of our composers in the popular vein can endow instruments with such body and richness. This is partly due to his skill in polyphony, a method in which every part has its individuality. There are passages in "Sweethearts" which have almost a Wagnerian opulence.

Herbert's versatility of style is endless. To begin with, his command of varying rhythms is a marvel in itself. In addition, the schools finding representation in "Sweethearts" range from the medieval religious chant to the Viennest waltz, from the military march to the sentimental ballad, from the humorous ditty to the grand opera ensemble. Here is vast musical learning so mastered that the possessor can play with it lightly, and burlesque it with glee.

A Counterfeit Romance.

The results are the more remarkable in that the composer seems to have drawn the music from his own being, with little aid from the text. One is reminded of Schubert, who wrote his songs with equal gusto for poetry good, bad and indifferent. This is one of the spurious romances in which a Prince wooes a Cinderella, who turns out to be no Cinderella at all, but, by a startling coincidence, the Prince's own long-lost Queen.

The Queen, in this instance, is a maiden known as Sylvia, who was spirited away in infancy during a revolution in the kingdom of Zilania, and deposited rather cavalierly in a Belgian tulip bed. There she was found by Dame Paula, leading laundry lady of Bruges, who apprenticed the royal child to washtub and flatiron.

It is the most natural thing in the world that Prince Franz, heir-presumptive to the throne of Zilania, should come wandering incognito to this very laundry, and that he should fall in love with Sylvia, though believing her to be no other than what she appears, a fay of the mangle. And nothing could be more charming than the turn of affairs which enables Sylvia, on discovering her identity, to bestow her hand and a throne upon the hero who rescued her from the soapsuds.

There are other complications, of course. Rumor has spread that the rightful sovereign of Zilania is revolving a wringer at the "White Geese" laundry, and thither come divers adventurers to make capital of the fact. One is Mikel Mikelovic, a grafting politician, who, disguised as a monk, was no other than the personage who abandoned Sylvia in the tulip bed, and who is prepared to restore her crown—for a price.

Adventurers Are Discomfited.

There is the Hon. Percy Algernon Slingsby, a stage Englishman from monocle to walking stick, who would not be averse to mending his fortunes by marrying the Princess of starch and bluing bottle. Petrus Van Tromp is eager to acquire, for a song, the paintings in the Zilanian palace. Aristide Caniche is ambitious of purchasing the palace, that he may convert it into another Monte Carlo. All of these gentlemen make the fatal error of believing that the Princess is not Sylvia, but one Liane, a sprightly French milliner, who, for some unfathomed reason, has temporarily deserted her shop for a job at Dame Paula's ironing board. The same mistake is made by Lieut. Karl, a philandering officer, who jilts Sylvia for Liane.

As will be inferred, it is the music here which redeems a poor book; whereas, in De Koven's "The Highwayman," it was a jolly libretto which strove to make amends for banal music. Strange to say, the librettist in each case was the same—Harry B. Smith, who, in "Sweethearts," had the aid of Robert B. Smith and "Fred de Gresac."

Although many of the principals have solos, the vocal burden falls upon the chorus; and the all-St. Louis aggregation of 90 young men and women delivered its numbers not only with expected animation, precision and freshness of voice, but with a dynamic flexibility new to the municipal opera. For the first time in four seasons, the chorus was heard to attempt shading; in the song, "For Every Lover," to name an instance, occurred unmistakable crescendos and swells.

Miss Fallon and McCarthy.

An agreeable feature of the performance is the emergence of Miss Eva Fallon and William J. McCarthy as valuable members of the new cast. The former, as Liane, is pretty to see and graceful in the dance; and is singing better than she did last week. McCarthy, as Slingsby, affords vigorous rivalry for comic honors to Frank Moulan, who, as Mikel, has his most amusing moments when wielding an iron upon a basket of lingerie, and pursuing a slippery cake of soap about the stage. Miss Lorna Doone Jackson has only a few notes to sing this week, and attempts in vain to look old in the role of bitter Dame Paula, which she invests with a sort of Madame Sans-Gene humor. Arthur Geary, tenor, has only one song as Lieut. Karl, and so has Jerome Daly, as Van Tromp. George Sweet is permitted to perform a nimble pas seul as Caniche at the beginning of the second act. James Stevens still provides the most artistic individual singing, though he seemed not in the best voice last night—possibly from the contagion of other bad singing.

HER WEDDING WILL TAKE PLACE JUNE 24

—Kandeler Photograph.

Miss Adelaide Lillian Hughes.

It must be frankly stated that Miss Sophie Brandt, the prima donna, who had the role of Sylvia, was scarcely an asset to the performance. Admitting her obvious intelligence, routine and spirited declamation, she is vocally and physically miscast in the parts of romantic young heroines. In view of the dissatisfaction which is expressed on all sides, it may be wondered how long the management will delay a change that is inevitable.

St. Louis Girls in Cast.

Six girls from the chorus, brought forward in name-parts as Dame Paula's daughters, did themselves credit with bits of song, dialogue and a dance in wooden shoes. They were Misses Mae Green, Marie Leonhardt, Grace Brinkley, Louise Helmueller, Eleanor Zell and Clara Schlief. One of them, having fumbled a line, was heard to utter a heartfelt "Gosh!" Grant Kimbell and Merle Kemper, also from the chorus, had brief lines.

To name the successful song numbers would be to list the entire operetta; but particular favor went to a military march, "On Parade;" the featured waltz, "Sweethearts;" Stevens' ballad, "For Every Lover;" a religious chorus with chimes, "Angelus;" and the imposing finale of the first act. A song which, in theatrical parlance, "stopped the show," was the "Monks' Quartet," sung by Moulan, Daly, Sweet and McCarthy; the audience demanded no less than four recalls.

Both acts of "Sweethearts" being laid out of doors, the settings are not only handsome, but rational. The first—the courtyard of the "White Geese" laundry—shows in the background a windmill with revolving fans and a chapel with lighted windows. The second is placed in the grounds of Prince Franz's estate. The lighting effects are poetically handled, and the costuming is fresh and attractive. No prettier spectacle has been seen at the municipal theater than that of the guests, in their evening gowns, in the second act.

It is a matter of course that "Sweethearts" was never before produced with so large an orchestra and so numerous a company.

MISS BARTOW HAWES TO WED AT 5:30 TODAY

Marriage to Martin Lammert III Will Take Place at Home of Congressman Hawes.

CONSPICUOUS among the June weddings will be that of Miss Mary Bartow Hawes, daughter of Richard Simrall Hawes, and Martin Lammert III, which will be solemnized at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon at the home of Congressman and Mrs. Harry B. Hawes, uncle and aunt of the bride, 4411 Westminster place.

The color scheme will be golden, yellow and orchid, and the flowers and gowns of the bride's attendants, as well as the decorations in the house, will conform.

The bridal party will pass through an aisle formed of white satin ribbon to a trellis work covered with honeysuckle vines and studded with gladiolas, roses, daisies and larkspur, which has been built in front of the pipe organ in the library of the Hawes home, where the ceremony will be performed by Mgr. Tannrath of the Old Cathedral.

The bride will be attended by her sister, Miss Susan Hawes, as maid of honor, her sister-in-law, Mrs. Richard Simrall Hawes Jr., as matron of honor, and her cousin, Miss Eppes Hawes, the bridegroom's sister, Miss Mary Lammert and Miss Gloria Gelsinger, as bridesmaids. They will wear gowns fashioned similarly of golden yellow and orchid chiffon, in the prevailing straight lined mode. Girdles of double-faced orchid and yellow satin ribbon will define the lowered waistline, and the ends will form trains at the side back. The bodices are made simply with a chiffon drapery caught at the shoulders and flowing to the hem of the gown, forming a suggestion of a sleeve. The skirts are chiffon and lace paneled. They will wear large hats made of chiffon in the yellow and orchid tones, the crowns made of chiffon rose petals, with yellow and orchid ribbon streamers caught at the brims.

Their flowers will be golden Ophelia roses and lavendar lace flowers, tied into arm bouquets with broad bands of double faced satin ribbon in the same tones.

The bride will be gowned in white satin, draped and made with a long waist. There is a boat-shaped neck outlined in seed pearls. The long flowing drapery at the right side of the skirt will touch the floor, while at the left side it will be caught with a pearl ornament, with strands of the pearls falling to the hem of the gown. A court train of satin will depend from the shoulders. It has been almost covered with a lace scarf worn by Mrs. Richard S. Hawes Jr. at her wedding, and motifs of orange blossoms adorn the end. The double bridal veil will be held to her coiffure by a coronet of rose point which was an engagement present.

Warren Lammert will be his brother's best man, and the groomsmen will be Robert and Richard S. Hawes Jr., Lou Hager and Neil O'Day. Guests at the ceremony will include only the families and close friends, and a large reception will follow. There will be a table for the bridal party in the blue room, decorated with baby's breath and Ophelia roses.

Mr. Lammert's gift to his bride was a pin of pearls, diamonds and sapphires set in platinum in a circular shape, while the bride gave her attendants platinum cuff pins.

After a honeymoon trip Mr. Lammert and his bride will make their home with Mr. Hawes in the Oxford apartments.

Mr. Lammert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Lammert Jr. of 4490 Lindell boulevard.

Social Items

It has become a popular custom among the junior set in St. Louis, not only among boys, but among the girls as well, to spend their summers at the various camps in Wisconsin and Michigan, and an unusually large number have made plans to go this year. The following is an incomplete list of those who will go to Camp Meenahga, near Fish Creek, Wis., under the chaperonage of Mrs. Alice Orr Clark: Misses Jane Dittman, Carol McDonald, Virginia Hemingway, Florence Ludington, Elizabeth Gambrill, Katherine Koerber, Josephine Scullin, Julia Evans, Ruth Hennings, Eleanor and Louise Church, Mary Jane McKay, Sallie Simons, Marianne Thompson, Cynthia Polk, Mary Lammert, Mary Noble, Ruth Curby, Grace Layman, Katherine Conard.

The St. Louis counselors for the senior camp are Misses Marie Clarkson, Laura Layman, Mildred Michaels, Dorothy Jackes and Ruth Boulden. Counselors for the junior camp are Misses Elise Beck and Nancy Surridge and Mrs. Conard De Camp.

The camp will open July 3.

An out-of-town wedding of interest in St. Louis is that of Miss Allison Jones, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Daniel Fiske Jones of Boston, and Charles A. Coolidge Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Coolidge, also of Boston, which will take place in Trinity Church at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Mr. Coolidge is a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Shepley of 53 Portland place, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nagel, 44 Westmoreland place, his mother having been Miss Judia Shepley before her marriage.

John R. Shepley, a cousin of the prospective bridegroom, will be one of the groomsmen.

Mrs. Nagel, who with Mrs. Henry Clarkson Scott, departed for the East last week, will attend the wedding. Mrs. Scott, after attending the graduation of her daughter, Miss Alice Scott, from Farmington, will sail June 20 for Europe, accompanied by Miss Scott and another daughter, Mrs. Thomas S. Blumer, and Mr. Blumer, and their children, of Boston.

Other St. Louis girls being graduated from Farmington this year are Miss Elizabeth Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Ray Carter; Miss Dorothea Nagel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nagel, and Miss Margaret Caradine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Caradine. These girls will be among next year's debutantes.

Miss Catherine Louise Crunden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Crunden, 4426 Westminster place, left St. Louis at noon yesterday with Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Lambert for the Lambert home in Princeton, N. J., for a day's visit before going to New York, where she will join Miss Noland of the teaching staff at the Foxcroft School in Virginia, and Miss Thompson, of Long Island, N. Y., a former classmate of Miss Crunden, at Foxcroft. Miss Noland will chaperon the girls to Europe for the summer, sailing Saturday on the Lapland.

Mr. and Mrs. Crunden will depart Thursday morning for a short motor trip to Ohio, returning June 21. Later in the summer Mrs. Crunden will go to the Crunden summer home in Fish Creek, Wis., where she will be joined by her daughters, Mrs. William Skinner and Mrs. Wallace Cole and baby of St. Paul.

Mr. and Mrs. Lambert occupied the home of Congressman and Mrs. Harry B. Hawes last winter.

Richard Simrall Hawes of the Oxford apartments has leased a cottage at Wequetonsing, Mich., and with his daughter, Miss Susan Hawes, and his son, Robert Hawes, will spend the summer there.

Mr. and Mrs. J Arthur Corbitt of 5507 Waterman avenue will depart by motor Thursday for Chicago, to remain a few days. Mrs. Corbitt has as her guest Miss Dorothy Heintzelman of Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Allen V. Cockrell of 230 North Newstead avenue and her daughter, Miss Vesta Reed, will depart in about three weeks for Fish Creek, Wis., for the summer.

Mrs. James C. Cahill of 4475 Lindell boulevard and her daughter, Miss Leonore Cahill, departed last Wednesday for Narragansett Pier, R. I., for the summer season. They will return to St. Louis Sept. 15.

"LOW TRICK," SAYS ADMIRAL TO CADET

Letter Commending Annapolis Year Book Editor Withdrawn.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Characterizing the treatment of Leonard Kaplan, of West Virginia, a member of this year's graduating class at the naval academy in the class year book as "A low down, miserable trick," Rear Admiral Wilson, superintendent of the Academy, announced here today that he had withdrawn a letter of commendation which he had addressed to J. L. Olmstead, editor of the Year Book.

The leter withdrawn by Admiral Wilson commended Olmsted on his standing and conduct during his four years' course at the academy and was one of five such letters written to members of this year's class.

The offense for which Admiral Wilson held Olmsted responsible consisted in perforating the sheet in the "Lucky Bag" the class year book, containing Kaplan's photograph and biography, so that it could be removed without defacing the book.

The incident, Admiral Wilson was said to feel, had improved the standing of Kaplan, both at the academy among his classmates and in the Navy as a whole. Olmsted, on the other hand, the Admiral said, would enter the Navy under the "stigma" of having been guilty of a "low down act." The action taken by the academy superintendent, it was said, will be set forth in a report to the Navy Department, acting Secretary Roosevelt having requested a statement as to the facts in the case.

CHARGE OF REMOVAL OF OPERA FREE SEATS IS DENIED

Commissioner Pape Replies That Benches Placed in Section Are Never Filled.

Denial that the Park Department had adopted a policy of eliminating almost all of the benches in the free-seat section in the Municipal Theater was made yesterday by Park Commissioner Pape, in reply to a letter to the Post-Dispatch, signed "Opera Fan," charging that almost all of the benches had been removed and calling upon the Park Department to furnish adequate seating facilities.

"Every available bench has been placed in the free-seat section," Pape said. "I have not seen all the seats in this section occupied any night of the opera. Sunday night the seats were about one-fourth occupied."

The section has not been filled with benches, Pape explained, because there is a shortage of them. Benches are being hauled from one park to another almost daily to provide for picnics and are returned at the conclusion of the outings. Arrangements are being made to care for 10 picnics Saturday. The department obtained an appropriation of $2500 at the beginning of the fiscal year to buy park benches. Purchasing of the benches has been held up in an effort to obtain lower bids for making them. One bid was approximately $9 a bench.

POLICE SAVE NEGRO BATHER AND HOLD HIM FOR BEING NAKED

Two White Boys Rescue Lad From Pond and Mounted Men Revive Unconscious "Swimmer."

After being rescued from drowning by two white boys and resuscitated by two policemen, Benjamin Morgan, negro, 15 years old, 1313 North Tenth street, was arrested at 2 p. m. yesterday for swimming in daylight without a bathing suit, and is under surveillance at the City Hospital for the Juvenile Court.

Morgan and George Laub, 14, 2701 North Ninth street, and Robert Bilderbeck, 16, 309 Antelope street, were swiming in a pond in what is known as Fink's Pasture, Thatcher avenue and M. K. & T. tracks, when the negro youth got beyond his depth. Laub went to his assistance, but was pulled under by Morgan. Bilderbeck plunged in and saved both. Morgan was unconscious when they reached shore.

Patrolmen Karasek and Stumborg of the Mounted District, arrived and after working for half an hour with Morgan, revived him.

Man Who Entered Conveyance by Mistake Was Forced to Remain.

The Municipal Opera Association last night, as on each Tuesday night, had 150 patients of the City Sanitarium as its guests at the municipal opera.

Officials of the association recalled today an incident of last season in thus extending hospitality to the mildly insane who are among those cared for in the institution. The patients were carried to and from the opera in a bus with guards. On the night referred to a citizen, not knowing of the reservation of the conveyance, boarded the bus and rode for about 10 minutes before he became aware of his predicament.

Then he bolted for an exit. A guard firmly pushed him back. "I don't belong here," the citizen protested wildly. "That's all right," the guard said soothingly, "we'll take you home." Despite his frantic arguments the citizen was delivered to the sanitarium where a resident physician identified him as an interloper.

THE Italian cities which had established colonies along the coast of Asia Minor and Palestine, in fear for their possessions, reported terrible stories of Turkish atrocities, and Christian suffering. All Europe got excited.

Pope Urban II, a Frenchman from Rheims, who had been educated at the same famous cloister of Cluny which had trained Gregory VII, thought that the time had come for action. The general state of Europe was far from satisfactory. The primitive agricultural methods of that day (unchanged since Roman times) caused a constant scarcity of food. There was unemployment and hunger and these are apt to lead to discontent and riots. Western Asia in older days had fed millions. It was an excellent field for the purpose of immigration.

Therefore at the council of Clermont in France in the year 1095 the Pope arose, described the terrible horrors which the infidels had inflicted upon the Holy Land, gave a glowing description of this country which ever since the days of Moses had been overflowing with milk and honey, and exhorted the knights of France and the people of Europe in general to leave wife and child and deliver Palestine from the Turks.

A wave of religious hysteria swept across the continent. All reason stopped. Men would drop their hammer and saw, walk out of their shop and take the nearest road to the east to go and kill Turks. Children would leave their homes to "go to Palestine" and bring the terrible Turks to their knees by the mere appeal of their youthful zeal and Christian piety. Fully 90 per cent of those enthusiasts never got within sight of the Holy Land. They had no money. They were forced to beg or steal to keep alive. They became a danger to the safety of the high roads and they were killed by the angry country people.

The first Crusade, a wild mob of honest Christians, defaulting bankrupts, penniless noblemen and fugitives from justice, following the lead of half-crazy Peter the Hermit and Walter-Without-a-Cent, began their campaign against the infidels by murdering all the Jews whom they met by the way. They got as far as Hungary and then they were all killed.

This experience taught the church a lesson. Enthusiasm alone would not set the Holy Land free. Organization was as necessary as good will and courage. A year was spent in training and equipping an army of 300,000 men. They were placed under command of Godfrey of Bouillon, Robert, Duke of Normady; Robert, Count of Flanders, and a number of other noblemen, all experienced in the art of war.

In the year 1096 this second crusade started upon its long voyage. At Constantinople the knights did homage to the Emperor. (For as I have told you, traditions die hard, and a Roman Emperor, however poor and powerless, was still held in great respect). Then they crossed into Asia, killed all the Moslems who fell into their hands, stormed Jerusalem, massacred the Mohammedan population, and marched to the Holy Sepulcher to give praise and thanks amidst tears of piety and gratitude. But soon the Turks were strengthened by the arrival of fresh troops. Then they retook Jerusalem and in turn killed the faithful followers of the Cross.

During the next two centuries, seven other crusades took place. Gradually the Crusaders learned the technique of the trip. The land voyage was too tedious and too dangerous. They preferred to cross the Alps and go to Genoa or Venice where they took ship for the east. The Genoese and the Venetians made this trans-Mediterranean passenger service a very profitable business. They charged exorbitant rates, and when the Crusaders (most of whom had very little money) could not pay the price, these Italian "profiteers" kindly allowed them to "work their way across." In return for a fare from Venice to Acre, the Crusader undertook to do a stated amount of fighting for the owners of his vessel. In this way Venice greatly increased her territory along the coast of the Adriatic and in Greece, where Athens became a Venetian colony and in the islands of Cyprus and Crete and Rhodes.

All this, however, helped little in settling the question of the Holy Land. After the first enthusiasm had worn off, a short crusading trip became part of the liberal education of every well-bred young man, and there never was any lack of candidates for service in Palestine. But the old zeal was gone. The Crusaders, who had been their warriors, grew hatred for the Mohammedans and great love for the Christian people of the Eastern Empire

THE WORLD OF THE CRUSADERS.

Empire and Armenia, suffered a complet change of heart. They came to despise the Greeks of Byzantium, who cheated them and frequently betrayed the cause of the Cross, and the Armenians and all the other Levantine races, and they began to appreciate the virtue of their enemies who proved to be more generous and fair opponents.

Of course, it would never do to say this openly. But when the Crusader returned home, he was likely to imitate the manners which he had learned from his heathenish foe, compared to whom the average western knight was still a good deal of a country bumpkin. He also brought with him several new foodstuffs, such as peaches and spinach which he planted in his garden and grew for his own benefit. He gave up the barbarous custom of wearing a load of heavy armour and appeared in the flowing robes of silk or cotton which were the traditional habit of the followers of the Prophet and were originally worn by the Turks. Indeed the Crusades, which had begun as a punitive expedition against the Heathen, became a course of general instruction in civilization for millions of young Europeans.

From a military and political point of view the Crusades were a failure. Jerusalem and a number of cities were taken and lost. A dozen little kingdoms were established in Syria and Palestine and Asia Minor, but they were re-conquered by the Turks and after the year 1244 (when Jerusalem became definitely Turkish) the status of the Holy Land was the same as it had been before 1095.

But Europe had undergone a great change. The people of the west had been allowed a glimpse of the light and the sunshine and the beauty of the east. Their dreary castles no longer satisfied them. They wanted a broader life. Neither Shurch nor State could give this to them.

They found it in the cities.

THE MEDIAEVAL CITY.

Why the People of the Middle Ages Said That "City Air is Free Air."

The early part of the Middle Ages had been an era of pioneering and of settlement. A new people, who thus far had lived outside the wild range of forest, mountains and marshes which protected the northeastern frontier of the Roman Empire, had forced its way into the plains of western Europe and had taken possession of most of the land. They were restless, as all pioneers have been since the beginning of time. They liked to be "on the go." They cut down the forests and they cut each other's throats with equal energy. Few of them wanted to live in cities. They insisted upon being "free," they loved to feel the fresh air of the hillsides fill their lungs while they drove their herds across the wind-swept pastures. When they no longer liked their old homes, they pulled up stakes and went away in search of fresh adventures.

The weaker ones died. The hardy fighters and the courageous women who had followed their men into the wilderness survived. In this way they developed a strong race of men. They cared little for the graces of life. They were too busy to play the fiddle or write pieces of poetry. They had little love for discussions. The priest, "the learned man" of the village (and before the middle of the thirteenth century, a layman who could read and write was regarded as a "sissy") was supposed to settle all questions which had no direct practical value. Meanwhile the German chieftain, the Frankish Baron, the Northman Duke (or whatever their names and titles) occupied their share of the territory which once had been part of the great Roman Empire and among the ruins of past glory, they built a world of their own which pleased them mightily and which they considered quite perfect.

They managed the affairs of their castle and the surrounding country to the best of their ability. They were as faithful to the commandments of the church as any weak mortal could hope to be. They were sufficiently loyal to their King or Emperor to keep on good terms with those distant but always dangerous potentates. In short, they tried to do right and to be fair to their neighbors without being exactly unfair to their own interests.

It was not an ideal world in which they found themselves. The greater part of the people were serfs or "villeins," farmhands who were as much a part of the soil upon which they lived as the cows and sheep whose stables they shared. Their fate was not particularly happy nor was it particularly unhappy. But what was one to do? The good Lord who ruled the world of the Middle Ages had undoubtedly ordered everything for the best. If He, in his wisdom, had decided that there must be both knights and serfs, it was not the duty of these faithful sons of the church to question the arrangement. The serfs therefore did not complain, but when they were too hard driven, they would die off like cattle which are not fed and stabled in the right way, and then something would be hastily done to better their condition. But if the progress of the world had been left to the serf and his feudal master, we would still be living after the fashion of the twelfth century, saying "abracadabra" when we tried to stop a toothache, and feeling a deep contempt and hatred for the dentist who offered to help us with his "science," which most likely was of Mohammedan or heathenish origin and therefore both wicked and useless.

When you grow up you will discover that many people do not believe in "progress" and they will prove to you by the terrible deeds of some of our own contemporaries that "the world does not change." But I hope that you will not pay much attention to such talk. You see, it took our ancestors almost a million years to learn how to walk on their hind legs. Other centuries had to go by before their animal-like grunts developed into an understandable language. Writing—the art of preserving our ideas for the benefit of future generations, without which no progress is possible—was invented only 4000 years ago. The idea of turning the forces of nature into the obedient servants of man was quite new in the days of your own grandfather. It seems to me, therefore, that we are making progress at an unheard-of rate of speed. Perhaps we have paid a little too much attention to the mere physical comforts of life. That will change in due course of time and we shall then attack the problems which are not related to health and to wages and plumbing and machinery in general.

But please do not be too sentimental about the "good old days." Many people who only see the beautiful churches and the great works of art which the Middle Ages have left behind grow quite eloquent when they compare our own ugly civilization with its hurry and its noise and the evil smells of backfiring motor trucks with the cities of a thousand years ago. But these mediaeval churches were invariably surrounded by miserable hovels compared to which a modern tenement house stands forth as a luxurious palace. It is true that the noble Lancelot and the equally noble Parsifal, the pure young hero who went in search of the Holy Grail, were not bothered by the odor of gasoline. But there were other smells of the barnyard variety—odors of decaying refuse which had been thrown into the street—of pigsties surrounding the Bishops palace—of unwashed people who had inherited their coats and hats from their grandfathers and who had never learned the blessing of soap. I do not want to paint too unpleasant a picture. But when you read in the ancient chronicles that the King of France, looking out of the windows of his palace, fainted at the stench caused by the pigs rooting in the streets of Paris, when an ancient manuscript recounts a few details of an epidemic of the plague or of smallpox, then you begin to understand that "progress" is something more than a catchword used by modern advertising men.

No, the progress of the last 600 years would not have been possible without the existence of cities. I shall, therefore, have to make this chapter a little longer than many of the others. It is too important to be reduced to three or four pages, devoted to mere political events.

The ancient world of Egypt and Babylonia and Assyria had been a world of cities. Greece had been a country of city-states. The history of Phoenicia was the history of two cities called Sidon and Tyre. The Roman Empire was the "hinterland" of a single town. Writing, art, science, astronomy, architecture, literature, the theater—the list is endless—have all been products of the city.

For almost 4000 years the wooden beehive which we call a town had been the workshop of the world. Then came the great migrations. The Roman Empire was destroyed. The cities were burned down and Europe once more became a land of pastures and little agricultural villages. During the Dark Ages the fields of civilization had lain fallow.

The Crusades had prepared the soil for a new crop. It was time for the harvest, but the fruit was plucked by the burghers of the free cities.

I have told you the story of the castles and the monasteries, with their heavy stone inclosures—the homes of the knights and the monks, who guarded men's bodies and their souls. You have seen how a few artisans (butchers and bakers and an occasional candlestick maker) came to live near the castle to tend to the wants of their masters and to find protection in case of danger. Sometimes the feudal lord allowed these people to surround their houses with a stockade. But they were dependent for their living upon the good will of the mighty seigneur of the castle. When he went about they knelt before him and kissed his hand.

Then came the Crusades and many things changed. The migrations had driven people from the Northeast to the West. The Crusades made millions of people travel from the West to the highly civilized regions of the Southeast. They discovered that the world was not bounded by the four walls of their little settlement. They came to appreciate better clothes, more comfortable houses, new dishes, products of the mysterious Orient. After their return to their old homes they insisted that they be supplied with those articles. The peddler with his pack upon his back—the only merchant of the Dark Ages—added these goods to his old merchandise, bought a cart, hired a few ex-crusaders to protect him against the crime wave which followed this great international war, and went forth to do business upon a more modern and larger scale. His career was not an easy one. Every time he entered the domains of another lord he had to pay tolls and taxes. But the business was profitable all the same and the peddler continued to make his rounds.

Soon certain energetic merchants discovered that the goods which they had always imported from afar could be made at home. They turned part of their homes into a workshop. They ceased to be merchants and became manufacturers. They sold their products not only to the lord of the castle and to the abbot in his monastery, but they exported them to nearby towns. The lord and the abbot paid them with the products of their farms, eggs and wines, and with honey, which in those early days was used as sugar. But the citizens of distant towns were obliged to pay in cash and the manufacturer and the merchant began to own little pieces of gold, which entirely changed their position in the society of the Middle Ages.

It is difficult for you to imagine a world without money. In a modern city one cannot possibly live without money. All day long you carry a pocket full of small disks of metal to "pay your way." You need a nickel for the street car, a dollar for a dinner, 3 cents for an evening paper. But many people of the early Middle Ages never saw a piece of coined money from the time they were born to the day of their death. The gold and silver of Greece and Rome lay buried beneath the ruins of their cities. The world of the migrations, which had succeeded the Empire, was an agricultural world. Every farmer raised enough grain and enough sheep and enough cows for his own use.

The medieval knight was country squire and was rarely forced to pay for materials in money. His estates produced everything that he and his family ate and drank and wore on their backs. The bricks for his home were made along the banks of the nearest river. Wood for the rafters of the hall was cut from the baronial forest. The few articles that had to come from abroad were paid for in goods—in honey—in eggs—in fagots.

News of New Books and Those Who Write Them

"Slabs of the Sunburst West," by Carl Sandburg, a Quest for Beauty in the Commonplace—"Minds and Manners of Wild Animals," a Book in Interesting Personal Observations—Other News From the Literary World.

By Otto Heller.

ROUGHHOUSE ON HELICON.

"SLABS OF THE SUNBURNT WEST," by Carl Sandburg. (Harcourt, Brace & Co.)

BEAUTY in the commonplace is the object of Mr. Sandburg's poetic quest. His confederates say so, and the poet nods Jovian assent. As long as his lyric guts vibrate in tune with the swinging curves of Premier Ham and Smoke-kist Bacon, what excuse would there be for him to break his fealty to the muse of the stockyards and join the amaranthine chase after the blue flower, and the blue bird, or obnubilate his "robust and clear-eyed realism" with any other variety of obsolete romantic blues?

In this book of flamboyant appellation Mr. Sandburg has packed the commonplace so very, very tight, that the beauty was painfully squeezed out in the packing. The Bard of the Abattoir would not have done so badly to title his volume "Shrieks and Squeaks."

These compositions are forceful in parts; but always their force is too muscular and uncouth. Sandburg brandishes his sandbag almost constantly and at none too infrequent intervals feels bound to whack you over the head lest you fail to realize what a powerful poet he is.

Sandburg writes with Cyclopean sincerity, as well as vehemence, in all ways save one. For does he not practice a species of untruth in slashing up his matter into lines of various length so as to mark a generic difference from mere prose which in fact they do not possess? Or is unevenness in the length of lines the criterion between prose and poetry? We take a typical "stanza" from "The Windy City," the first and best of these compositions, to show what happens to Mr. Sandburg's song when the partitions are taken out of it.

breakfast and pack off to school with a pair of roller skates, buns for lunch and a geography. Riding through a tunnel under a river running backward to school to listen . . . how the Pottawatamies
. . . and the Blackhawks . . .
ran on moccasins . . . between Kaskaskia, Peoria, Kankakee and Chicago."

Granting for argument's sake that we are a fogy, a formalist, a Philistine—and a rank dissenter from the cult of Pork-Packed poetry—is, therefore, really and truly, no virtue in our unfeigned immobility before Mr. Sandburg's poetical charms and graces? Even if we were superstitious enough to credit typography with power over life and death, and could attribute to ordinary run-on printing a withering effect upon the essence of poetry, we should still doubt our ability to acknowledge Carl Sandburg as a modern master of verse, and to class him with Robert Frost, Edward Arlington Robinson or Amy Lowell, as he is so commonly classed.

We pause to let Mr. Sandburg speak, or sing, for himself, this time with due observance of free-verse punctilio:

"Coal passers, taxi drivers, window washers,
Paper hangers, floorwalkers, bill collectors,
Burglar-alarm salesmen, massage students, manicure girls,
Chiropodists, bath rubbers, booze runners,
Hat cleaners, armhole basters, delicatessen clerks, shovel stiffs, work plugs"——

That, too, is from "The Windy City," we believe. The literary source hunters in the universities are respectfully referred to the Chicago Classified Directory. Mr. Sandburg has refrained from cataloguing his coal passers' and taxi drivers' names, addresses, and telephone numbers, wisely remembering that to tell everything is to be a bore.

HELL ON THE WABASH.

When country fiddlers held a convention in Danville, the big money went to a barn dance artist who played "Turkey in the Straw," with variations. They asked him the name of the piece, calling it a humdinger, and he answered, "I call it 'Hell on the Wabash.'" The two best were the "Speckled Hen" and "Sweet Potatoes Grow in Sandy Land," with variations.

Now, hand on heart, would you call this a lovely lyric? That is exactly what the Sandburgians do call it. And still more they have to say for it. Their souls shimmy in rapture to the heavenly music of the "three cadenzas" into which this marvelous poem is allegedly cut up, and they say that "Hell on the Wabash" proves the effect of Sandburg's "ripened art." Ripened? Rather, over-ripened and run to seed.

There are many other poems in the collection, and I am willing to decline each and every one of them, after the above paradigm. Whether lines like the following are fraught with passion or sensuousness, or whether they touch you merely by their abstract ethereal beauty of form, damfino.

"Beat up the short change artists,
They never did nothin' for you.
How do you get that way?
Tell me and I'll tell the world.
I'll say so, I'll say it is."

If poetry is still like that in Chicago, we won't move there yet.

Mr. Sandburg somehow has cured us of our one-time interest in roughnecks and crooks seated
In the L or the Illinois Central side by side with Respectable taxpayers from the North Side perusing the Tribune or Saturday Evening Post or the Svenska Tydinge.
We do not care a dam about following our sweating fellow passenger
From the train to the corner of 164th street and Longdale avenue.
For three and a half blocks
Into the bosom of his large and by no means wholly acceptable family, consisting of James F., a member in good standing of Gasfitter's Local No. 17, but at present under indictment for homicide.
Caroline Imogene who can neither play nor sing a note, but makes her living officially as a teacher, both vocal and instrumental,
And Charlie, just fired from high school, well, he knows why,
And Gus, and Willie, and Steve, morgue attendant, bootlegger, holdup man, respectively——

Come to think of it, that imbecile stuff and nonsense is not by Carl Sandburg at all. The mistake was made because, like most of Sandburg's verses, these foolish lines conveyed straightforward, commonplace and wholly uninteresting information. But they are vastly inferior to Sandburg's; not so much in form as in emphasis.

Sandburg belongs to the "irritabile genus vatum," and to his perpetual mental indigestion the eupeptic felicities of the bourgeois are utterly foreign. We know little about his outlook on life more than that it seems to make him extremely uncomfortable and unquestionably makes him very disagreeable to us.

Still, his effect is hardly depressing. Yet neither is it elating. Somehow he fails to inspire us with confidence in his mentality. Also, we suspect his judgment, and are afraid of his temper. We feel, in a vague sort of way, that there is something out of the ordinary to the man, something of strength and purpose and feeling, but we have a constitutional aversion to his type. He seems the sort of man who would not learn anything from anybody, either in thought or craftsmanship, hence he has had nothing worth while to say since his adolescence. He simply hasn't grown up. Too old to amuse by his boisterous naughtiness, too unfledged to arouse anger in any serious mind, and apparently incapable of transmitting his jazzy spiritual perturbations to other sensitive souls, he sets us wondering about the partiality shown him by leading critics of poetry. We have challenged a number of his greatest admirers for an explanation, and used well-known poems of his as exhibits of his crudities. Infallibly the answer is that Sandburg can do much better. Who couldn't? What puzzles us, is why the-hell-on-the-Wabash doesn't he?

"THE MINDS AND MANNERS OF WILD ANIMALS," a Book of Personal Observations, by William T. Hornaday. With Illustrations. (Charles Scribner's Sons.)

IF George Bernard Shaw should be right and the human race have to confess itself "played out" one of these days, whither shall we look for the white man's, and the yellow and black man's hope? The other wild animals begin to look distinctly interesting to us. But we must not be too slow to improve their acquaintance, and should consider their claims to our successorship promptly, before the bravest and most intelligent of them go down and out, under the steam roller that we call civilization. Mr. Hornaday, who is the Director of the New York Zoological Park, believes that the most interesting thing about a wild animal is its reasoning.

This volume includes an extraordinary mass of information systematically and fascinatingly presented.

"THE HOUNDS OF BANBA," by Daniel Corkery. (B. W. Huebsch.)

"KINFOLKS," Kentucky Mountain Rhymes, by Ann Cobb. (Houghton-Mifflin Co.)

FOR generations the dulcimer has been the musical instrument of the Kentucky mountains. To the accompaniment of its plaintive drone are sung the ancient English and Scottish ballads still handed down from father to son. But the region abounds also in indigenous song of characteristic simplicity and ruggedness. Miss Cobb, who has been a teacher among the Cumberland mountaineers for 18 years, has caught the form and spirit of native poetry in many of her poems.

"THE NINTH VIBRATION," by L. Adams Beck. (Dodd, Mead & Co.)

WE are still tuned up to the ninth vibration, which apparently is the wave-length of mystic communication in India, and are tempted to forget that properly these are not short stories at all, but beautiful poems, so exquisite in detail that one is apt to lose the continuity of the whole in letting single sentences of sheer poetry sink into the mind. The author's creed is thus stated: "Now it is very clear to me that in every land men, when the doors of perception are opened, will see what we call the supernatural clothed in the image in which that country has accepted it." By the ninth vibration he means that degree of oneness between soul and environment which must be attained before the mystic visions may be seen. In the first story, from which the book takes its name, a man who has lost his way in an Indian forest, has a dream in which a beautiful girl is his guide. He later meets a young Danish woman who is strangely in touch with nature, and towards whom he experiences feelings not to be explained by ordinary love. He discovers that she is really the dream-girl who has led him to the sight of Beauty, and that they have been etherially in communication. The story entitled "The Interpreter" is somewhat similar in theme; a man's earthly passion for a girl is transformed as she develops in him the power of insight. He loses her with the satisfaction of having gained something greater. Six other stories, in the manner of Oriental legends, complete the volume.

"ON THE TRAIL OF THE PIGMIES," by Dr. Leonard J. Van Den Bergh. Copiously illustrated by Photographs by Dr. George Burbank Shattuck. (The James A. McCann Co. of New York, Publishers.)

DR. VAN DEN BERGH is a priest of the Catholic Church and it was as a churchman that he paid his first visit to savages of East Africa. When he returned and told of what he had seen and encountered there, he found himself greeted with such incredulity that he organized an expedition under the auspices of the American Museum of Natural History and certain interested universities. He presents his proof in his book, which is a fascinating narrative from beginning to end though it deals with perhaps the most ignorant and degraded tribes in the world. They live in a welter of savagery and superstition. Dr. Van Den Bergh made a thorough study of their family and tribal life which he found as primitive as any that has ever existed on earth. Yet, he and his party were received kindly and hospitably by nearly all the tribes with which he came in contact, and they considerately helped him to gather all the data he desired, even to the most intimate details of family relationship.

He found that war is on the decline among tribes that have never before been at peace, and that the people as a result are degenerating and becoming the victims of vicious practices. The omnipresent devil finds evil work for idle hands among them just as he does among more civilized peoples. War kept them busy and highly trained physically. Now they are going to seed because of the suzerainty of white men's governments that choose to forbid their popular pastime, but offer nothing to supersede it.

Perhaps no book published gives a more intimate picture of these savage peoples. Dr. Van Den Bergh writes of many other tribes than the pigmies, though he naturally found these stunted little peoples, who live always in shadows of the inaccessible wilderness as a protection against the ravages of their larger neighbors, the most interesting. It is a great adventure for them to get occasionally into the sunshine and the warm air. It is always humid, damp and stagnant in their forest homes.

In The Literary Letter Box

LOVERS of the Hardy novels and of the most charming of English counties will find thorough enjoyment in "Hardy's Dorset," by R. Thurston Hopkins, who will be remembered for his previous volume, "Kipling's Sussex." The Appletons have just published the book. The author is one of those trampers who get in close touch with the folk among whom he wanders, with a keen eye for all sights reminiscent of old times and literary landmarks, and a pen apt for recording the folklore of these old English counties. The scenes of the Hardy novels are visited; with admirable exactness the reader follows in the footsteps of Tess, of Jude, Trenchard and the other Hardy characters. The actual citizens of Dorset are seen to be of the humors and habits of the Hardy creations. It is a book that delves deep into the ways of the Hardy country.

CHARLES W. ELIOT, President Emeritus of Harvard, makes comment upon "Hugo Muensterberg: His Life and Work" which has been written by the great psychologist's daughter, Margaret. President Eliot says: "Not only a very interesting portrayal of his character and work, but a vivid picture of an extraordinarily fertile and productive mind. Made very vivid are the astonishing rapidity, variety and volume of his writings, and his great contributions to the activities and influence of Harvard University during the years of his service there. Demonstrated is the extraordinary quality of the group of Harvard philosopher: Royce, James, Palmer, Muensterberg and Santayana—all gone now, and never to be replaced."

CHRISTOPHER MORLEY has been reading Stephen Graham's new book, "Tramping with a Poet in the Rockies" (Appletons) and as a result has been expressing his sentiments in his well-known column, The Bowling Green. "This book of Graham's is one every American with any noble folly in his heart should certainly read. Stephen Graham, that Herculean child, with the build of Jack Dempsey and the placid, pensive face of a Russian hierophant (a blend of hierophant and elephant, shall we call him?), has seen the meaning of America, the most inexhausted poem in the mind of man, in a way that those of us merged in the scuffle can rarely do. He took with him the poet, Vachel Lindsay. 'Tramping With a Poet' speaks for itself to the kind of 100 per cent Americans we approve—those of imagination all compact. It is deliciously humorous, too."

WALL street apears vividly pictured in Elizabeth Frazer's novel, "The Secret Partner." One wonders where and how Miss Frazer learned so much about the machinations that go on there. Perhaps between assignments on the Saturday Evening Post she managed to become executive, confidential or some kind of a privileged secretary to one of the Wall street magnates. As a matter of fact she has known not one, but a large group of America's biggest business men, such men as Charles G. Dawes, H. P. Davison, James Douglas, etc. It was in France that she knew them—where they were organizing the business of the A. E. F. As war correspondent for the Saturday Evening Post, Miss Frazer talked often with these big business men, who "wore their uniforms like the dickens," she says, "but whose splendid work stood out strikingly against the background of inefficiency which characterized the rest of the army." She came to have positive respect for American business men, and gained an insight into the financial world through her friendship with many of its representative figures. In fact the plot of "The Secret Partner" was suggested by a bit of personal history related to her by a Wall street man.

A NEWSPAPER THAT MAKES HISTORY," When Woodrow Wilson passed through Manchester he insisted on stopping to see Mr. C. P. Scott, the venerable editor and owner of The Manchester Guardian, that famous paper which exerts an undeniably great influence at home and abroad, being rivaled only by the London Times. Mr. W. Haslam Mills, one of the editors of the Guardian, has written a history of the paper which is in effect a history of liberalism during the last century, inasmuch as the life of the paper has been so inextricably bound up with the life of the nation. Mr. C. P. Scott has himself written an introduction especially for the American edition. The book is called "The Manchester Guardian, A Century of History," and is published by Henry Holt & Co.

A POET'S BIOGRAPHY. Walter de la Mare was born on April 25, 1873, at Charlton, in Kent. On his father's side he is French Huguenot, and there is Scottish blood in his veins which comes from his mother's ancestry. He was educated in London, at St. Paul's Cathedral Choir School, and for nearly 20 years worked in the English branch of the Standard Oil Co. of America, leaving his position there in 1910 to devote all of his time to writing. He married Miss Constance Elfrida Ingpen and has four children. The year 1902 saw the publication of his first volume of poems, called "Songs of Childhood." "Poems," 1906, followed, and in 1910 his first novel, "The Return," was awarded the Edmond de Polignac prize. In 1912 "The Listeners" established his position in England "among the foremost of our present-day poets," as it did in America when Henry Holt & Co. brought it out in 1916. This firm has since published five volumes of his poetry, in addition to "Collected Poems," 1901-1918, and "Down-A-Down-Derry," the recently published collection of his fairy poems illustrated by Miss Dorothy P. Lathrop. "The Vail and Other Poems," his latest volume, was also published this spring. But of all his writings, the most exquisite is the first-person novel, "Memoirs of a Midget." (Alfred A. Knopf.)

In the Contribution Box

"THE GIFT OF PAUL CLERMONT," by Warrington Dawson. (Doubleday, Page & Co.)

THE writer of this book, dedicated to Gen. Joffre, was a correspondent with the French armies in the 1914-16 campaign. Painful details are given of outrages in the ravaged towns, offset by abundant evidence that the recuperative trait of the French people, so repeatedly shown in history, still exists.

The story opens some years previous to the commencement of the war. An American philosopher and writer had taken up his abode in a French town, and there a French boy, the son of a workman, after repeated efforts won the newcomer's friendship. His reason for longing to know M. Aubret, he confesses, was that the gentleman was a stranger, from a land far over the seas, in the boy's mind a tropical land filled with such wonderful things as monkeys, parrots and alligators.

This young dreamer was later apprenticed to a locksmith and was accused of a theft of which another apprentice was guilty. Paul, the innocent boy accused, was sent to a reformatory. When released, he was adopted by his friend. "He was not a visitor," says M. Aubret, "nor an apprentice, nor a waif at anybody's mercy. He had become my Paul." Later it was proved that the charge against him had been false.

At the beginning of the war, Paul was too young to enlist, but later was allowed to join the colors, and there was a long period of active service, with letters sent intermittently, and occasional leaves of absence spent with M. Aubret, Paul grew accustomed to horrors and hardships.

While convalescing from a wound, he told his friend of his worst enemy in the trenches—"Monsieur Cafard." "Cafard," a French word which has the meaning of hypocrisy or scant, had been in some way converted by the soldiers into a term for homesickness, then for discouragement, despair, a melancholy and nervousness combined, which he said was the worst of enemies because it could not be killed.

However, it was a bullet to which Paul succumbed in the end. He had crept into an exposed section for a needed tool rather than send one of his men into danger.

The relating of the narrative in the first person through the eldest schollar is a happy method, as it makes the book more convincing as a story of the French, although written by an American. It is a creditable achieved work, not a piece of back friction padded with "Vive la France" and strains of the Marseillaise. Its strongest appeal to the reader is through the chief tragedy of war in France or in any other conutry—the heavy-handed smashing of the life of high-minded, gifted youth. JEAN WATSON.

"THE BRIDGE," by M. L. C. Pickthall. (The Century Co.)

THIS novel has for the starting point of its action the guilty conscience of a young engineer, Alan MacLear, builder of a gigantic bridge. Because of mercenary motives, MacLear has "skimped" on his materials, with the disastrous result that the bridge falls, and his brother is among those killed in the wreck.

When a disaster of this kind occurs in "everyday life," the responsible rascal may find himself hailed before a congressional investigating committee, whose notoriously ardent disposition and Pastor Maddock stripe of optimism may induce them to dismiss the whole business as "an act of God," instead of conceding it to be the consequence of human carelessness or culpable miscalculation. In this story, however, the hero is confronted, not with a congressional committee, but with the rumblings and troublings of his own conscience. The resultant "soul struggle," with a violent love story in C-minor fff! as accompanist, make the material of the book.

This new novel was recommended to us as one that is graphic, vivid, dramatic, swiftly driving, overpowering. So be it! The drama that is in it, however, is a kind of raucous roaring, and while it is sensational, it is scarcely thrilling. It was also recommended to us for its "constantly occurring felicities of expression which will be precious to those who recognize such things with instant pleasure." We hope we are not insensible to fine stylistic effects, but we did not register any especial awareness of them in the reading of this book. ROMAN BECKER.

That Seam-Loaded Ball Was Doctored; the Right Prescription Will Make Most Anything Seem Loaded

By Herman Wecke,
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.
(By Exclusive Wire From Ebbetts Field.)

BROOKLYN, Jun 14.—The Cardinals lost today in the opening game of their series here with the Robins

The score was 4 to 0.

About 3000 attended today's contest.

Vance showed a strikeout ball against Rickey's sluggers. He struck out two men in the first, one in the second and another in the fourth.

The Robins got a run in the fourth. Johnston started it with a single and crossed the plate on Wheat's double.

Two more runs were chalked up for the home team in the fifth. After two were out, Deberry, Vance and High singled, and when McHenry threw wild to the plate, Deberry and Vance scored.

The Cardinals got several chances to score but could not find Vance in the pinches. McHenry popped up with the bases filled in the fifth and Lavan and Pfeffer failed to connect with two on in the sixth.

FIRST INNING.

BROOKLYN — High tapped to Pfeffer. Johnston and T. Griffith fouled to Fournier. NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING.

CARDINALS—Stock popped to Olson. Ainsmith fouled to Olson. Lavan struck out. NO RUNS.

BROOKLYN—Wheat flied to McHenry. Myers doubled to right. Hornsby threw out Mitchell, Myers taking third. Olson lined to McHenry. NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING.

CARDINALS — Pfeffer walked. Flack forced Pfeffer, Johnston to Olson. Smith popped to High. High threw out Hornsby. NO RUNS.

FOURTH INNING.

CARDINALS — McHenry was called on strikes. Johnston went into short center for Fournier's fly. Stock walked. Ainsmith doubled to right, but Stock was out trying to score, T. Grififth to Deberry. NO RUNS.

BROOKLYN — Johnston singled over second. T. Griffith fanned. Wheat doubled to right center, scoring Johnston. On a short passed ball, Wheat was caught off second, Ainsmith to Lavan. Lavan's long throw retired Myers. ONE RUN.

FIFTH INNING.

CARDINALS—Lavan popped to High. Pfeffer doubled against the right-field fence. Flack walked. Smith popped to Olson. Hornsby beat out a slow roller to High, filling the bases. McHenry popped to Olson. NO RUNS.

BROOKLYN—Mitchell fouled to Ainsmith. Olson flied to Flack. Deberry singled over second. Vance singled to left, Deberry stopping at second. High singled to left and on McHenry's wild throw to the plate, Deberry and Vance scored, High reaching third. Hornsby threw out Johnston. TWO RUNS.

SIXTH INNING.

CARDINALS—Fournier grounded to Johnston. Stock walked. Ainsmith also walked. Lavan was called out on strikes. Pfeffer forced Ainsmith, Olson to Johnston. NO RUNS.

BROOKLYN—T. Griffith fouled to Ainsmith. Wheat rolled to Stock. Myers singled to left. Mitchell tripled to right, scoring Myers. Olson was called out on strikes. ONE RUN.

SEVENTH INNING.

CARDINALS—Flack popped to High. Smith out, Mitchell to Vance on first. Hornsby drove deep to Myers. NO RUNS.

WEISSMULLER CREATES FOUR NEW SWIMMING RECORDS AT HAWAII

By the Associated Press.

KAHLUI, Island of Maui, T. H., June 14.—Johnny Weissmueller of the Illinois Athletic Club, Chicago, smashed four world's swimming records here yesterday in a tank handicap race.

This is what the paddle marvel from the East did: Covered 400 yards in 4:40 2-5, or 14 seconds faster than the previous record mark; cut the time for 40 meters from 5:14 2-5 to 5:08 1-5; set a new record for 500 yards of 5:10; shaved the 500 meter time from 5:56 3-5 to 5:53.

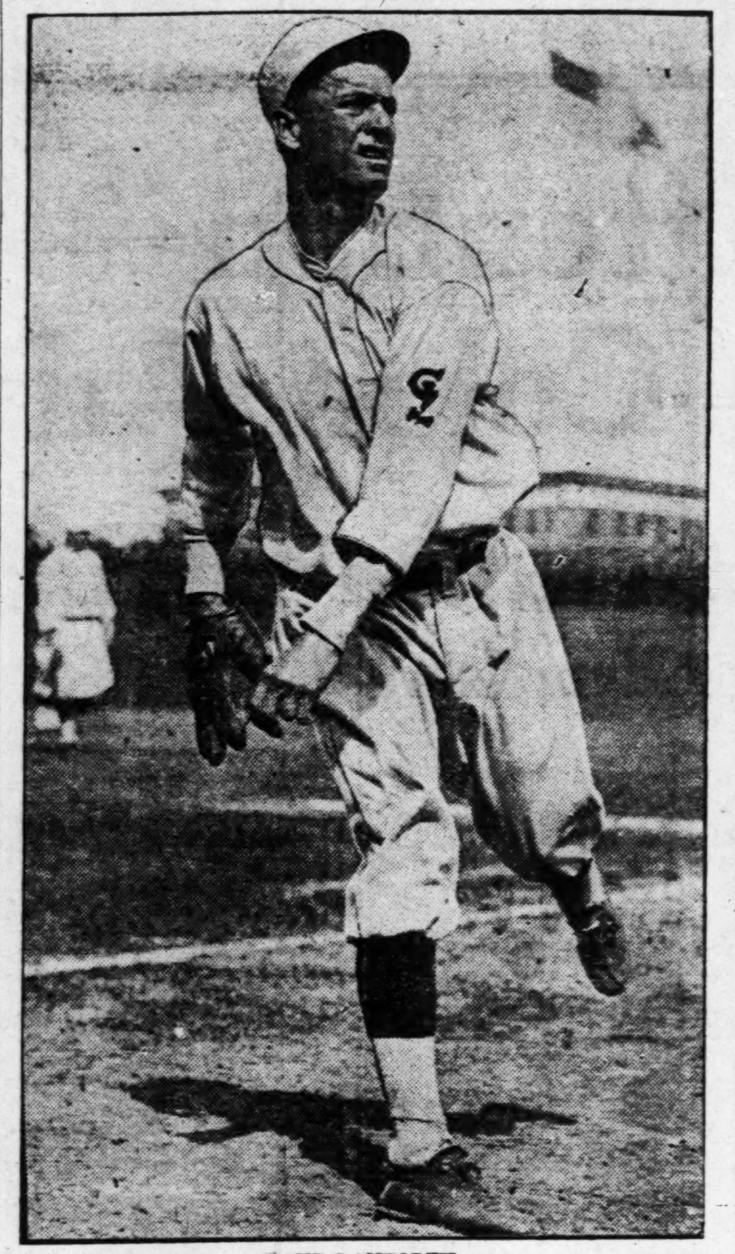

McTAGUE SAILS FOR BOUT WITH CARPENTIER

NEW YORK, June 14.—Mike McTague, boxer, was a passenger for Paris today on the President Adams. He hopes to arrange a bout that he says he has been promised with Georges Carpentier, light heavyweight champion of the world.

Malone Outpoints Downey.

AURORA, Ill., June 14.—After being knocked down in the first round of a 10-round bout last night, Jock Malone of St. Paul, rallied and won a decision over Bryan Downey of Columbus, Ohio, in the opinion of the majority of newspaper men at the ringside. They are middleweights.

Cleared of Doctored Ball Charge

DAVE DANFORTH.

He pitched and won his game from the Yanks, yesterday. One doctored ball, with "loaded" seams, was brought to the attention of Umpire Evans, who said the solitary specimen might have acquired its dirt-filled seam by accident.

LOCAL CREWS TO RACE FOR GIESSOW TROPHY

The Central Rowing Club barge crew will defend its right to hold the Giessow trophy in an annual regatta to be held on the Mississippi Sunday afternoon.

It is expected that a large field will compete for the Giessow cup, one of the largest and handsomest in local competition. The race will start at 4 o'clock and will be two miles in length, downstream. The finish will be opposite the Central clubhouse.

Last Sunday, at the Baden Rowing Club regatta, eight shells entered.

The Braves made it nine of their last eleven, and three out of four from the Pirates by way of the latter's farewell, 8 to 5.

SOLDAN HIGH BASEBALL CHAMPIONS PRESENTED WITH HARVARD U. CUP

The Harvard Cup, emblematic of the High School League baseball championship, was presented to Soldan High School, 1922 champion, at the school this morning. The presentation was made by George Oliver Carpenter, Jr., president of the Harvard Club of St. Louis.

The cup must be won three times to become the permanent property of any school. Soldan won the title by defeating Yeatman in the final game, while Central, its pennant rival, was being beaten by Cleveland.

NEW YORK U. CAPTAIN WILL JOIN GIANTS

NEW YORK, June 14.—Joe Flynn, the captain and shortstop of the New York University nine, will have a trial with the Giants next season. Arthur Devlin, chief college scout of the McGraw men, received the promise of Flynn yesterday to sign the necessary papers within a few days.

Flynn is one of the heaviest sluggers that have ever represented the Violet on the diamond. According to the latest college averages, Flynn has batted .515 in the 14 games New York University has played and has collected 14 home runs, or an average of one to a game.

KNOXVILE, Ia., June 14.—Jabber Young, of Chicago, and Pen Webster, of Buxton, Ia., fought a 10-round draw here last night. They are lightweights.

Mrs. Mallory Is Much Improved, Briton Asserts

American Tennis Champion Wins Again in Tournament in Progress at London.

By Herbert L. Bourke.
(Copyright, 1922.)

LONDON, June 14.—Mrs. Mallory scored a noteworthy victory in the Kent tennis championships at Beckenham yesterday when she beat Miss Coles, a player with considerable tournament experience, by scores of 6—2, 6—0.

In my opinion Mrs. Mallory is improving greatly in her play with each match. Her temperament in tournament play also is showing great improvement.

Edith Sigourney, victorious over Lady Floud by 6—3, 6—0, played a better singles game than 5 have ever seen her play before. She is playing her strokes well and also is showing much better singles tactics than has been the case before.

Miss Elizabeth Ryan won two singles matches, losing only two games in four sets. The California girl beat both Mrs. Lawrence and Miss Langlands, our players offering only moderate opposition to her confident stroking speed afoot. With Miss Lycett as her partner Miss Ryan also cantered through the first round of mixed doubles, beating Mrs. Helmere and Mrs. Mertons 6—0, 6—0.

LEADING 3-YEAR-OLDS ARRIVING AT LATONIA FOR KENTUCKY SPECIAL

CINCINNATI, June 14—Eleven entries are believed now to be in for the $50,000 Kentucky Special race, to be run at Latonia on June 24.

The list shows 23 entries, and it is believed at least 12 or 14 horses will start in the race.

The entries include all the prominent 3-year-olds in the East, Canada and Kentucky.

The certain starters are Morvich, Snob II, Hea, two from the Whitney Stable, Deadlock and Pillory, one from the Bradley Stable and possibly Serenader, Bradelbane and one or two others.

John I. Day wired that Tom Healy would ship Pillory and two or three other horses Saturday, that Morvich is scheduled to leave New York Sunday, and that Garth would send Snob II, and some other horses Monday.

OTTO KNABE RELEASED BY KANSAS CITY CLUB

KANSAS CITY, June 14.—Failure of the Kansas City baseball team to make a better showing in the American Association pennant race caused the release of Manager Otto Knabe, late yesterday, according to an announcement last night by George Muhlebach, president of the Kansas City club.

Wilbur Good, who has been with the team six years, will succeed Knabe, taking up his new duties tomorrow afternoon at Indianapolis, where the team will open a series.

Knabe, who took the managerial reins of the local club in July, 1920, served as coach for the Chicago Cubs before coming to Kansas City. In the days of the Federal League he managed the Baltimore club Knabe's home is in Philadelphia.

No Evidence to Convict Danforth

Bill Evans Says Dave Apparently Is Within the Law—One "Doctored" Ball Found.

Umpire Evans said last night that he had taken one baseball out of yesterday's game between the Browns and Yankees because it appeared to have been "doctored!" There was evidence of some substance having been rubbed into the seams, but there was nothing to indicate that Danforth had done this and Evans merely warned Dave to be careful.

Bob Meusel was caught in a run-up in the first inning and Sisler ran him down and tagged him. George tossed the ball to the pitcher's box and when the Yankees took the field one of them carried the ball to Evans. This was the ball which seemed to have been treated illegally.

Evans took it to the Brownie dug-out and exhibited it to Fohl and asked Danforth if he knew how the substance had reached the ball. Dave declared he had not done the "doctoring." Evans said he would not send the ball to Ban Johnson.

If Danforth does anything to the ball it is not in applying any foreign substance. That would have been detected long ago and Dave would be warming his feet among the outlaws. Evans said he found nothing illegal in Danforth's delivery.

In the absence of any convicting evidence, it seems that the umpires might let Dave pitch in peace. If he breaks the law, out with him, but while he is playing square, why not let him pitch without having to be interviewed by an umpire every inning? Talking to an umpire every inning is enough to upset anyone, even a pitcher.

The entire Dodger outfit blew out like a champagne cork in the fifth inning when the Cubs scored six times and then went on to win easily, 8 to 3.

Suzanne Unwilling to Defend Her Net Title, Mrs. Mallory Infers

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 14.—The English Lawn Tennis World is perturbed over the report from Paris that Suzanne Lenglen, for two years the holder of the woman's grass court championship, has developed heart trouble and her family physician insisting that she withdraw from the forthcoming championship tournament at Wimbledon.

There has been much expectancy over a possible meeting at Wimbledon between the French girl and Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory.

Mrs. Mallory had been keenly anticipating another meeting with Mlle. Lenglen, and today, when she learned the news from Paris, she said:

"I am extremely disappointed over Mlle. Lenglen's failure to defend her title. I am skeptical regarding her recent statement saying how much she wants to play me again. I don't think she is ready to face me again across the tennis net."

Patronize Local Tennis Tourneys, Tilden Advises

Loyalty to District Events Is Best Way to Build Up the Game, Champion Says.

By William T. Tilden II,
World's Tennis Champion, 1920-'21.
(Copyright, 1922.)

Every year finds greater demands on the tennis players of America, owing to the enormous increase in the tournament schedule. Some few seasons ago there were a group of tournaments known as the circuit that all the leading players attended and that ended the matter. It was more or less a matter of form. Today all that is changed. The whole year is one long invitation to play at this tournament or that, while all the committees seem to take a refusal almost as a personal affront instead of realizing that, much as the players wish to play in all the events, it is beyond their time or ability.

Let us glance at the grass-court season for a moment. It opens with the great tournament at the Agawam Hunt Club at Providence, July 10. Following each week come the Longwood Bowl at Boston, the Crescent Club in New York, the big invitation events at Seabright, Southampton and Newport, with the national doubles championship at Boston on their heels. That carries the schedule to the end of August. The Davis cup challenge round is held on Sept. 1, 2 and 4, at Forest Hills, L. I., with the national singles to follow the next week-end at Germantown Cricket Club, Philadelphia.

Can't Play in All Tourneys

Every tennis player in the game desires to compete in each and every one of these tournaments, but even that drive is too much for a man to stand without going stale. I know, for I have tried it and my friends tell me that I can stand a lot of tennis.

In addition to the events that I have listed, there are a few events in the post season like the East vs. West match, or the tournament at Virginia Hot Springs. These are now considered in the national ranking, which seems to me more or less unfair, for obviously the men who have borne the brunt of the season's play are so over-tennised that they cannot play within 15 of their game, and stand a great chance of meeting defeat at the hands of some player who should never score a victory over them and by so doing wreck the year's record of the first player.

Busy Even in Winter.

The early season and winter are full of indoor tournaments where cold makes outdoor play impossible, and then there are the outdoor events of the South. A leading player is swamped with requests to play in all these and often finds himself overtennised before the season arrives. I strongly advocate a careful arrangement of one's schedule with an eye to the national championship, or, in the case of some players who pick another event as the most important of this year, whatever it may be, that is the crown of achievement, and then the building up of one's game so that the pinnacle is reached at the event of greatest importance.

Do not try to play all the tennis events in any one year. It cannot be done. Play all of the biggest tournaments that you can and let the rest go hang if they do not meet in with your regular life. I think it is the duty of all players of any ability to support the local tournaments in their district. Loyalty to the game at home is the only thing that will build it up.

WALTER JOHNSON AND BAYNE HURL; McMANUS DOULES SISLER OVER

By J. Roy Stockton,
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, June 14.—Watler Johnson, the fireball king faced the Brown today in the opening game of the Washington series.

Bill Bayne was selected to hurl for the Fohl men.

With the departure of the Yankees the attendance returned to normal, there being about 3500 present.

Pat Collins was sent behind the bat by Lee Fohl, although Hank Severeid, who was put out of yesterday's game by Umpire Evans, received no word of suspension.

The umpires were Moriarty and Connolly.

FIRST INNING.

WASHINGTON—Smith was called out on strikes. So was Harris. Rice hit to left center for a home run. Judge flied to Shorten. ONE RUN.

BROWNS—Tobin bunted and was thrown out by Picinich. Gerber tapped to Johnson. Sisler beat out a roller to Peckinpaugh. Williams walked. McManus doubled down the lef-field foul line, scoring Sisler and Williams was out trying to follow him across the plate, Smith to Peck to Picinich. ONE RUN.

Herd Makes His 16th Hole in One

Feat in Scotland Always Is Attended With Much Ceremony and Libation.

Sandy Herd has made another hole in one, which brings his lifetime total up to 16. He achieved this last one-hole at Coombe Hill, Scotland, where he has been professional for 12 years. He was on a hole 162 yards long and he has made this particular hole in one three times.

Those who know Sandy say he has done this feat so frequently that it is no accident, that the element of luck has been minimized by Sandy's great skill. They say he knows every blade of grass on that hole and in those rare moments when the spirit moves he just steps up and shoots the hole in one.

This business of making a hole in one is attended with much ceremony at clubs on the other side. It seems that it is the unwritten law that a player who executes this feat shall stand drinks to everyone present in the club. He also gives his caddie a bottle of whisky.

Caddies over there, it must be understood, have reached that age of reason and judgment where they can accept a gift of this sort without compunction.

Ted Ray has pointed out that the hole in one is more often accomplished by the average and high handicap golfer than by the scratch man. Harry Varrdon and other famous golfers have never accomplished the feat.

VARSEY WINS ROYAL HUNT CUP AT ASCOT

Wills Formally Challenges for Dempsey's Title

Negro Boxer Posts $2500 Forfeit With New York State Athletic Commission.

RECOGNITION DEFERRED

By Bert Igoe,
The Post-Dispatch's Eastern Boxing Authority.

NEW YORK, June 14.—Harry Wills has come to the conclusion that he has posed long enough as the bronze patience on a pickel barrel.

After many months of meek, though dignified waiting to hear some word from Jack Dempsey in regard to a match for the world's heavyweight title, Wills has slapped his cards down on the table.

Yesterday, with his manager, Paddy Mullins, he walked into the Boxing Commission headquarters and officially challenged Dempsey, at the same time plunking down $2500 as a guarantee of good faith. This is the amount required by the commission as a deposit, before that august body will give "defi" a tumble. Wherefore it's a showdown all around.

The Boxing Commission must now decide whether it shall recognize the challenge and tolerate mixed bouts.

Rules Against Mixed Bouts Exists.

The Commissioners were not prepared to make an official decision on mixed bouts, and in a statement issued yesterday they shed little light on their intention.

The statement follows:

"Harry Wills challenges Jack Dempsey for a bout for the championship of the world and deposited this day with the State Athletic Commission a certified check for $2,500, according to the rules and regulations.

"A delegation of negroes, including William C. Anderson Jr., George Moore, a promoter from Oregon, and George W. Harris, from the Board of Aldermen and several others, called to inquire in reference to the attitude of this commission on mixed bouts in this state.

"The commission informed these men that there was no match at present scheduled between a colored boxer and a white boxer, and when there is such a match it would follow the usual procedure of having to be approved or disapproved —the same process that all bouts have to go through that are scheduled anywhere in this state.

"This will constitute the decision of the Commission on the mixed bout question. In other words it will show how the Commission stands on this matter."

The Commissioners should have given Wills an answer on the spot, in regard to mixed bouts. They once passed a rule against such set-tos. Wouldn't they be "bending the crab" if they let down the bars, now that Wills has challenged?

CHICAGO, June 14.—Preliminaries will be held Friday in the 440-yard and half-mile runs in the National Collegiate Athletic Association track and field meet which is to be held here tomorrow. The indications are that the existing records in both of these events will be lowered.

Following are the N. C. A. A. records as made last year:

100-yard dash, Paulu	10s
220-yard dash, Wilson	22 ⅗s
440-yard run, Shea	49s
880-yard run, Eby	1m. 52 2-5s

Two-mile run, Romig	9m. 31s.
120-yd. low hurdles, Thomson	14 2-5s
220-yd. hurdles, Desch	24 4-5s
Pole vault, Whelchel	12 ft.
Pole vault, Jenne	12 ft.
Pole vault, Wilder	12 ft.
Pole vault, Gardner	12 ft.
Shotput, Pope	45 ft. 4½ in.
High jump, Murphy	6 ft. 3 in.
Broad jump, Stinchcomb	23 ft. 3⅝ in.
Discus throw, Pope	142 ft. 2⅝ in.
Javelin throw, Hanner	191 ft. 2⅝ in.
Hammer throw, Redmon	133 ft. 9⅝ in.

Wray's Column

Thumbs Down.

JACK DEMPSEY, owner of that bononza, the copper riveted heavyweight championship fight cinch, worth one million at least, is waiting with bated breath today. Note we do not spell it "baited."

Palpitations are in order in Jack's cardiac region. Harry Wills, the black thunderbolt, has formally petitioned the New York Commission to force Dempsey to accept his challenge and meet his $2500 forfeit.

If the commission backs up Wills, Dempsey must fight. New York is about the only place where big money is obtainable, and if Dempsey ignored New York's mandate, he would have no place to go but out.

If he fights, Wills may win. Wills is a mighty walloper and a clever boxer than Dempsey. He was game enough to face the black dreadnought Sam Langford, when Sam was at his best, so he would not be intimidated by Dempsey.

If Dempsey loses, there passes from him that Aladdin's lamp, the championship, which has already conjured up for him hundreds of thousands of dollars, and promises to provide as many more—if Wills doesn't intervene.

Who Is Wills?

WILLS is a mere name, to most persons—but he's a real entity in the fight world. Here are some eye-openers about the bronze stevedore:

Age—30 years.
Weight—210 pounds.
Height—6 feet 3 inches.
Noted victims by kayo—Fred Fulton, 3 rounds, Jeff Clark 5, Sam Langford 7, Sam Langford 5, Sam McVea 6, Jack Thompson 8, Kid Cotton 2, Bill Tate 2, Gunboat Smith 1, and many others.

When Jack Dempsey views this array it might well cause him uneasiness, Here is a man bigger and stronger than himself, whose record is as thickly sown with knockouts as the champion's own; whose courage and skill have been through much more fiery tests than have Dempsey's; and who would be entering a title bout with everything to gain and nothing to lose.

New York Will Bar It.

NEW YORK will probably put its mandate against this engagement, as a matter of consistency. The rule against mixed racial contests has been on the books for some time. In such a conspicuous instance as this the august commission can hardly reverse its former position.

And yet the commission already has violated its own rule. It permitted members of different races to mingle in the garden, some months ago, when it let George Washington Lee, the Chinese boxer, battle against a white opponent—Midget Smith, it was, if memory serves.

"I Am Willing to Meet Wills or Anyone Else," Says Jack Dempsey

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 14. JACK DEMPSEY, heavyweight champion, welcomes the possibility of a bout with Harry Wills or any other capable opponent.

He made this plain in an interview when shown an International News Service dispatch that Wills has posted $2500 with the New York Boxing Commission.

"I'm willing to box Wills or any one else," said the big fellow, "provided a reasonable purse is offered and the match is handled by a recognized promoter. I want to defend my title, but I do not want anyone to think that my opponents are 'set-ups.'"•

About the Color Line.

BOXING commissions, in drawing the color line for ring events between mixed races, are acting in contrast to the attitude of the country toward inter-racial competition in other forms of sport. Negroes compete against whites in all sorts of college competitions, from football to sprints. Some of the country's greatest performers have been and are negroes. Howard Drew, Binga Dismond, Pollard, Robson, Mathews, Sol Butler are only a few of names of great Ethiopian athletes who have competed unquestioned on track and field.

Why the embargo in boxing?

There's only one athletic field the negro seems to have avoided —wrestling. Not in many years has a colored grappler come up.

• • •

What of the Public?

AS to the DOP that was only yesteryear chipping in $60 per ringside peep at big fights, what have they to say in the matter?

Not a word. The promoters declare they will arrange the match if the public "demands" it. But the public has no forum in which to demand.

As far as can be learned everyone who follows boxing closely favors matching the two best men in any class, white or black. And there is not the slightest doubt but that this bout would attract a crowd to the capacity limit of Boyle's 30 Acres, under proper weather conditions.

If the public's approval is all that is needed, that part of the public which wants boxing is certainly eager to see Dempsey tested.

An impression has gone forth that Dempsey fears Wills. It is based on two positive promises Dempsey has made to give the negro a bout—promises still unfulfilled. But—

Dempsey is fearless. If there has been any hesitancy about meeting Wills, it is because herespects Wills' ability, thinks of the possibility of his own defeat, and desires to harvest the last dollar, before taking a desperate risk against the black man.

Morvich to Start In Carlton, Then Ship for Latonia

Pillory and Snob II Will Depart Soon for Kentucky Special Battleground.

TEST FOR "OLD POISON"

Exterminator, Victor Again Yesterday, Will Meet Grey Lag, Saturday.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 14.—R. T. Wilson's Pillory, winner of the Preakness stakes in Maryland, the Belmont stakes last Saturday and $95,200, will go to Latonia, Ky., next Monday or Tuesday for a meeting with the unbeaten Morvich, Snob II and others in the Latonia Special of $50,000 on June 24, a race designed to bring together the winner of the Kentucky Derby and the winner of the Preakness and the Belmont stakes.

Trainer Tom Healey is confident that Pillory can beat any 3-year-old in training over a distance of ground and was more than pleased at Mr Wilson's decision to go after Morvich, when both horses are at their best.

No time was wasted in ordering a car for Monday or Tuesday so that Pillory will be on the ground almost as soon as Morvich and Snob II, which will leave here on Sunday.

Morvich to Race Saturday.

Fred Burlew once again gave assurance yesterday that Morvich would start in the Carlton stakes at the Aqueduct track on Saturday. It is his regular work day and he feels that he might just as well give him a good stiff race as a good stiff work and at the same time carry out Benjamin Block's purpose to give followers of the sport here a chance to see the unbeaten colt under colors in a real race.

J. S. Cosden's Snob II, which ran such a disappointing race in the Belmont Stakes, appears to have recovered all his high speed. He worked six furlongs yesterday morning in :12, :23, :35, :47, :59 2-5, for the five furlongs, and eased up the six furlongs in 1:14 2-5.

Many horsemen are still convinced that he did not run his race, last Saturday, and that he will more than redeem himself in future engagements.

"Old Poison" to Meet Grey Lag.

Getting away from the $50,000 Special for a moment, a word must be spoken of the Rancocas stable's Grey Lag and his most impressive work yesterday morning, for the Brooklyn Handicap at a mile and a furlong on Friday, when he will face Exterminator, among others.

The son of Star Shoot, running smoothly and easily, went to the mile in 1:37 2-5, to the mile and a furlong in the sensational time of 1:50 3-5 and to the mile and a quarter, eased up, in 2:05.

A year ago Grey Lag won the Belmont Stakes and the Brooklyn Handicap, among other races and stood out as the best 3-year-old of the season. Judging by his work yesterday he is ready to earn the unusual and high distinction of being the first double winner of the Brooklyn Handicap, which takes rank among the most sought features of the American turf.

International 18.2 Balkline Tourney to be Held Next Season

Virtually All Leading Players Consent to Change in Rules to Provide for Title Event.

Another international 18.2 balkline billiard tournament to decide the world's championship will be held in this country next season. Practically all of the leading players, including the present holder of the title, Jake Schaefer, have agreed to change the rules governing competition for the championship trophy to provide for the tourney. It is expected that offcial action in this connection will be taken in the immediate future, and that it will be decided to hold the event in New York City next November.

A short time ago it was learned that the foremost balkline players were in favor of changing the rules to provide for an annual international championship tournament with the proviso that the players who finish second, third and fourth in the event will be permitted to challenge the winner, thus providing for three challenge matches each season in addition to the championship tournament.

From an authoritative source it has been learned that this will be put in force. In order to make this change it was necessary to procure the consent of all those players who are still in line to challenge for the championship to withdraw or agree not to file any challenges for the trophy. Roger Conti, the young French professional who finished fourth in the international tournament held at Chicago last November, is the next in line to challenge for the title. As a matter of fact his challenge has already been filed.

A cablegram requesting him to withdraw his challenge has been sent to France but no direct answer has been received from him. Advices from France, however, are to the effect that the new arrangement will be acceptable to him and that he will comply with the request. Ora Morningstar has agreed not to challenge as have Edouard Horemans, the Belgian champion of Europe, and George Sutton, the veteran of Chicago.

It is now planned to limit the next tournament to six players three Europeans and three Americans. It has also been learned that Willie Hoppe will reconsider his determination to retire from competition and will enter the tournament. According to present plans, it is the intention to have Jake Schaefer, Willie Hoppe and Welker Cochran represent this country and Roger Conti of France, Edouard Horemans of Belgium and Erich Hagenlacher of Germany represent Europe in the next tourney.

Yankee Series Set New Attendance Record Here 75,000 Saw Four Games

ST. LOUIS attendance records were shattered by the Browns series with the Yankees, which concluded yesterday. More than 60,000 persons paid to see the games, and counting the passes to the four contests, the total attendance probably reached 75,000. Official figures are not available. On Monday, Ladies' day, 5676 women came through the turnstiles.

Saturday afternoon more than 17,000 persons paid, Sunday the paid attendance totaled nearly 25,000, while the games Monday and yesterday were each witnessed by 10,000 cash customers. More than 170,000 persons witnessed the eight games played by the two teams this year, as more than 102,000 paid to get into the Polo Grounds on the Browns' appearance in New York.

Reserved seats were hard to get during the series here just concluded. All sorts of ways were used to get the pasteboards. One employe of the park, who is a milkman in the early hours of the day, brought a note which a woman had left in his milk bottle. It said: "Milkman—Can you get us two tickets to Sunday's game? Call us, no matter what time you make your round. Mrs. Blank."

Greb Signs for Bout.

PHILADELPHIA, June 14.—Harry Greb, light heavyweight champion, was signed yesterday to box Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia middleweight, at the local National League ball park the night of July 10. The men will box eight rounds.

INTERNATIONAL MOTOR BOAT RACES PLANNED

DETROIT, June 14.—Organization of an international yachting body, known as the Yachtmen's Association of America, and which plans to stage annually an international motorboat sweepstakes race at 150 miles, was announced here today. Garfield A. Wood, American powerboat champion and holder of the Harmsworth trophy, is president of the new association.

The first of the sweepstakes races, which will carry a cash prize of $25,000, is to be held in Detroit River on Labor Day, 1923. The event is to be modelled largely after the Indianapolis automobile classic.

To be eligible, a boat must be of 25-foot length at the waterline, have a beam of five feet, passenger capacity of two and be capable of making at least 25 miles an hour.

Karl Kamman to Oppose Schwarz In Net Feature

Washington University Star Has Improved Since Rival Beat Him Last Fall.

By Davison Obear.

Karl Kamman and Elmar Schwarz will meet in the feature tennis match of the elimination singles tournament at the Triple A Club this afternoon. The Washington University star lost to Schwarz last fall in a close contest, but has improved his game this season and should force the former municipal star to a hard battle today.

Three other matches are on the program of play this afternoon. Ted Drewes will oppose W. R. Schneider in one contest, while Charlie Barnes will meet Wray Brown in another. In the third encounter Ted Heuerman is scheduled to play Dr. Levite, the Forest Park player.

Play in the first round of the doubles event will open at 3 o'clock. A large number of teams will take part. All matches in the opening round must be finished by tomorrow night. Entries for the event close at noon today.

Favorites All Win.

Five matches were played yesterday afternoon in the singles. W. R. Schneider advanced another round by winning from Ed Rice in three sets. The score was 3—6, 6—2, 6—4. Kamman had no difficulty in eliminating Harvey Frohlichstein, while Fred Josties won from J. L. Hawkins in straight sets.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS.

Men's Singles.

Second round—W. R. Schneider defeated Ed Rice, 3—6, 6—2, 6—4; Karl Kammann defeated Harvey Frohlichstein, 6—2, 6—0.

Third round—Charlie Barnes defeated W. Y. McBurney, 6—4, 6—1; Fred Josties defeated J. L. Hawkins, 6—3, 6—4; Ted Heuerman defeated William H. Eierman, 6—4, 6—1.

Today's Pairings.

Fourth round—Wray Brown vs. Charlie Barnes.

AMERICAN GOLFERS TO COMPETE IN CANADIAN TOURNEY AT HAMILTON

HAMILTON, Ont., June 14.—The Canadian golf championship to be decided the week of June 19 over the links of the Hamilton Golf Club at Ancaster will have a decided international flavor with a number of prominent American players on the entry list. Max R. Marston of Philadelphia, and Reginald M. Lewis of Greenwich, Conn., have promised to compete, and other Americans are expected to join the quest for Canadian honors.

The home contingent will be headed by the titleholder, Frank Thompson of Toronto, who led the field at Winnipeg last year, and three former champions—George S. Lyon, eight times winner of the Dominion's blue ribbon event; C. B. Crier, 1920 champion, and the veteran F. R. Martin of Hamilton, who captured this event in 1902 and again in 1910.

The Red Sox didn't get a hit off No-Hit Robertson until O'Rourke singled with two down in the eighth. Menoskey got the only other hit, and the White Sox coasted in, 5 to 0.

ENTRIES FOR DISTRICT JUNIOR GOLF TOURNEY MAY BE MADE ON MONDAY

Entries for the junior district championship golf tournament to be held at Westwood Country Club, June 19 to 24, may be made as late as Monday morning, the day of the qualifying round, Clarence L. Wolff announced today.

Wolff said that the list of entries was up to expectations, but said the committee in charge of the event had decided to give young players every possible opportunity to enter.

"We are making every attempt to heighten the interest of young boys in golf," Wolff said. "St. Louis is developing no good golfers now outside the caddy ranks. We want the sons of our golf and country club members to learn the game and develop St. Louis as a golf center.

"At present most of our good players are drawn from the caddy ranks. They are the only boys who take an interest in the game and, as a consequence, they develop more rapidly than the other boys."

Entries may be made in person, by mail or by telephone, to Wolff at his office, 1634 Boatmen's Bank building. Only sons of members of clubs in the St. Louis District Golf Association are eligible.

Oldham held the Senators safe while the Tigers went on about the business of winning the long end of the series, 5 to 1.

ARSEY WINS ROYAL HUNT CUP AT ASCOT
ASCOT, England, June 14.—Cold wet weather today dampened the ardor of society and put a hue of gloom upon this most fashionable of English race meets.
The royal hunt cup was won by Farsey. Stratford finished second and Crubenmore third.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 14.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"Trading in stocks was quieter today, sales running to about 1,000,000 shares, and the tone was generally steady. A few issues made spectacular recoveries, but fractional gains and those of about 1 point predominated. Bonds moved within a narrow range, the exception being the Mexican issues, which achieved advances of 6 or 7 points on more optimistic feelings regarding the progress of the difficult negotiations regarding the status of the Mexican debt. Call money opened at 3 per cent and was raised to 3½ per cent early in the fourth hour and to 4 per cent soon after the fifth hour had started. The stiffening, which was relatively slight, undoubtedly reflected the approach of tomorrow's large Treasury operations.

French Exchange Higher.

"A not unnatural recovery occurred meanwhile in the foreign exchanges. Sterling rallied ⅝ of a cent to $4.47⅛ and French francs, after climbing to 8.84 cents then dropping back 3½ points, were still 4 points better on the day. Italian lire participated in the movement, and German marks were firm at .32 of a cent. Cables from Paris reported that Germany has notified the Reparations Commission that she will pay the regular monthly installment of 50,000,000 gold marks tomorrow, while advices from Berlin indicate that the government will attempt to proceed with the financial reforms despite the failure of the loan project. Austrian kroner rallied slightly to .00⅝ of a cent, probably on reports of the progress being made in securing a release of liens on that country held by other nations. When such release is general, the way will be clear for the application of Ter Meulen plan or some similar arrangement to make foreign credits available.

Cotton Consumption Greater.

"Wheat prices rallied on reports of excessive heat in the West. Cotton, however, sold off despite a favorable consumption report for May. The latter showed that the number of bales taken by our manufacturing plants during the month amounted to 496,000 bales, as compared with 447,000 bales in April. May's taking corresponds almost exactly, in fact, to the monthly average for the crop year to date; that is, since last Aug. 1. The improvement which has taken place in the textile business during this period may be judged, meanwhile, by the fact that consumption during the past 10 months is 23 per cent greater than in the corresponding 10 months a year ago.

Steel Industry Situation.

"In the steel industry the trend of things is little changed, but activity is slightly more intense. Coal production has improved, and more coke ovens have been started and more blast furnaces blown in. For the past week Steel Corporation operations have exceeded 75 per cent of capacity, and the independents are working not far below this figure. Higher wages have been agreed on in the rolling mills and the price of steel products still tends upward. Demand, however, continues to be principally for prompt delivery, which is perfectly natural when the uncertainties as to prices engendered by the coal strike and the approaching reduction in railroad rates is considered."

IRREGULAR PRICE TREND FEATURES TRADE ON CURB

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 14.—The movement on the Curb Exchange followed pretty closely that of the big board again today. There was a further advance in the early dealings, with some fresh buying by commission houses and short covering by traders. Thereupon profit-taking developed and prices fell back.

Standard Oil stocks were not active. After advances ranging from a point to three points, they were affected by realizing sales. Anglo-American Oil was exceptionally strong on a report that the directors at the next meeting in London would restore the old dividend. Independent oils moved within a narrow range. Simms Petroleum was a feature on the side of higher prices, while Skelly Oil was weak on the announcement that a new stock issue of 100,000 shares was to be offered to shareholders at $10. There seemed to be good support in the market for Mexican Seaboard issues.

Hudson Motors was the feature in the motor group. The buying was based on report that the stock was to be listed Thursday on the Stock Exchange and also on rumored estimates of earnings indicating these were running at the rate of $9 a year a share.

Others members of the group did better. Phillip Morris was steady. Tobacco Products shares moved within narrow limits. Radio stocks were quiet and Swift International easier.

Beechnut, which has been quite weak for several days, declined again in the early dealings, but after losing several points there was a sharp recovery.

In the mining group, American Exploration was influenced by official announcement that field forces had been sent to the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

Clearings, Money, Silver

The St. Louis Clearing House Association report showed debits to individual accounts of $26,300,000 and debits to banks and bankers' accounts of $13,800,000, making a total of $40,100,000.

NEW YORK, June 14.—Call money, stronger; high 4, low 3, ruling rate 3, closing bid 3½, offered at 4, last loan 4, call loans against acceptances 2¾; time loans, steady; 60 days 4, 90 days 4, six months 4¼; prime mercantile paper, 4@4¼.

PARIS, June 14.—Prices were firm on the Bourse today; 3 per cent rentes, 58 francs, 15 centimes; exchange on London, 50 francs, 70 centimes; 5 per cent loan, 77 francs, 35 centimes. The dollar was quoted at 11 francs, 35 centimes.

LONDON, June 14.—Bar silver 36¼d per ounce; Money 2¼ per cent. Discount rates: Short bills, 2 7-16 per cent; 3 month bills, 2¼ per cent.

Lead, Zinc and Copper

Lead was quoted at $5.65 per 100 lbs in St. Louis today. Slab zinc unchanged at $5.40 per 100 lbs.

NEW YORK, June 14.—Copper steady; electrolytic spot and futures, $13.75@14. Tin—Spit and futures, $31. Iron steady; prices unchanged. Lead firm; spot $5.75@6. Zinc steady; East St. Louis spot and nearby, $5.42. Antimony—Spot, $5.12@5.37.

LONDON, June 14.—Standard copper—Spot, £61 10s; futures, £61 15s; electrolytic spot, £69; futures, £70. Tin—Spot, £150 12s 6d; futures, £161 17s 6d. Lead—Spot, £24 10s; futures, £23 10s. Zinc—Spot, £27 15s; futures, £27 12s 6d.

Wall Street News and Comment

—SPECIAL DAILY—

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 14.—After the sharp fluctuations of the two preceding days the stock market quieted down in today's dealings. Interest centered in the motor stocks, which, under the lead of Studebaker, were very strong, especially in the late afternoon. Realizing sales just before the close carried prices down somewhat from the top, but the final tone was steady, with net gains fairly general.

There was a further recovery in stocks at the outset, but this was quickly followed by realizing sales that were heavy enough to check the advance and bring about an irregular reaction later on.

The wheat market went higher, while the cotton market sold off.

Following the steady decline of the last week, French francs were somewhat firmer, and this had its effect upon the rest of the foreign exchange markets. In the bond dealings the chief incident was a vigorous rise in Mexican Government issues, which accompanied word from the Mexican agency here that the negotiations with international banking representatives for a settlement of the Mexican debt were progressing.

The stock market was once again governed by considerations of the immediate speculative position. The question was whether the violent fall on Monday, following a week of more gradual declines, had or had not corrected the reputed excesses of Wall street pools in the market of April and May. The fact that prices had been brought down in many instances over the greater part of the ground gained in those two months furnished a strong ground for believing that the reaction had been sufficient. At all events the speculative house had been put in better order again. Opportunity had been given for interests which were sellers when the upward movement was in the midst of its extravagances to buy back stocks five to 10 points cheaper and the indications were that this opportunity has been taken advantage of.

Call money was a trifle firmer, the rate on new loans getting up to 4 per cent, as against the extreme low of 2¾c.

Studebaker was the leader in the stock market of the day. Its advance was accompanied by the usual rumor of an extra distribution either in cash or stock, although the next meeting at which such action might be taken is not scheduled until over a month from now.

Mercantile Marines came down sharply in the afternoon on President Franklin's statement at the annual meeting that earnings had been running behind those of a year ago.

Other motor stocks, Pierce-Arrow, Maxwell, General Motors and Hudson Motors, on the Curb Exchange, were drawn along with Studebaker and the strength of this group made itself felt in the whole market during the final hour. New York Central, after an early advance, went down for awhile, when it was reported that the dividend for the coming quarter was not to be changed, but had a quick rally. The return of Sinclair Oil to the dividend list had evidently been discounted. The stock sold down after the news was out.

The Bond Market.

The sharp rise of Mexican Government external loans today was the feature of the bond market. Both the 4s and 5s rose several points on heavy transactions. This was another demonstration of the sensitiveness to the negotiations which have been going on recently between international banking representatives toward an adjustment of the Mexican debt. The Mexicans issued an optimistic report. The 4 per cent closed on Tuesday at 48 and the 5s at 57½. The former went well above 53 and the 5s advanced to around 65.

French Government bonds continued active and weak, particularly the 7½s. United Kingdom 5½s held their ground fairly well, while selling came into the city of Zurich 8s and Swiss 8s. United States Government bonds were strong, with the 4th 4¼s equaling their high for the year.

High-grade railway mortgages were irregular, although most of the changes were toward slightly higher prices. The speculative issues were stronger, with fresh buying in the New Havens, the Eries and the Peoria & Eastern incomes. In the industrial section the Midvale Steel 5s regained over a point, sugar bonds were strong, and the International Mercantile Marine 6s were steady despite the expected decrease in net earnings shown in the annual report for 1921 issued by the company today. New York Traction bonds and the Public Utility securities generally were little changed.

The quick sale of the $12,000,000 Cleveland Union Terminal Co's first mortgage 5½ per cent sinking fund gold bonds, series A, by a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co., was reported this morning. The bonds were offered at 99 and accrued interest to yield over 5.55.

Market Quiets Down.

The market today followed the customary procedure after the culmination of a very sharp decline and the ensuing first sharp rebound. Traders of the in-and-out variety, who bought Tuesday morning, were inclined to take their profits, while there was a general disinclination to follow prices up. This combination of moderate selling and reduced buying power was the technical explanation for the uncertain drift after a further advance at the opening.

Shipping Stocks.

Shipping stocks had a sharp rise at the outset on President Harding's communication to the chairman of the House Shipping Committee threatening to call an extra session of Congress in case the ship subsidy legislation was not put through at the regular session. Marine preferred ran up 2 points, Marine common over a point and American Ship and Commerce a point. These advances were, however, more or less sentimental and did not hold long.

Studebaker.

The rumor of an extra dividend on Studebaker is making its appearance once again. This time the street hears that the directors will make an extra payment of $5 a share at the next meeting of the board, which is scheduled for the last week in July.

Financial Notes.

The Boston Elevated Railroad declared a regular quarterly dividend of $1.37½ on the common stock and a semiannual dividend of $3.50 on the preferred, both payable July 1 to stock of record June 19. Next quarter the dividend on the common will be increased to $1.50, in accordance with the public control act, it is reported.

Commencing with the quarterly payment due July 20, the Dome Mines dividend rate will be increased from $1 to $2 per annum. Distribution of a capital repayment of $1 a share is contemplated before the end of the year, it is reported. A quarterly dividend of 50 cents was declared. The last previous dividend was 25 cents.

• • •

The Fisher Body Corporation reported a net income of $6,193,454 for the year ending April 30, 1922, after interest, tax and inventory adjustment, as compared with $4,369,[illegible] the previous year. This is at the rate of [illegible]

High Yield Bonds

THERE are still many opportunities for the investor to obtain a liberal rate of return with good security. However, careful discrimination is necessary. From our large list we mention the following offerings, which combine safety and good return:

The Mengel Co. 7s—1924-34
Central Coal & Coke Co. 6s—1926-37
Associated Simmons Hdw. Co. 7s—1925

—SPECIAL DAILY—

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 14.—After the sharp fluctuations of the two preceding days the stock market quieted down in today's dealings. Interest centered in the motor stocks, which, under the lead of Studebaker, were very strong, especially in the late afternoon. Realizing sales just before the close carried prices down somewhat from the top, but the final tone was steady, with net gains fairly general.

There was a further recovery in stocks at the outset, but this was quickly followed by realizing sales that were heavy enough to check the advance and bring about an irregular reaction later on.

The wheat market went higher, while the cotton market sold off.

Following the steady decline of the last week, French francs were somewhat firmer, and this had its effect upon the rest of the foreign exchange markets. In the bond dealings the chief incident was a vigorous rise in Mexican Government issues, which accompanied word from the Mexican agency here that the negotiations with international banking representatives for a settlement of the Mexican debt were progressing.

The stock market was once again governed by considerations of the immediate speculative position. The question was whether the violent fall on Monday, following a week of more gradual declines, had or had not corrected the reputed excesses of Wall street pools in the market of April and May. The fact that prices had been brought down in many instances over the greater part of the ground gained in those two months furnished a strong ground for believing that the reaction had been sufficient. At all events the speculative house had been put in better order again. Opportunity had been given for interests which were sellers when the upward movement was in the midst of its extravagances to buy back stocks five to 10 points cheaper and the indications were that this opportunity has been taken advantage of.

Call money was a trifle firmer, the rate on new loans getting up to 4 per cent, as against the extreme low of 2¾c.

Studebaker was the leader in the stock market of the day. Its advance was accompanied by the usual rumor of an extra distribution either in cash or stock, although the next meeting at which such action might be taken is not scheduled until over a month from now.

Mercantile Marines came down sharply in the afternoon on President Franklin's statement at the annual meeting that earnings had been running behind those of a year ago.

Other motor stocks, Pierce-Arrow, Maxwell, General Motors and Hudson Motors, on the Curb Exchange, were drawn along with Studebaker and the strength of this group made itself felt in the whole market during the final hour. New York Central, after an early advance, went down for awhile, when it was reported that the dividend for the coming quarter was not to be changed, but had a quick rally. The return of Sinclair Oil to the dividend list had evidently been discounted. The stock sold down after the news was out.

The Bond Market.

The sharp rise of Mexican Government external loans today was the feature of the bond market. Both the 4s and 5s rose several points on heavy transactions. This was another demonstration of the sensitiveness to the negotiations which have been going on recently between international banking representatives toward an adjustment of the Mexican debt. The Mexicans issued an optimistic report. The 4 per cent closed on Tuesday at 46 and the 5s at 57½. The former went well above 53 and the 5s advanced to around 65.

French Government bonds continued active and weak, particularly the 7½s. United Kingdom 5½s held their ground fairly well, while selling came into the city of Zurich 8s and Swiss 8s. United States Government bonds were strong, with the 4th 4¼s equaling their high for the year.

High-grade railway mortgages were irregular, although most of the changes were toward slightly higher prices. The speculative issues were stronger, with fresh buying in the New Havens, the Eries and the Peoria & Eastern incomes. In the industrial section the Midvale Steel 5s regained over a point, sugar bonds were strong, and the International Mercantile Marine 6s were steady despite the expected decrease in net earnings shown in the annual report for 1921 issued by the company today. New York Traction bonds and the Public Utility securities generally were little changed.

The quick sale of the $12,000,000 Cleveland Union Terminal Co's first mortgage 5½ per cent sinking fund gold bonds, series A, by a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co., was reported this morning. The bonds were offered at 99 and accrued interest to yield over 5.55.

Market Quiets Down.

The market today followed the customary procedure after the culmination of a very sharp decline and the ensuing first sharp rebound. Traders of the in-and-out variety, who bought Tuesday morning, were inclined to take their profits, while there was a general disinclination to follow prices up. This combination of moderate selling and reduced buying power was the technical explanation for the uncertain drift after a further advance at the opening.

Shipping Stocks.

Shipping stocks had a sharp rise at the outset on President Harding's communication to the chairman of the House Shipping Committee threatening to call an extra session of Congress in case the ship subsidy legislation was not put through at the regular session. Marine preferred ran up 2 points, Marine common over a point and American Ship and Commerce a point. These advances were, however, more or less sentimental and did not hold long.

Studebaker.

The rumor of an extra dividend on Studebaker is making its appearance once again. This time the street hears that the directors will make an extra payment of $5 a share at the next meeting of the board, which is scheduled for the last week in July.

Financial Notes.

The Boston Elevated Railroad declared a regular quarterly dividend of $1.37½ on the common stock and a semiannual dividend of $3.50 on the preferred, both payable July 1 to stock of record June 19. Next quarter the dividend on the common will be increased to $1.50, in accordance with the public control act, it is reported.

Commencing with the quarterly payment due July 20, the Dome Mines dividend rate will be increased from $1 to $2 per annum. Distribution of a capital repayment of $1 a share is contemplated before the end of the year, it is reported. A quarterly dividend of 50 cents was declared. The last previous dividend was 25 cents.

The Fisher Body Corporation reported a net income of $6,193,454 for the year ending April 30, 1922, after interest, tax and inventory adjustment, as compared with $4,809,948 the previous year. This is at the rate of $11.88 a share on the common stock, as compared with $8.92 the previous year.

The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co. declared the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents on the common and $1.75 on the preferred stocks, payable July 1 to stock of record June 20.

• • •

J. P. Morgan & Co. announced that the subscription books of the $12,000,000 issue of Cleveland Union Terminal Co.'s first mortgage 5½-per-cent bonds were closed today as soon as they had been opened.

The Air Reduction Co. declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1, payable July 15 to stock of record June 30.

The Elgin Watch Co. for the year ending April 30, 1922, reported net earnings of $1,275,181 after depreciation and tax from which dividends of $515,835 were paid.

The Candee plant of the United States Rubber Co., at New Haven, which has been closed since May 1, will be reopened July 5, it is reported. The plant makes rubber footwear.

The revenues of the British Government in the week ending June 11 were £9,803,327 and expenditures £9,963,833.

The Will & Baumer Candle Co. declared the regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent on the preferred, payable July 1 to stock of record June 15.

It was more or less of a crop-scare market in wheat on the Merchants' Exchange today, black rust report from North Dakota and reported heat damage apprehension from Kansas being influences. Export demand was said to be better. Shorts covered. Corn futures were higher. Primary corn receipts were under a year ago.

Liverpool closed ⅝d higher.

In the local cash grain market red wheat was 1c higher and in fair demand, mills buying. Hard wheat was nominally 1c higher. Cash corn was 1c to 2c higher. There was good general demand. Cash oats were ¼c to 1c higher. There was good elevator demand.

Wheat futures opened unchanged to lower, but soon turned upward, and moderate gains were made under influence of crop reports of heat in the wheat belt. Corn futures also ranged higher. Liverpool opened ½d lower and lated was ¼d off.

July wheat opened at $1.07, September wheat $1.08⅝, December wheat $1.12¼, July corn 60c, September corn 62⅞c and December corn 62¼c.

Grain exports for the week ending June 10, as reported by the U. S. Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 14.—There was a crop scare on and this was responsible for the sharp bulge in price early. The start was easier, there being some selling for Northwest accounts and locals. Black rust reports from North Dakota, damage by hail in that State and reports of heat damage over Kansas, parts of Nebraska and Missouri caused pit traders to cover their short wheat and accumulated long lines. There was commission house selling around top prices. Weekly Government crop report talks of premature ripening in parts of Kansas. There was an improved export demand for wheat at the seaboard and United Kingdom was reported in the market. A local house reported 60,000 bushels wheat sold to exporters. Receipts at Chicago were light but they were of good volume in the Southwest, and Northwest. Minneapolis reported a little improvement in the flour trade, but cash wheat was unchanged to 2c lower. Mills took a moderate amount of wheat out of this market.

Wheat closed 1⅞c to 2¼c higher; July, 1.12⅛c to 1.12¼c; September, 1.12⅞c to $1.13 and December, $1.16.

Corn was firm from the start, although the strength in wheat enabled bulls to force a good advance. Trade was slow and the feature was the lack of selling pressure until prices advanced over a cent. There was a better cash demand in evidence and spot corn was firmer in tone. Receipts continue of good volume, but primary arrivals were under a year ago.

Corn closed 1⅛c to 1⅝c higher; July, 62⅝c to 62¼c; September, 65⅝c to 65½c, and December, 66c.

Oats were firm with other grains. Northwest sold a little December oats on the bulge. There was a good demand for cash oats for shipment and exporters took over 100,000 bushels. Crop news is disquieting.

Oats were ¼c to ½c higher; July, 34⅞c to 35c; September, 37⅛c, and December, 39¾c to 39⅞c.

Provisions were higher. Advance in hogs and grain and buying by packers were factors. Some realizing by longs developed on the upturn.

Lard closed 2½c lower and ribs 2½c to 7½c higher.

Dry Goods Market Review.

NEW YORK, June 14.—Cotton goods markets were quieter yesterday, with prices maintained very generally in unfinished lines. Further slight advances were made in some of the unfinished goods. Yarns sold a little more freely. Silk goods markets tended toward unsteadiness, owing to the sustained high cost of raw material. Advances named in worsted goods were ascribed to the advancing cost of wool. Burlay markets were slightly easier. Jobbers reported steady trade in small lots for immediate shipment and some gain in forward orders.

Co-Operative Company to Begin.

CHICAGO, June 14.—The National Livestock Producers' Association announced today that its producer owned and controlled co-operative commission company will open for business at the Union Stockyards here June 19. The Chicago Producers' Commission Association is the name of the new co-operative organization.

Sinclair Dividend.

NEW YORK, June 14.—Directors of the Sinclair Consolidation Oil Corporation today declared an initial quarterly dividend of 50 cents, payable Aug. 15 to stockholders of record July 15.

HOG SUPPLY MODERATE AND PRICES RANGE UP

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., June 14.—Today's estimated receipts: Cattle and calves, 6500; hogs, 12,000; sheep, 5500; horses and mules, 100.

CATTLE—A slow, indiffernet trade prevailed in most departments and the tendency was generally downward. An exception were some choice, good-weight steers which looked steady. The best of these cashed at $9 and $9.25 per cwt., the latter figure constituting the day's top. Veal calves—Values were barely steady with the mean close Tuesday, or $1 under that day's best time. The top was $9.25 and the bulk of best cleared around $9.

Quotations: Beef steers, high, $9.50; low, $6; bulk, $7.50 to $8.50; butcher yearlings, high, $9.50; low, $4; bulk, $7.25 to $8.50; butcher cows, bulk, $4.50 to $5.75; cutter cows, bulk, $3 to $3.50; canner cows, bulk, $2.75; beef bulls, bulk, $4.50 to $5; bologna bulls, bulk, $3.50 to $4.25; stocker and feedr steers, bulk, $5 to $6.50.

HOGS—Hog market reacted favorably on a moderate supply today, after five consecutive days of declining prices. General tone was a dime higher at the opening and later 10 to 15 cents up. The top at $10.65 showed but 10c higher, while the bulk cleared from $10.55@10.60, against $10.40@10.50 for the bulk the preceding day. Pigs and lights shared in the advance, good 120 to 150 pound stock clearing from $10.35@10.55 and lighter weights from $10@10.25. Rough sows sold mostly from $8.85@8.90 and stags $7.50@8.25.

SHEEP—Under continued liberal receipts sheep and lamb values recorded another severe price break today. General market was 50 to 75 cents lower on lambs, in addition to heavy sorts, which made the quality considerably better than the lambs offered yesterday. The top on lambs was $12.25 and the bulk sold in a spread of $11.50@12, some right good lambs going at $11, with culls from $5@5.75. Lightweight sheep sold from $5@5.75 and heavies $2@2.50.

HORSES AND MULES—With receipts and demand light, horse and mule trade ruled slow and barely steady during the first half of the week. Commission receipts in both departments figured about 300 head.

NATIVE HORSE QUOTATIONS.

NATIVE MULE QUOTATIONS.

Draft mules (16 to 17 hands), $175@250; sugar mules (16 to 16.3 hands), $175@225; mine mules (15.1 to 15.3 hands), $150@200; mine mules (14½ to 15 hands), $85@125; top cotton mules (15.1 to 15.3 hands), $100@150; farm mules, $120@150; cotton mules (small, 14 to 15 hands), $60@90; small mules, $30@50.

COTTON LIST REACTS AFTER SHARP DROP

Liquidation in Afternoon Trade —Offerings Become Lighter on Decline.

NEW YORK, June 14.—Reports of favorable weather in the South and easier Liverpool cables led to a renewal of scattering liquidation in the cotton market early today. The opening was barely steady at an advance of 1 point on September, but generally 15 to 19 points lower, with October selling off to 21.63c and December to 21.38c. Liverpool was a seller here and there was scattered southern selling, but prices rallied shortly after the call on New Orleans and Wall street buying. Private advices said that contracts were scarce in the New Orleans market, which probably explained part of the buying here, while there was a moderate trade demand for near months and some buying by houses with Japanese connections. Private cables from Liverpool reported liquidation there, and said that Manchester was doing only a very moderate business.

The census report showing domestic mill consumption of 495,674 bales for May was about in line with expectations, or a little bullish if anything, in the opinion of local traders. The weekly report of the Weather Bureau, however, seemed less unfavorable than looked for and the market was easier during the middle of the day, under continued scattering liquidation. October contracts sold off to 21.56c and December to 21.33c, or 22 to 27 points net lower.

There was continued liquidation during the early afternoon, with October selling off to 21.38 and December to 21.17, or about 38 to 45 points net lower. Offerings then became somewhat lighter and the market steadied up on covering, with prices showing a rally of 10 to 15 points from the lowest around 2 o'clock.

Spot cotton quiet; middling, 22.30c.

NEW ORLEANS, June 14.—Spot cotton quiet, 25 lower; sales on the spot, 134; to arrive, 130; low middling, 20.25c; middling, 21.75c; good middling, 22.75c. Receipts, 2757; stock, 171,705.

St. Louis Spot Cotton.

May Cotton Consumption.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Manufacture of cotton in May showed an increase over April, 495,674 bales having been consumed, or 48,831 bales more than April, the Census Bureau's monthly report indicated. Of the increase in consumption, the cotton-growing states utilized 14,363 bales more. Cotton-growing states consumed 331,771 bales and all other states 163,903 bales. More than 67 per cent of the month's consumption occurred in the cotton-growing states.

Active cotton spindles showed an increase of 263,803 over April, the May total having been 31,653,061, of which the cotton growing states had 15,530,285.

May exports dropped 143,262 bales below those of April, with a total of 469,397 bales. That was smaller than May exports last year. For the 10 months ending May 31, however, total exports were 5,451,809 bales, compared with 4,701,671 bales for the same period a year ago.

Cotton consumed during May amounted to 495,674 bales of line and 52,344 bales of linters, compared with 440,774 of line and 48,071 of linters in May last year.

Cotton on hand May 31 in consuming establishments amounted to 1,419,836 bales of lint and 159,251 bales of linters, compared with 1,280,723 of lint and 216,252 of linters held a year ago, and on hand in public storage and at compresses 2,561,007 bales of lint and 94,181 bales of linters, compared with 4,738,267 of lint and 269,376 of linters so held a year ago. Imports amounted to 14,329 bales, compared with 10,542 in May last year.

Exports for May were 469,397 bales, including 12,061 bales of linters, compared with 477,389 bales, including 4340 bales of linters exported in May last year.

Travel-Stained Car Leads to Arrest of Man Giving Goldthwaite, Tex., as His Home.

Shelton Walker, 22 years old, of Goldthwaite, Tex., admitted after his arrest today, the police announced, that he recently had driven three stolen automobiles from points in the South and had sold them here.

Two detectives driving east on Washington boulevard, noted a travel-stained automobile, with a broken spring, coming west. They stopped the driver and asked him if he wanted to sell the car. "That's just what I am trying to do," the driver said, "$350." When he learned that his questioners were officers, he told them that he was trying to sell the car for a man who was waiting at Ninth and Olive streets, and driving there, the police arrested Walker.

He said that he had sold a Buick automobile stolen in Austin, Tex., to the Yahlem Motor Car Co. here for $300 and a Ford stolen from Shreveport, La., to a chance street acquaintance in St. Louis for $250. He stole a Dodge, he admitted, in Dallas and had brought Melvin Quinn, 23, a barber, with him to St. Louis. He said that Quinn, who was driving the car when the officers noted it, did not know that it had been stolen.

"RESOLUTION DAY" AT LABOR CONVENTION

Amalgamation of Unions by Industries Into Single Organizations Proposed.

CINCINNATI, June 14.—This was "resolution day" for the convention of the American Federation of Labor.

Delegates favoring radical change in the American trade union movement made their first move in the convention today by introducing a resolution for the amalgamation of existing unions by industries into single organizations.

The resolution was introduced by E. H. Fitzgerald and others, representing the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, and proposed that the "American Federation of Labor take the necessary action toward bringing about the required solidarity within the ranks of organized labor, and that as a first step in this direction that the various international unions be called into conference for the purpose of arranging to amalgamate all the unions in their respective industry into single organizations, each of which shall cover any industry."

Recognition of Soviet.

Several resolutions dealt with Russia. The Brotherhood of Railway Clerks asked that the American Federation of Labor demand that the United States Government recognize the present Russian Government and the State Department negotiate a trade agreement with the soviet."

Other resolutions asked the Federation to investigate to the "alleged discriminatory action contemplated by Harvard University toward barring Hebrews as students, recognition of the Mexican Government headed by President Obregon and repeal of the Esch-Cummins transportation law principally because of the Railroad Labor Board, created under the law, reducing the wages of the rail workers.

The Ku Klux Klan was declared by a resolution to be "detrimental to the best interests of the working people and directly opposed to the Constitution of the United States."

Amnesty for political prisoners also was favored by a resolution.

Peoria Resolution.

The Peoria Trades and Labor Assembly presented a resolution asking the convention to "congratulate" Alexander Howat and August Dorchy, leaders of the Kansas miners, who have been imprisoned for refusing to "acquiesce in the establishment of slavery" by submitting to the judgments of the State Industrial Court.

The opening ceremonies were in observance of flag day, during which President Gompers declared that America "stands in its best sense as the apothesis of all that is great and true, free, democratic and humane" and declared there can be no real freedom where "labor is enslaved."

Survey of Crime in City Planned.

A study of crime in St. Louis and a comparison of the situation here with that in other cities will be made during the coming year by the Department of Delinquents and Corrections of the Community Council. Miss Carol Bates, secretary of the Missouri Welfare League, was yesterday elected chairman of the Department, and Mrs. W. R. Chivvis, secretary of the Girls' Protective Association, vice-chairman.

Three Drowned in Big Muddy River.

By the Associated Press.

HERRIN, Ill., June 14.—Three persons have been drowned in the Big Muddy River near Blairsville, Ill., in the last three days. N. A. Downey, 34 years old, a coal miner, and his wife were drowned yesterday when a boat in which they were fishing capsized. Downey sacrificed his life in attempting to save his wife. Helen Moore, 12, of Johnston City, was drowned Sunday when she waded into deep water and was swept downstream.

MAN ARISES FROM BED AND STABS SLEEPING WIFE

Henry C. Hall, 45, Apparently Demented, Held for Observation—Woman in Serious Condition.

While presumably demented, Henry C. Hall, 45 years old, of 722 Academy avenue, arose from bed at 11:30 o'clock last night and stabbed his sleeping wife, Margarette, 38 years old, in the head and right and left breasts with a paper knife.

Mrs. Hall's screams aroused the neighborhood and Hall was disarmed and sent to the city hospital, where he is being held for observation. Mrs. Hall is at the Baptist Sanitarium in a serious condition. Hall could give no coherent explanation of his deed.

The Cleveland Union Terminals Company

First Mortgage 5½% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, Series A

Unconditionally guaranteed both as to principal and interest, jointly and severally by endorsement, by the New York Central Railroad Company, the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railway Company and the New York, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad Company.

Interest Payable April 1 and October 1.

Principal and interest payable, at the option of the holder, in New York City or in Cleveland, Ohio.

Redeemable at 105% and accrued interest on 90 days' notice, at the option of the Company, in whole, but not in part, on April 1, 1942, or any interest date thereafter, and for sinking fund semi-annually, beginning October 1, 1927.

Coupon bonds in denominations of $1,000 and $500, registerable as to principal, and in denominations of $100 (not registerable.). Fully registered bonds in denominations of $500 and $1,000, and authorized multiples thereof. Coupon and registered bonds, and the several denominations, interchangeable.

The issuance of these bonds has been authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission and by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

THE UNION TRUST COMPANY, CLEVELAND, OHIO, TRUSTEE.

Mr. O. P. Van Sweringen, President of the Cleveland Union Terminals Company, has summarized as follows, his letter to us describing this issue:

The bonds will be secured by direct first mortgage on all of the property now owned or hereafter acquired by the Terminals Company, either in fee or in perpetual leasehold or easement, for or in connection with its Union Passenger Station and Terminal facilities, covering approximately 23 acres of land centrally situated in the City of Cleveland, but with the reservation of rights as to portions of the mortgaged premises above the spaces to be used for the terminal tracks, structures and their appurtenances and the operation thereof.

The New York Central Railroad Company, The Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railway Company and the New York, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad Company own all of the capital stock of the Terminals Company, and jointly and severally will unconditionally guarantee these bonds by endorsement both as to principal and interest.

The series A bonds are to be redeemable by means of a cumulative, semi-annual sinking fund of $34,000. The first payment to be made June 1, 1927. Sinking fund moneys are to be applied to the purchase of bonds at a price not exceeding 105% and accrued interest or to semi-annual redemption by lot at 105% and accrued interest should the bonds be unobtainable by purchase at or below that price, the first redemption by lot to take place October 1, 1927. The sinking fund is calculated to be sufficient to redeem, at 105%, all of the series A bonds before maturity.

The above bonds are offered for subscription, subject to issue as planned, and to approval of Counsel, at 99% and accrued interest, to yield over 5.55%

Subscription books will be open at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co. at 10 o'clock a. m., Wednesday, June 14, 1922. The right is reserved to reject any and all applications, and also, in any case, to award a smaller amount than applied for. The amount due on allotments will be payable at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., in New York funds, the date of payment to be specified in the notices of allotment, against delivery of temporary bonds exchangeable for definitive bonds when prepared.

Why Standard Oil Company (Indiana) Gives Better Service

WHEN you drive up to a Standard Oil Company (Indiana) Service Station you find a man in charge who is competent, quick, agreeable—at your service. The farmer finds these same qualities in the man who drives the dark green tank wagon to his door.

If you were to enter any one of the refineries of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) you would be astonished to note the air of absorption with which each employee is devoting himself to his job.

The same interest may be observed at any point where you come in contact with employees of this Company. This condition is not a matter of mere happening—chance. It is because the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) recognizes the fundamental interest of labor in the business to which it is devoted.

Throughout the years, it has been the continued policy of this Company, to compensate its employees fairly; to give them steady work; to insure them so far as it is possible against unemployment.

To protect the employee who has grown old in the service, the Company has devised and put in effect an annuity plan whereby the employee who has given his best years, or who has become incapacitated in the service, is insured an income for the balance of his life. In no case is this annuity less than $300.00 a year and it may be as high as 75 percent of his average yearly wage for the 10 years preceding retirement.

This policy gives the employee a sense of security respecting his future. It enables him to do better work and gives him a more vivid interest in his work.

Long experience has convinced the management, the employee, and the stockholder of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) that this policy of recognizing the rights of the employee is one of the factors which enables this Company to give to the public a superlative grade of service in the manufacturing and distributing of petroleum products.

WRITE for The BOOK of the PLAY describing Yellowstone NATIONAL PARK

And it is a play—the greatest on earth with Nature's own actors. 100 dancing geysers, countless springs boiling in gorgeous colored basins, seething "paint-pots" of liquid pigments, spluttering mud volcanoes.

The play goes on ceaselessly with a stage setting of flower-carpeted valleys, majestic mountains, roaring waterfalls and marvelous canyons of indescribably beautiful colorings. While the bears, buffalo, deer and elk roaming at large, give the completing touch to the grand ensemble.

The beautiful book describing Yellowstone, and containing maps and information regarding camps and hotels, is free. Write for your copy.

Please mail me the book, "Yellowstone National Park," and send information about the

In This City-Wide Sale

2100 of the best stores in St. Louis are making special prices on Puritan this week. And all of them are making extra special prices on Puritan by the case.

So buy it by the case.

You've never had such an opportunity before. Puritan Hop Flavored Malt Sugar Syrup is the richest malt extract made. No other malt extract even pretends to compete with it. The malt is made only of the choicest barley. The hops are always the pick of the latest imported crop. And the balanced flavor of Puritan malt and imported hops is the envy of the trade.

Look for the display of sales announcement in your neighborhood store and in the big stores. Remember, special prices everywhere.

So buy it by the case if you can and by the can if you can't. But lay in as much as possible of your summer supply right now.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls, or answers by mail, cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity, when accompanied by stamped adressed envelope.

B. C. H.—The first officers' training camp opened at Fort Riley, Kan., on May 8, 1917, in this district. The second camp opened on Aug. 27, 1917.

ANS. TO QRS.—Write to the Secretary of State, Jefferson City, Mo., for information regarding notary publics. There are not particular requirements for appointment.

THANKS.—Forest Park in St. Louis contains 1380.52 acres of ground. It is the second largest park owned by a city in the United States. Fairmont Park, in Philadelphia, is the largest, containing over 3000 acres.

WANTS TO KNOW.—Watch the advertisements and write to the Kansas Labor Bureau, Topeka, Kan., for information regarding the possibilities of employment as a harvest hand during the wheat season.

JOSE R.—You might be able to obtain the address of your friends in Chicago, Cincinnati and Cleveland by consulting the various directories of those cities at the Public Library or the Gould Directory Co., 204 North Seventh street, St. Louis.

ANNE I.—Birthstones for the months of June, July and August are agate, ruby, sardonyx. Any inexpensive gift such as flowers, stationery, either plain or monogramed, books, etc., would be a suitable gift for your girl chum who will graduate this month.

J. W. B.—No, the Government does not guarantee deposits in banks which are members of the Federal Reserve System. The word "executive" is pronounced as you indicated with the accent on the second syllable. The word "municipal" is pronounced as if it were spelled mu-nis-i-pal with the second syllable accented.

FAN.—John "Stuffy" McInnis of the Boston Red Sox excelled in 1921, defensively playing through 152 contests with only one error. The leading batter last year was Rogers Hornsby of the Cardinals who finished with a mark of .397. Carl Mays of the New York Yankees was the most successful pitcher in the American League, winning 27 games and losing 9.

APPRECIATIVE.—The sulphur candles if strong enough should be efficient in destroying the bed bugs. Try new candles and fumigate again and also use the following prescription: To half gallon of kerosene oil add a quart of spirit of turpentine and an ounce of pennyroyal. Another good remedy is benzine, pure and simple, or mixed with a little oil of mirbane. It evaporates quickly leaving no stain. The only trouble is the inflammability of its vapor.

PATRI.—June 14 is Flag day. On June 14, 1777, the United States Congress declared "that the flag of the 13 United States be 13 stripes, alternate red and white, and that the Union be 13 stars, white on a blue field, representing the new constellation." In 1794 Congress declared the number of stars and stripes be increased to 15. On April 4, 1818, Congress again reduced the number of stars to the original 13 and enacted that an additional star be added for each state admitted to the United States. The flag was declared to be a sacred emblem to be used for patriotic purposes.

HOUSEWIFE.—To can cherries for home use: Wash the fruit and remove the stems, see that they are all firm and not overripe. Weigh the amount of cherries to be canned. Boil sugar and water together to make a thin syrup using sugar to the amount of one-third of the weight of the cherries and two and a half or three cups of water. Cook a small quantity of fruit at a time to preserve the shape of the fruit. Fill sterilized jars with the fruit, add syrup enough to overflow quickly put on rubber jar rings and screw on the lids. Let stand until cold, then screw covers on as tight as possible to make air tight.

LEGAL INFORMATION.

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association.)

JOE.—In our opinion you are entitled to the maximum bonus of $250.

MRS. M. D.—Inquire at the United States Veterans' Bureau, 6801 Delmar, for information concerning compensation for widows of ex-soldiers.

T. E. S.—As the wife died before her parents, the husband is not entitled to any share of her parents' estate. It would not be necessary to mention him in their wills unless they cared to do so.

H. O. O.—"Nolle prosequi" means, literally, "to be unwilling to prosecute." In criminal proceedings it means that the case is dropped, but does not mean an acquital of the accused, he can be prosecuted later for the same offense.

EX-SOLDIER.—You can get a marriage license at any county seat in Missouri, and use it in St. Louis. As a rule notices of marriage licenses are not published in the St. Louis papers if obtained at a distance over 25 miles from St. Louis.

A. C. L.—We do not know how long it would take to obtain a divorce in Tennessee, as it would depend on the circumstances. If not contested the time would not be longer than six months after the suit is filed. A person could be married in Missouri immediately after getting a divorce decree in Tennessee.

MRS. W. A. M.—It depends on what the contract of employment is between the company and the girls. If there is nothing said regarding absence from work, presumably the company has the right to deduct for a day's absence. If the girls are made to work over time they can demand extra pay unless they agreed to do so without pay at the time of employment.

WM. M.—You can sue the company for the back pay, if you think that you would be able to collect a judgment against them. Or you can try to get some of their creditors to file a petition asking bankruptcy proceedings, in which case you would have a preferred claim on their assets. Your claim is a prior one, and the company must pay it before any of the creditors. You are entitled to interest on your money also.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnoses or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

MARLOWE.—We think the paste you describe would be injurious to the hair, and eventualy to the scalp.

KITSY.—The tapeworm does not shed its skin like a snake.

I THANK YOU.—Many causes may result in the white of the eye turning to a yellowish color, such as jaundice, general ill health, etc. Overdoses of quinine are poisonous. Iodine applied to the chest would not cause the eye to change color.

MRS. E. B.—We do not know the ingredients of the preparation you mention, so we cannot recommend its use. The girl should be examined by a physician to determine the cause of her condition. The electric needle is the only dependable remedy for removing hair permanently. The cost depends on the operator.

ST. CLOUD, Minn., June 14.—Jacob Stellar, 17 years old, after confessing yesterday afternoon the shooting of his father, claiming it was accidental, last night admitted that the shooting was intentional, according to the County Attorney.

FOR A CONSTIPATED CHILD

MOTHER, when one of the children is constipated are you going to give the first laxative within reach? It is dangerous to do so. Some have been known to rupture the intestines of little children. Don't be beguiled by the outside sugary appearance. Look into the formula. Calomel is seldom necessary; salts, minerals, coal tar, never!

Unlike these, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is admirable for children, as it is for grown people, too. Mothers have been giving it to children for 30 years. They know it does not gripe, and is free from narcotics. The formula is on every package, and you can see it is vegetable, just a combination of Egyptian Senna and other laxative herbs with pepsin. Use it yourself and you will find it is not necessary to take it every day, nor to increase the dose, and that it is pleasant to the taste. Bottles can be had at all drug stores, and the cost is only about a cent a dose. Have no hesitancy giving it to a baby in arms. It is absolutely safe.

Half-Ounce Bottle Free

Few escape constipation, so even if you do not require a laxative at this moment let me send you a Half-ounce Trial Bottle of my Syrup Pepsin FREE OF CHARGE so that you will have it handy when needed. Simply send your name and address to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 514 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Write me today.

MILK FUND BENEFIT BRINGS $146 PROFIT

The lawn show given for the Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund last Friday evening at 4351 Maryland avenue by pupils of rooms 9 and 6, Field School, under the direction of Miss Antoinette Dames, earned $146 to help save the lives of young children of poor persons. The program included, in addition to several song and dance numbers, a short play entitled "The Birds' House Hunting" and a pageant, "The Masque of Childhood."

Nearly 100 children were interested in the promotion of the benefit. Particular credit is given to Jane Doty, Lucile Mouse and Louis and Robert Niemeyer. Others who took part were: Norman Amass, Dorothy Anderson, Florence Bensinger, Mae Breckenridge, Olga Chandler, William Darby, Helen Davis, Grace Dieselkamp, Thad Erdman, Roma Fisher, Marie Freise, Stuart Graham, Mabel Jones, Margaret Kirten, Margaret Krause, Lee Lagan, Charlton Messick, Cecelia Mitchell, Myrtle Moore, Joseph Moores, June Newell, Elmer Nevinger, Joseph Nolan, Teddy Thompson, Pericles Pasmezoglu, Arthur Saunders, Albert Smith, Louise Spaete, Anthony Thomas, V. Five girls from the 5900 block of Washington boulevard contributed $6.50 to the Milk and Ice Fund, which they earned by giving a show at 5922A Delmar, Monday evening. Their names follow: Caroline Veatch, Janith Meginnis, Esther McNay, Janet Donaldson and Sylvia Singer.

Billy Kelsoe, Benjamin Harrison and Phil Clancy cleared $4 by the sale of wild flowers and forwarded that amount to the fund for the babies.

Elizabeth and Louise Renard of 4 Beverly place made a cash donation of $5, and W. E. Kilburn gave a like amount. Refreshments were served by the children.

NEW YORK TIMES REGRETS MISREPRESENTING ST. LOUIS

Apologizes for Reprinting Chicago Judge's Statement Greatly Exaggerating Number of Murders.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 14. — The Times, in an editorial apology, headed "St. Louis Justly Offended," expresses its regret at having given currency to the erratic and inaccurate statistics of Judge Gemmill of Chicago in which the statement was made that St. Louis had 423 murders last year. The editorial apology is as follows:

"A Chicago Judge, William N. Gemmill, found or made occasion to say in a recent public speech, that St. Louis was one of the worst crime centers in the United States, and among other statements made by him in support of his charge, he declared that in that city last year 426 murders were committed, 53 to every 100,000 inhabitants.

"Parts of Judge Gemmill's speech were printed by the Times last Sunday under a headline that emphasized his murder statistics. As it happens, there exist between St. Louis and Chicago feelings approximating in warmth those which mark the relations between Minneapolis and St. Paul, and, therefore, the Judge's comparison was resented in St. Louis with a peculiar bitterness. But it chances that much, perhaps all, of the resentment was justified.

"Either the Judge was misreported, as he says he was, or he spoke without knowledge, for it seems that in St. Louis last year there were only 113 murders; the larger figure apparently referred to arrests for murder.

"Some remarks on this subject from the secretary of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce were printed in the Times yesterday, and they deserved attentive reading, and there are set down here the paper's regrets that it gave currency to statements by which the citizens of St. Louis were grieved and offended."

The Time to Buy

Is when the other fellow wants to sell, and this rule applies whether you are contemplating the purchase of a home, a hat or even your noonday lunch. Buying at such a time means a certainty that the price quoted will be the LOWEST, that the service rendered will be the BEST and that for the money expended you will get the maximum of both QUALITY and QUANTITY.

This is especially true in the purchase of a used motor car at this time. Our plans call for the immediate sale of all our used cars and that this policy may be followed out we have forgotten profit, we have disregarded all previous standards of value and have arranged the hitherto unheard-of credit plan of

NO CASH DOWN PAYMENT

Meaning that we will sell used motor cars without the usual payment of cash before delivery is made. That you may own one of these cars and pay as you ride, on easy monthly payments. However, this sensational offer is not permanent, it lasts only as long as the present stock of used cars is available. When they are sold, gone is your golden opportunity, for we shall then revert to the usual terms and prices.

A LOVER IN CHAINS

CHAPTER XXII.
"I'll Kill Her."

THE eyes of the two men met for an instant and clashed. Then Stanhope smiled in his secretive fashion and exclaimed genially:

"Please accept my congratulations, Traill. I hope the wedding went off like a house a-fire and that I'm not too late for a glimpse of the happy bride and a bite of lunch."

Whatever the man's purpose was in coming here, Donald was taken in completely. Evidently Gay had invited him to that ill-omened wedding. Certainly he had dressed for such an occasion and bore himself with the air of a welcome if somewhat tardy guest. However, he had sufficient wit not to offer Donald his hand.

"Mrs. Desmond is ill and our wedding has been postponed," Donald said shortly.

He turned abruptly and went upstairs, leaving Stanhope in the wide corridor watching him. Stanhope continued to smile, drawing off his gloves in an absent-minded way and handing them over to the footman, together with his hat and stick. Then, as Donald disappeared, he strolled into the ballroom and joined the small party who were still discussing the luncheon and the unpleasant contretemps which had taken place.

"Hello, people!" he exclaimed genially. "What's this about Mrs. Desmond being ill? The bridegroom seems positively vicious. Nearly snapped my head off, just now. This looks more like a funeral than a wedding to me."

Mrs. Walters, who was feeling very jolly by this time, giggled outrageously, and told Mr. Carlisle joined in the mirth. Little Ritchie tugged at his mustache, feeling most uncomfortable. He was not a brainy young man, but he understood the principles of cricket and it scarcely seemed to be playing the game to sit here eating a woman's food and drinking her wine, while covertly criticising her.

"I don't see anything to laugh about," he said uneasily.

"Well, it is rather funny," said Mrs. Walters, mopping her eyes. "Gay does everything in such style, no expense spared, y'know, and then at the last moment gets a headache or a change of heart—I dunno what to think. Waiter, another bottle, please."

Ritchie was disgusted. He rose and pushed back his chair with the muttered remark that he wasn't aware this was a restaurant.

The butler brought another bottle, but did not pour any more champagne into Mrs. Walters' glass and she had just enough sense not to insist.

"I'm off," said Ritchie.

"Fussy little bounder," Mrs. Walters flung after him. "Dear me, Mr. Stanhope, you should have seen him twisting and turning and jerking at his silly moustache while Mr. Traill and he cooled their heels at the altar for nearly three-quarters of an hour."

"Good gracious! Do you mean to say she kept the whole church waiting that long, before she sent word?" Stanhope exclaimed, giving an excellent imitation of horror.

"She did," said Carlisle. "Man, it was no joke even for me, although I was only in the vestibule."

"No, it doesn't seem much like a joke," Stanhope agreed. Nevertheless he smiled.

"Thank God I can always see the humor of everything," Mrs. Walters declared, frowning at her empty glass and then casting an imploring look at the blind butler.

"And how did Traill take it?" Stanhope asked, as thirsty for information as Mrs. Walters was for wine.

"Very well, indeed," old Carlisle replied, wagging his head solemnly. "I'd jilt any woman who played a trick like that on me—if it was a trick."

Stanhope lit a cigarette and leaned back comfortably. He was thoroughly enjoying himself.

"Catch a fellow like Traill jilting 30,000 a year," he said.

"What I want to know is, where was she all that time?" queried Mrs. Walters. "If only we could get the servants to talk, I bet they know. She went off in her own car. The chauffeur and footman know, and I'll bet they've told the others."

Again her watery eye implored the butler, but apparently he was deaf as well as blind.

"Most extraordinary," murmured Stanhope. "But very likely she has satisfied Traill. With thirty thousand a year hanging in the balance, I should think it would be easy enough to satisfy him."

"I don't think she's seen him," said Mrs. Desmond's aged relative.

At that momen, however, Donald was seeing Gay. He went straight up to the small boudoir, where it was her custom to receive him, and here he found the nervous young housemaid instead of the capable Phelps.

The girl said that Mrs. Desmond was lying down, and a trained nurse was expected any moment.

"Has the doctor given her something to make her sleepy?" Donald asked.

"Is she actually in bed?"

"No, sir. I wanted to help her undress, but she won't let me touch her."

"I see. Does she seem very ill to you?"

"No, sir. She seems ever so much better than this morning, in fact. It was awful this morning. After she sent Miss Phelps off, I didn't know if I was standing on my head or my heels"——

"Haven't you two discussed me enough?" Gay's voice broke in harshly. "Agnes, you may leave the room."

Gay laughed, and came forward uncertainly, but in her eyes was a great dread.

"Oh, Donald, Donald?" she cried. "Will you ever forgive me! I—I couldn't help myself. I was in a terrible state. Didn't Dr. Middleton tell you?"

Donald assisted her to the couch. She was still in her wedding finery, but the delicate dress was all crushed and draggled.

"Yes, he told me that you had been drugging yourself," Donald replied quietly.

"That's a lie!" she cried. "What a terrible thing for a doctor to say! I'll sue him for libel—I'll"——

"It was quite right of him to tell me," Donald interrupted, "I might have—married you."

She gave a great sob and held out her arms.

"Oh, Donald, don't forsake me when I'm in such trouble! I can't bear it. I—I've been caught in a trap. I must have time to think; there must be some way to get out of it."

She evaded his question and pressed her hands to her face.

"Listen, Donald. I will tell you the truth. I was so nervous this morning it seemed as though I couldn't go through with it all unless I had something to buck me up. You know I gave up drugs"——

"You told me you had given them up," he corrected.

"Well, so I had. You take a drink if you want one, don't you? Well, it was like that with me. I just wanted something to steady my nerves. So I—so I"——

"Go on," Donald said grimly. "I am listening. So what did you do?"

"Well, I was desperate, so I drove around to Joyce's"——

"To Joyce's?"

"Yes, Joyce St. Clair; you know I haven't seen her for some time. We quarreled about my not exactly approving of her, but I knew that Joyce would be only too willing to let by-gones be by-gones, and she always has stacks of dope. Heaven knows how she manages to get it"——

"Yes," said Donald. "Where does Miss St. Clair live?" His voice was steely.

Gay became slightly impatient. "You know as well as I do. She has a flat in Westminster. Well, of course, all that took time and"——

"I've heard enough," Donald interrupted. "You said you were going to tell me the truth."

"Do you doubt my word?"

"I don't doubt that you've been taking drugs, but you never got them from Joyce St. Clair."

A crazy notion came into Gay's head that if she were skillful enough she could make him eat his words. A hint to Joyce would be sufficient.

"You'll see," she said angrily, reaching for the telephone. "Double-o, three, double-six Victoria." She gave the number with great assurance, glaring at Donald as she waited for a reply. "Hello! I want to speak to Miss St. Clair if she is in. Tell her Mrs. Desmond • • • Miss St. Clair. Yes • • • Double-o, three, double-six Victoria? Yes, that's the number I want • • • Oh! • • • Oh, are you quite positive? Two or three months?"

She threw the receiver back into the hook and sank down exhausted.

"If you had given me a chance I could have spared you all that," Donald said quietly. "It doesn't amuse me a bit to get a woman into a tight corner, but you were so determined to do it. Joyce gave up the flat a long time ago. She also, most definitely to my certain knowledge, gave up that detestable habit."

"How do you know all this?" Gay demanded hoarsely.

"I have known it for a long time. She lives with her sister and is engaged to be married to my friend, Maclean."

"Then you've seen her recently."

"I saw her last night at Maclean's."

"And her sister, too?"

Donald winced. The violent snubbing Millie had given him still rankled.

"Millie was there. Terence was having a tea-party, but I wasn't expected."

Gay's face grew positively haggard. "You'll marry that girl, now! I shan't be able to stop you • • • Yes, I shall. I won't let you marry her. I'll—I'll kill her first—"

"Stop! Are you mad? Good heavens, Gay, control yourself."

He grasped her hands and forced her back upon the couch. Her eyes seemed to glitter with red fire and little flecks of foam appeared at the corners of her mouth.

At that moment to his utter relief, Agnes ushered in the nurse Dr. Middleton had sent. He was thankful to note that she looked to be a strong and very capable woman.

Gay's hysterical voice trailed off and she sat shivering as though with intense cold.

"Come, I think the best place for you is bed," said the nurse. Then she turned to Agnes. "I want some hot blankets and a hot-water bottle at once; and then send this out to be filled. It's the doctor's prescription. I'll wait until you come back before getting into my uniform."

Indeed, it was plain that Gay had worked herself up to a dangerous pitch. There was no longer the slightest use in questioning her even if the truth could be reached.

Donald felt that he was in the way and the nurse made it quite clear to him that he could be of no assistance, so he took his departure, promising to look in again later on.

VACATION CLOTHES FOR THE TRIP TO THE MOUNTAINS

By MARGERY WELLS.

OF COURSE, there are all sorts of mountains—high and low, near and far. But whatever their situation, if you plan to spend your holidays in the hills you will need a certain sort of clothes, differing vastly from those that are necessary for—say—seashore wear.

Suppose, just for instance, that you are bound for the great Northwest. You will need but a suit and a pair of knickers for riding and not much else, for there is no teaing and dining out there in the open. There is no need for finery. And if, once in a while, you do strike a hotel, you will find your trousers just as acceptable at dinner time as any fluffy expression of an evening dress. More so, in fact, for the air is always cold, the atmosphere is one of strictly "roughing it." So don't overburden yourself with baggage, but go prepared to live in tweeds and woolen blouses and to enjoy yourself on that basis.

In the cold, high-up mountains a linen or a muslin blouse looks like so much foolhardiness, once you have struck the heights. You wonder why you were senseless enough to cart them along. You wear one once with a sense of duty and after that you cling to whatever warmth you have been lucky enough to tuck into your baggage.

But for the nearer mountains you will need things that are not so thick and warm, but, nevertheless, of the same general character. Knickers are are absolutely essential, for you will want to walk and fish and ride and row, and for these pleasures you will need some sort of raiment that will give you the greatest possible freedom of movement. Nothing is better than a pair of knickers, even if they are of linen or a heavy cotton material, such as those pictured in the illustration on this page. These are durable and at the same time they reach the acme of picturesqueness, absolutely insuring the fact that you will appear at your best as long as you wear them.

You can have a skirt, too, to match the sleeveless coat. But that is only to wear when you are being most formal and dignified. I think you will find that you cling to the bloomers, or knickers, most assiduously, laying them aside with sorrow when it is time to return to town.

Then you need something warm in the way of an outer wrap. Make it a coat if you want all the service possible to wring from such a garment. The big sleeves help it to stay tucked into place much more surely and they make it warmer than a cape is under any windy circumstances.

Sweaters are mountain necessities. The fact is, that in the higher altitudes one can almost live in a sweater. There is hardly a moment of the day and never a moment of the evening when the coziness of the knitted jacket is not something to be desired. If you are staying away for any length of time, you will need more than one sweater, for one must be thick and ready for all sorts of hard wear, while the other must be knitted from a thinner variety of wool and a more delicate color so that it can be called into use at night when one naturally leans toward something a little more dressy even though it must be kept in the class of sports clothes.

A Jersey dress will stand you in good stead when you go to the mountains. You can have it a nice, light, summery color if you wish, but it will always possess that modicum of warmth for which you will be truly grateful. It may be a white Jersey this season, and in the mountains where things do not soil so easily as they do in some other places white is a lovely thing to wear. White knitted fabric is good, too, for this character of frock and the white flannel suits leave nothing to be desired in the way of actual smartness, not to mention the comfort that they carry hidden away in their folds.

Have a knitted hat or tam if you can. This will pull about your ears and will go with most of your dresses so that you need not worry about what will happen to it under the stress of wind and weather. When you wear a hat at all this is the sort to have.

And you need a scarf, too, that goes with it, both of which are guaranteed to fold into your baggage in the minimum amount of space. They shake out with a look like new, even though they have been packed for days under trying circumstances.

Here are other things you will need, some of them more in demand when you are really roughing it than when you are visiting the foothills in a hotel:

Stout waterproof boots that lace almost to the knees.
Separate skirt of khaki.
Separate breeches of khaki.
Walking stick.
Soft necktie of black silk or colors.
Woolen stockings.
Rubber-soled low shoes for walking.
Warm bathrobe.
Gingham frock simply made.
Slicker and rubber hat for rainy riding and boating.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

A Meeting That Wasn't by Chance

By Thornton W. Burgess

Far, far more often than you dream
Things are not as or what they seem.
—Mrs. Whitefoot.

WHITEFOOT the Wood Mouse kept away from that new home which he and Mrs. Whitefoot had made in the old home of Melody the Wood Thrush. Never had Whitefoot done anything quite so hard to do as keeping away from that home and Mrs. Whitefoot. Dozens of times he started in that direction to have just a peep at that home from which he had been driven, but each time he remembered that Mrs. Whitefoot had told him to keep away from there, and that Jimmy Skunk had advised him to do just as Mrs. Whitefoot told him to do.

For several days and nights he didn't get so much as a glimpse of little Mrs. Whitefoot. He wondered how she was getting along. He wondered if she didn't miss him a wee bit. He wondered if she found plenty to eat. These were only a few of the things that he wondered about. He was still very unhappy, but not quite as unhappy as he had been before his talk with Jimmy Skunk.

Then one night, just before the Green Forest became really dark, he chased a beetle around a stump and straight into the paws of little Mrs. Whitefoot. In fact, Whitefoot almost ran into her. "Oh!" he squeaked. Then, remembering how Mrs. Whitefoot had ordered him to keep away from her, he became fearful that she would think he had met her purposely. "I didn't know you were anywhere around," said he, rather crossly. "This is just a chance meeting. If I had known you were over here I wouldn't have come this way at all."

Little Mrs. Whitefoot chuckled to herself softly. That meeting hadn't been by chance at all. The truth is she had planned that meeting. She had been watching for Whitefoot when he started out to hunt for his supper, and then she had hidden behind that stump so that Whitefoot would be sure to meet her.

"Thank you, my dear, for this fat beetle," said she, sweetly. "It was most thoughtful of you to drive him straight into my paws."

"But—but—but I didn't mean to," stammered Whitefoot. "I didn't know you were there. As I've just told you, it was just chance."

Little Mrs. Whitefoot acted just as if she hadn't heard a word he said. "I am very hungry, for of late I haven't had much time to hunt for food," she chattered on. "It was just like you to be so thoughtful of me. I am sure this beetle is going to be the sweetest beetle that I have eaten for a long, long time. Don't you think, my dear, that when you have found your own supper it would be nice to come over to the house?"

"Wh—wh—what's that?" stammered Whitefoot as if he hadn't understood.

"I asked you if you don't think I would be nice to come over to the house after you have found your supper."

"Wha—wha—what's that" stammered Whitefoot as if he hadn't understood

"Why, of course I mean it," replied little Mrs. Whitefoot. "Why shouldn't I mean it?" '

Whitefoot didn't know what to say to that. He thought of how he had been driven away from that home and told to keep away. And now Mrs. Whitefoot was acting just as if nothing of the kind had ever happened. It was too much for Whitefoot. He didn't know what to think or do. The ways of little Mrs. Whitefoot were beyond his understanding. But finally he wisely decided to make the most of his opportunity. "Let's go over there right now," said he.

"But you haven't had your supper yet!" cried little Mrs. Whitefoot.

"I don't want any supper," declared Whitefoot. "I'm not hungry. I was chasing that beetle just for fun. I—I—let's go over there right now."

The eyes of little Mrs. Whitefoot twinkled mischievously. "Just as you say, my dear," said she, and started off to lead the way.

Fashion News Notes

LONDON.—Many of the new gowns have full hip draperies which cry aloud for a tall, slim figure. The draperies are so full and so hard to adjust gracefully that most women cut out a good share of the fullness, thus sacrificing the tiptop of fashion to the maximum of suitability. In the same way most women are cutting down the enormous width of the fashionable hat, though many stout women have learned that an ample brim makes them look less plump than does the snug little hat.

NEW YORK.—Straight back to Civil War days, as Paris conceives them, the newest summer frocks go for their inspiration. The long skirts, sweeping the instep; the bell sleeves; the slightly rounded necks with tiny turnover collars—these, surely, are the things our grandmothers were wearing when they heard the news of Gettysburg. But, as usual, when things from this side get to Paris they return with a difference. Hence the new frocks are of cool crepe de chine and crepe roumale instead of the stiff, hot silks of former days. In the thinner materials, however, they lose none of their charm.

PARIS.—French women are giving more and more attention to the dressing of the hair which is suitable for each costume. The Parisienne no longer considers it sufficient to find a becoming coiffure and stick to it throughout the day and evening, no matter what clothes she may happen to wear. With panier skirts and puffed-out effects, she wears a close-fitting coiffure, smooth and neat. With the very long, flowing frocks, she does her hair more loosely, along somewhat classic lines.

LONDON.—The taffeta gowns for summer often have a look of Hogarth about them. The bodices are semifitting and there is a well defined ridge where the gathers of the skirt join the bodice line. The vogue for dark blue taffeta for street wear on warm days has brought the complementary vogue for crisp white organdie ruffles at neck and wrists. These ruffles, too, are Hogarthian in effect. Instead of the ruffles a narrow ruching is sometimes used. The hems of skirts are often scalloped.

NEW YORK.—For those women who are never satisfied unless their outdoor costume is a suit, there is this season the cool and comfortable suit of crepe de chine. In dark blue, with quantities of accordion plaiting, there is nothing newer than a street costume of this sort. With it may be worn either a crisp white organdie blouse or one of white georgette. The suit collar, like the blouse collar, is usually a soft, turnover affair.

After-Dinner Tricks

No. 148—The Magnetized Hat.

The tips of the fingers of one hand are placed upon the crown of a derby hat. The hand is lifted, and the hat mysteriously adheres to the finger tips.

The secret depends upon a small black pin, which is previously pushed half-way through the crown of the hat. The point of the pin comes inside the hat and is bent at the middle. The pin cannot be seen, as it is pushed down so that the pinhead lies flush with the crown.

To work the trick, secretly pull the pinhead up from the crown and clip it firmly between the tips of the first and second finger. The hat may then be lifted with ease. In conclusion the pin is again pushed down into the crown and may be removed later.

Maxims of a Modern Maid

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall

WHEN a woman tells you she is going away next week because Henry simply won't hear of her spending the hot summer in the city, you wonder whether Henry is an unselfish martyr or a hypnotist.

If a woman quarrels with her fiance he is miserable till she forgives him, but a husband is made of tougher stuff—he recovers as soon as he is out of sight and hearing.

This is the time of year when some girls are collecting diplomas, while others are collecting frat pins—and it's still a question as to which is the better investment in the end.

One reason why every young man should "do something" is because he is so much easier to entertain. When other conversational resources fail, the stupidest girl knows that she can touch the button labeled "my career" and HE'LL do the rest!

It must be so nice to be a man. When a woman turns him down he troubles not himself with vain misgivings or soul searchings—he KNOWS he is merely the victim of feminine caprice.

People who prattle about "living in their children" perhaps fail to realize that the privilege is shared with cats and cows. It is only the human being who has the chance to be an individual, instead of a racial item.

AN ELECTRIC.

WHAT makes you look so gay, so gay?"
Said Housewife-on-Parade.
"I bought a new machine today,"
The Thoughtful Husband said.
"I hope it is a limousine,"
Said Housewife-on-Parade.
"It isn't run by gasoline,"
The Thoughtful Husband said.
"For I purchased an electric and I got the very best;
From your many household duties you're entitled to a rest.
So in this electric washer I decided to invest,
And we'll have a demonstration Monday morning."

TOO TRUE.

THE LOW-DOWN ON THE SAW-MILLING BUSINESS.

AN office man for a Chicago lumber concern decided to get into the business on his own account. Sight unseen for cash, he purchased a milling property in the White River bottoms of Arkansas at a figure which seemed to him highly attractive. He settled up his affairs in the city and caught a train for the South to take over the bargain he had acquired.

At a desolate way-station on the edge of a swamp he left the cars. The man from whom he had purchased, a lean, whiskered individual, met him with a team and buckboard, and together they started on the long drive 14 miles back in the country to the scene of the Chicagoan's prospective future operations. As they bumped along over the corduroy road the Northern man turned to his companion and said:

"I'm hoping to make a good deal of money out of this new line and I'm trusting to you to put me onto the ropes. I know something about the selling end of the game, but this is going to be my first experience in the actual getting out of the raw stock."

"Well, suh," said the late proprietor, "I'll give you my own experiences in the saw-mill business and then you kin draw yore own conclusions. This yere mill I sold you didn't cost me nary cent to begin with. When my father-in-law died he left it to me all complete and clear of debt.

"Labor ain't cost me nothin' because my two boys and me do all the work and we ain't never had to hire no outside help. And the timber we've cut ain't cost nothin', neither, 'cause, just between you and me, we been sort o' stealin' it off the land of a rich Yankee who owns a big stretch of the bottoms and ain't got nobody watchin' it.

"I've also been kind of favored in the matter of shipments, seein' that my cousin is district freight agent for the railroad and he fixes up things so part of the time our freightin' don't amount to nothin' small.

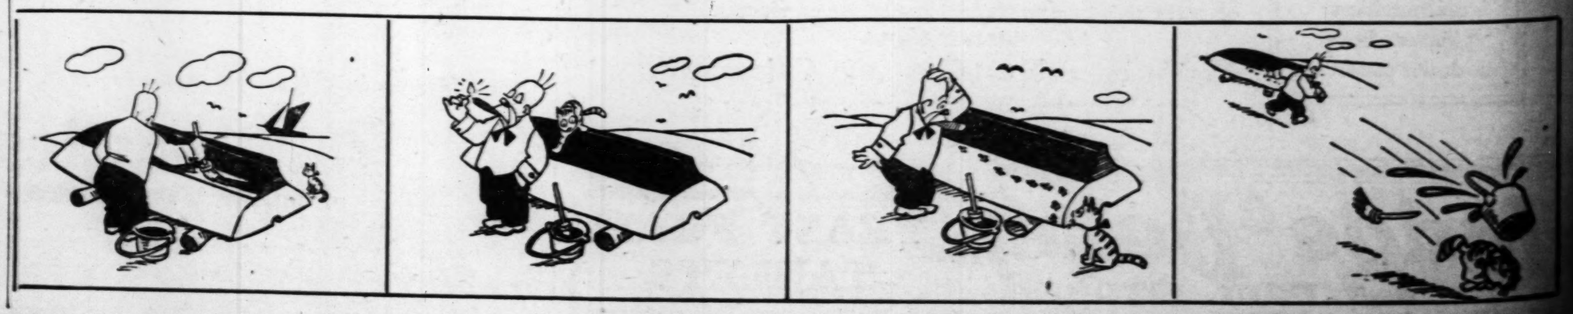

"So that's the way the stands—no wages for outside hands, no cost for timber and practically nothin' for freight bills.

START IS MADE TO CURB LIQUOR SALE ON SHIPS FLYING AMERICAN FLAG

Daugherty Will Be Asked for New Ruling, and Bill Is Introduced to Cut Off Subsidy From Any Vessel Which Violates Volstead Law.

LEADERS AWARE OF SALES FOR SOME TIME

Steamship Officials Appeared Before Committees Over Year Ago in Support of Bill to Authorize Serving of Liquor on Vessels.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Matters began shaping themselves today toward a definite action by the Government with respect to the sale of liquor on American ships as set forth in letters and statements made public by Anheuser-Busch, Inc., of St. Louis.

Indications were given at the Treasury that Attorney-General Daugherty would be asked in the near future to rule on the question of whether ships under the American flag, but beyond the three-mile territorial limits of the United States were subject to the prohibition amendment and the Volstead act. Acting Attorney-General Frierson, of the Wilson administration, held that they are, but Chairman Lasker of the Shipping Board in justifying the present sale of liquor on American ships has said that the board's counsel holds to the opposite of the Frierson ruling.

Another definite move was made through presentation to the House Merchant Marine Committee considering the pending ship subsidy bill of an amendment by Representative Bankhead, Democrat, of Alabama under which Government aid would be denied any American ship having liquor abroad either in storage, for sale or for any other disposition. The committee did not act on the amendment today and members declined to state how they regarded the amendment.

Statement by Cooper.

Soon after Representative Bankhead presented his bill, Representative Cooper, Republican, of Ohio, first in a statement and later in a speech in the House, declared he would support such an amendment as continuation of the selling of liquor on American boats "justifies the charge made by the Anheuser Busch Co. that Uncle Sam is engaged in bootlegging."

"No one will deny that the law breaker and the bootlegger in our land will be encouraged to carry on his work by reason of the policy of the Shipping Board," said Cooper, "for it places the Government in the position of admitting its inability and unwillingness to enforce its own laws."

Declaring the Government could not afford to permit this condition, Cooper added that the Shipping Board "has no more right to permit liquor to be sold on Government owned ships operated under the American flag than the moonshining and bootleggers at home has to dispense his bootleg whisky and raising jack.

"Disgraceful Condition."

"Our constitution prohibits the sale and manufacture of intoxicating liquor within the United States and its territories," said Cooper, "and yet we have the disgraceful condition of our Government owned ships sailing under the protection of our flag under which the spirit if not the letter of the law, is being openly violated."

Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, in a statement on the matter supplementing one he issued yesterday, said "the liquor situation on American ships is misunderstood by many in view of the recent decision of the Supreme Court" and added that "both foreign and American ships are now prohibited from transporting or possessing beverage liquor within the three-mile limit, irrespective of treaties."

The decision of the court referred to by Wheeler was delivered Dec. 19, 1921, in two cases involving the trans-shipment of liquor within the United States from one foreign port to another.
